24 RAILROADS DEFENDANTS

Action Follows Conference with Wickersham on Complaint of Western Shippers.

ROADS LOSE OTHER CASES

Commerce Commission Upheld by the Supreme Court in Missouri River and Denver Suits.

HANNIBAL, Mo., May 31.—Twenty-four Western railroads and the Western Trunk Line Committee were temporarily restrained to-night by United States District Judge David P. Dyer from enforcing or making a general advance in inter-State freight rates, scheduled to take effect to-morrow, June 1. The injunction was granted on a petition filed by the Government on the allegation that the advances in rates were agreed upon by the defendants without competition and in violation of the Sherman act.

This action followed a decision reached in Washington to-day by President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham to act on the complaint made by a committee of Western shippers yesterday and to prevent, if possible, the inauguration of the increased rates.

It was announced to-night that the date for the hearing on the restraining order will be fixed at St. Louis to-morrow.

The petition was filed in the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis this afternoon and was brought here to present to Judge Dyer, who is holding a session of the United States District Court. It stated that unless such a restraining order were issued the proposed advances would become effective at midnight to-night, to the grave harm and injury of the people of the United States.

The petition was presented to Judge Dyer by Edwin P. Grosvenor of Washington, special assistant to the Attorney General, and Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis, acting as special counsel. It was signed by George W. Wickersham, Attorney General; William S. Kenyon, assistant to the Attorney General, and Charles A. Houts, United States District Attorney.

The roads restrained from increasing their freight rates to-morrow are the Missouri Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, Wabash, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Illinois Central, Chicago & Alton, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé, Chicago Great Western, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, St. Louis & San Francisco, Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City, St. Paul & Des Moines, Minneapolis & St. Louis, Iowa Central, Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, Elgin, Joliet & Eastern, Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee & Gary, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, Kansas City Southern, and Chicago, Indiana & Southern.

The restraining order was issued on the statement of counsel for the Government that they would immediately file, by direction of the Attorney General, an expediting certificate under the act of Feb. 11, 1903, providing for a speedy determination of the issues in contention.

Generally speaking, the lines are the only ones for the transportation of freight and passengers in Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming, and parts of Montana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, and Tennessee.

Agreement Stifles Competition.

Referring to the unlawful combination and conspiracy alleged the petition says:

> The construction and maintenance of the lines of railroad have been encouraged and assisted by the United States of America and by the States and Territories, and by the people of said several States and Territories by franchises and by grants and donations of large amounts of land of great value and money and securities for the purpose of securing to the public and to the people engaged in trade and commerce throughout the United States and the region and country aforesaid competitive lines of transportation and communication.
> But for the unlawful combination, conspiracy, agreements, and understandings between the defendant railroads the defendants would have continued in the said inter-State transportation trade and commerce, in competition with each other, as to the rates and charges to be collected for the inter-State transportation of freight and passengers, and as to the facilities and advantages to be offered to the traveling public and to shippers of commodities in inter-State commerce, and would now be competing in said inter-State transportation, trade, and commerce.

The second part of the petition states that on Dec. 6, 1906, twenty of the defendants "conspired to suppress all competition between them in respect to fares and charges, and unjustly and oppressively to increase rates and charges, and to establish and maintain unreasonable and arbitrary rates which were to be greatly in excess of the rates and charges which would have prevailed but for the unlawful combination and conspiracy of the defendants."

The petition alleges that the railroads, "intending to monopolize the transportation, traffic, trade, and commerce between the difefrent States, did combine, conspire, confederate, and unlawfully agree to organize and become members in the Western Trunk Line Committee, with the purpose and object of using said Western Trunk Line Committee as a means for suppressing all competition between said defendants in the said inter-State transportation, trade, and commerce being carried on by the defendants as aforesaid."

The petition then cites the St. Paul & Des Moines Railroad, the Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern Railroad, the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railroad Company, the Chicago, Milwaukee & Gary Railroad Company, and the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railroad Company as later becoming members of the Western Trunk Line Committee and parties to the "unlawful combination and conspiracy."

NO BANKING AFTER MIDNIGHT.

The Night and Day Bank Finds That Business Doesn't Warrant It.

The Night and Day Bank, at 527 Fifth Avenue, has issued a circular to its depositors announcing that on June 15 a schedule of shorter business hours will go into effect.

Since the bank was started in 1906 it has been open to depositors during the entire twenty-four hours with the exception of Sundays and legal holidays, thus maintaining a standard unique among the banks of this city. A close watch, however, has been kept on the amount of business done after the regular banking hours, running from 9 to 3 o'clock, and the Directors have come to the conclusion that there is so little demand on the bank after midnight that they have decided to close at that hour. The bank hereafter will open at 8 in the morning and close at midnight. The safe deposit company will also observe the same hours of business in the future.

Since Jan. 2, 1908, the deposits of the Night and Day Bank have increased from $1,700,000 to more than $4,000,000. Its capital stock is $200,000, and the surplus and undivided profits on March 25 were $207,370. Samuel S. Campbell is President, and among the Directors are Robert M. Gallway, Henry F. Shoemaker, Joseph W. Harriman, J. Borden Harriman, Harrison K. Bird, and Bryan L. Kennelly.

ONE BOLT ENOUGH FOR THEM.

Caddies Forsake Century Links After Lightning Strikes Their House.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 31.—There was a scarcity of caddies on the links of the Century Country Club on the outskirts of this town to-day. It wasn't that the lads who had had a holiday yesterday were anxious to get back to school. There were plenty of small boys about town, but they all kept carefully away from the golf course, for in yesterday's storm a bolt of lightning struck the caddy house, in which fifty or more youngsters were huddled to keep out of the rain, and it gave the boys the fright of their lives, although none of them was injured.

A tournament was in progress when the storm broke, and players and caddies broke for shelter as soon as the big drops of rain began to fall. The boys made for the shelter of the caddy house, where they forgot the storm in their horse-play until several terrific thunderclaps in rapid succession told them that bolts of lightning were dropping near by.

A feeling of apprehension subdued the youngsters as the heavy peals of thunder rolled out, and all were in a highly nervous state when the bolt dropped down upon the house. Then the youngsters became panicstricken. More than half of them ran from the caddy house and made tracks for the clubhouse. Those that didn't run stayed behind only because the bolt had half stunned them. As they gathered their wits again, however, they too broke from the caddy house and ran through the downpour to the clubhouse.

The lightning bolt splintered the woodwork of the roof and sent bits of timber hurtling through the air for fifty feet. It followed a path along the roof of the structure to one side, where it entered a stanchion and made its way to the ground.

There was a scarcity of caddies for the rest of the day, for some of the boys didn't stop running until they reached their homes, and the rest followed suit as soon as the rain ceased.

GOULD BACK AT SCHOOL.

Boy Who Ran Away Returns with His Father Willingly.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 31.—Edwin Gould, Jr., who tramped the highways of Connecticut and landed in the station house of New Britain as a guest, was taken back to Pomfret School to-day by his father. Not a bit the worse for his experience except for blisters on the heels and toes, young Gould merrily departed, saying he would be glad to get back to school.

His father said that he hoped the youngster would now give close attention to his studies, as he wanted him to pass high in his college entrance examinations. Young Gould said that he was actually homesick when he left school Friday, but he thought he was over it and felt better after seeing his father.

While Mayor Gaynor is here a convention of Mayors of American cities will be held at Grand Junction, after which it is planned to have the leading municipal officers of the country here and an extensive programme will be arranged for their entertainment by Mayor Speer and the State authorities. Mayor Brand Whitlock of Toledo, Emil Seidel of Milwaukee, Busse of Chicago, and hundreds of others are expected.

HARRIMAN DID NOT EXERCISE.

Would Be Alive To-day Had He Done So, Patten Tells Athletes.

CHICAGO, May 31.—James A. Patten was made an honorary member of the track team of Northwestern University last night. He was invested with a sweater bearing the "N" of athletic distinction by President A. W. Harris of the university at the first annual dinner of the athletic association. The wheat operator expressed his views on physical exercise.

"If E. H. Harriman had taken more exercise he would have been alive today," said Patten. "Get the habit of taking exercise."

The occasion was the housewarming of the newly completed gymnasium, presented to the university by Mr. Patten at a cost of $250,000.

CHILDREN RIDE AS TRAMPS.

Found on Bumpers of Passenger Car—Went to See Grandma.

LOWELL, Mass., May 31.—Crouched down on the bumpers of a passenger car attached to a north-bound train on the Boston & Maine Railroad a boy and girl were discovered when the train reached this city early this afternoon. They said they were Thomas Reed, 13 years old, and his sister, Lena Reed, 10 years old, and that they lived on Hancock Street, Cambridge.

"We are going to see grandma," they explained, saying that their grandmother lived in Goffstown, N. H. Neither seemed to realize the peril of the mode of travel they had chosen.

PLAN PROTECTORATE FOR NICARAGUA

State Department Inclined to Have United States or Mexico Stop Disorder There.

CUSTOMS FOR ESTRADISTS

American Commander to Let New Custom House at Bluefields Collect Dues—Protection for Americans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The hard fighting that has gone on around Bluefields for the last few days and the apparent absence of any hope of a settlement of the civil war in Nicaragua has brought sharply before this Government the possible necessity of a protectorate, temporarily at least, being established over the little republic either by the United States or Mexico. Meanwhile the State Department has adhered to its plan announced months ago in Mr. Knox's letter to Señor Rodriguez not to recognize either faction save as de facto holders of territory actually under garrison.

Instructions to this effect were sent no later than to-day to Commander Gilmer of the Paducah, off the Bluefields Harbor, but while these orders were explicit in declaring that neither American ships nor American property must be seized by either faction, they did give one advantage to the Estradists. This is in the matter of customs duties levied on merchandise entering the Harbor of Bluefields. Ever since the Madriz army captured the Custom House on the bluff at the entrance of the harbor they have claimed the right to levy duties, while the insurgents in control of the city itself have insisted that as the goods were entering the city and not merely the Custom House they had the right to collect.

For a time the question evidently embarrassed this Government, though from the outset it was realized that the collection of double duties could not be tolerated. Now the matter is settled under the general term of the sort of recognition accorded both parties. As this recognition, which is no recognition at all in any diplomatic sense, goes only to the territory actually held by the faction in question, it is evident that the Estradists, as controlling the City of Bluefields, have, on this basis, the right to the customs. The Custom House is held merely to be a conventional post and the right is to be given the Estradists, who have established a new Custom House three miles up the river to collect duties there.

The instructions to Commander Gilmer are explicit that American life and property must be protected. In setting forth the immunity that American ships and persons must have from seizure by either party express mention is made of the recent seizure of the American-owned ship Adelaide. It is clear this Government is in no mood for permitting further action of this sort. The naval and marine forcers off Bluefields are to be kept in readiness to enforce American orders on shore should the occasion arise.

What is impressing our Government as time goes on is the apparent remoteness of peace in the little republic. The fighting has been bloody, but neither side can successfully assail the position of the other. As a military expert expressed it, whichever army marches across the swamp to invade the territory of the other is certain to be so weakened when it gets across that it will yield almost of necessity. That dictum has been verified in every battle so far.

The need of some outside influence to restore peace has suggested two courses to the State Department. One is to establish a real protectorate, permanent or temporary, as occasion suggests, over the country from a political point of view, and await the establishment of a constitutional government under the peace that would follow American or Mexican occupation. The other course is to take over the Republic only so far as fiscal matters are concerned and see to the payment of debts and to the restoration of material prosperity. This would be analogous to our treatment of Santo Domingo.

As far as the situation at Bluefields is concerned it is thought that the American force already there is ample to take care of things. Of course, an extended occupation would call for several thousand soldiers. These could be rushed south at short notice. Commander Gilmer, it is thought, could occupy and control Bluefields without difficulty, though it is still a question whether such a course would be necessary.

Mention of Mexico as the nation that may establish a protectorate over Nicaragua has caused some comment here. Mexico has already recognized the Madriz government, as have other Latin States to the south, and it is known that Mexico was none too pleased at the sharp note Mr. Knox sent the Chargé d'Affaires, Mr. Rodriguez, in giving him his passport. There is a tendency to believe the mention of Mexico in this connection is simply a feeler intended to show how that country really feels toward the proposition of the United States to take over further responsibilities in Latin America.

ACCUSES McKIM OF CRUELTY.

Wife, Seeking Divorce, Also Alleges She Has Supported Him.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., May 31.—Having obtained service on her husband, Dr. Smith Hollins McKim of New York, Mrs. Margaret E. McKim to-day permitted her attorney to unseal her complaint which heretofore has been guarded from publicity.

Mrs. McKim sets forth that she married Dr. McKim on Dec. 30, 1902, at Baltimore, and in June, 1903, he contracted gross drunkenness which since that time has made it impossible for him to provide for her or for himself, and has made it necessary for her to support them both. She alleges that her father told her husband on several occasions that he must reform and support her or the father would take her away from him, and that finally about a year ago she did leave him.

She also charges her husband with extreme cruelty, alleging that at the New Western Hotel in New York in January, 1908, he hurled her across a room so brutally that she broke a sofa on which she struck, and that he often beat and abused her. She declares that he continually cursed her, and that at a race meet in Baltimore in 1904 he abused her until friends pitied her. On that occasion a dinner was given in their honor, but he was in no condition to go.

Mrs. McKim asks for a complete divorce, but not for her maiden name. She has told friends in Reno that she is constantly watched by two detectives.

MERCHANT'S HASTE WARNS WIRETAPPERS

SLEUTHS GET ONE MAN

Crowd Sees Gang Knock Out Harrisburg Man Who Had Sought to Win on Advance Race News.

Persons in Seventh Avenue near Forty-seventh Street saw a man approach a large group of other men near that corner yesterday afternoon and speak to them. Instantly one of the men knocked him down with a blow in the face and the rest of the throng fled. Three more men, running up at top speed, caught one of the crowd, but the rest escaped.

The three men were Detectives Fogarty, Campbell, and Dale. The man they captured said he was John Hartnan, a salesman, of 215 West 108th Street. Frederic Louster, a merchant and real estate operator of Harrisburg, Penn., said that Hartnan was the man who guided him into the hands of a gang of "wire tappers," who fleeced him of $12,000. He said that others of the gang were in the crowd at the Seventh Avenue corner that escaped. The detectives said they had told Louster to signal them if he recognized any of the men, but that instead of doing so he had tried to arrest the whole crowd single-handed.

Hartnan declared that he had never seen Louster before and couldn't imagine why he had been arrested. He was locked up nevertheless.

According to the story Louster told the police, he was trapped by the wire tappers by first being interested by them in a real estate deal. He made a fair fortune, he said, in Harrisburg, first in the grocery business and later in real estate investments, so that when he met Hartnan in Harrisburg in April he readily listened to a plan of Hartnan's to profit by a real estate boom in Jacksonville, Fla. He came on to New York and then went to Baltimore to complete this deal. In the latter town he met the "capitalists" who were interested also, and the talk drifted from real estate to horse racing with the result that Louster was made stakeholder of a $25,000 bet, part in cash and part in checks.

After he had received the money his acquaintances appeared suddenly to become somewhat doubtful about his standing in the community, and to reassure them Louster went all the way to Harrisburg for a certified check for $10,000 with which he returned triumphantly. Finally he was told that the special match race for which he was holding stakes had been called off, and as most of the bettors by this time were in New York, he came here to return their money.

Here he was told of a "big killing" which was coming off soon and on which his acquaintances would receive advance information by the old wire-tapping plan. Louster bet his $10,000. Then he found that a terrible mistake had been made and that the horse he bet on had come in third. However, he was told, there was another good bet coming very soon and if he could get more money he would have no difficulty in recouping his losses. Louster went to Harrisburg to get $2,000. Again there was a terrible mistake, as his new acquaintances expressed it, and Louster returned home to think it over. Then he told Chief of Police George, who wired Inspector Rusesll here, and Louster was sent for to come here.

When he tried to tell his story to the detectives they stopped him sadly before he had started fairly and telling him that they knew all about it, proceeded to convince him by repeating just about what had happened to him. Then they set out on a tour of the Tenderloin in the hope that Louster might catch sight of some of the men who had swindled him. When he said yesterday that several were in the group he was warned to be careful, but the detectives say that his haste prevented them from catching several of the gang.

MORGAN GARDENER ARRESTED

Accused of Poisoning a Pet Fox Terrier in Revenge.

Otto Frehling, head gardener for J. P. Morgan, Jr., at East Island, Glen Cove, was arrested yesterday on complaint of the Long Island Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, made through its agent, U. S. Westervelt of Jamaica, L. I. The complaint is based upon a story told to Mr. Westervelt by Albert Maurer and his wife relative to the killing of their pet fox terrier.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurer were engaged by Mr. Morgan to put his residence in shape for his occupancy this Summer. They found Frehling and a couple of men at work on the place. Frehling took his luncheon at the house on Sundays, but Mrs. Maurer told him that he would have to eat somewhere else. They say that Frehling threatened to "get even" and that the meat at the last meal served to Frehling consisted of lamb chops. They say he ate the centre of these and wrapped the rest up in paper and took them away. Later their terrier died in agony.

Tony Kapusay, an undergardener, told the Maurers he saw Frehling throw the chop bones in the yard and the dog ate them. Maurer made a search of the room which Frehling was occpying and found a bottle labeled strychnine. This had been sold by a druggist in Glen Cove, who says Frehling obtained it representing that Mr. Morgan wanted it to poison roaches.

The dog's body was brought to Jamaica, and an autopsy was performed by Dr. Harry O'Neil. J. E. Wood made an analysis of the stomach, and said he found strychnine. Mr. Westervelt then went before Justice Luyster at Oyster Bay and caused Frehling's arrest. Frehling demanded a jury trial, and it was set down for to-morrow.

ROOSEVELT TALK STARTLES ENGLAND

Ex-President in Guildhall Speech Warns the Empire of Peril in Egypt.

SAYS FIRMNESS IS NEEDED

Declares That the Egyptian Nationalists Are Murderous and a Menace.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 31.—Ex-President Roosevelt gave the English public a taste of his quality to-day, when he received the honorary freedom of the City of London at the Guildhall.

I have heard admirers say that he bearded the British lion in his den, and I have heard others who are not admirers describe his conduct as that of an entirely different zoological specimen.

In his speech Mr. Roosevelt declared that, while England had given Egypt the best Government in 2,000 years, yet recent events, following the assassination of Premier Boutros, had shown that in certain vital points the British Government had erred, and that England must repair this error if she wished to do her full duty.

Punch, with prophetic soul, this morning came out with a cartoon by Bernard Partridge depicting Mr. Roosevelt receiving the freedom of the city. The Aldermanic turtle is having one of its flappers shaken by the Colonel.

"Morning, Brer Terrapin," says Mr. Roosevelt.

"Mornin', Colonel," replies the City Turtle. "Guess you ain't going to lie low and say nuffin."

"Well, what do you think?" responds Mr. Roosevelt, with the accent on the "you."

The pungency of the cartoon lies in the Latin legend which can be discerned on the City arms—"Domine dirige nos." Owen Seaman, the editor of Punch, and Bernard Partridge, the cartoonist, have both met Mr. Roosevelt since his arrival in London, and the pictorial prophecy is consequently not to be wondered at.

Mr. Roosevelt did to-day what he told all and sundry he intended to do. He also did what students of the Rooseveltian character who were not in his confidence fully expected him to do. He disappointed nobody. He surprised only those who were totally unaware of his remarkable individuality.

Before he had spoken five minutes he had impressed upon his audience at the Guildhall the fact that he was a man with a mission, and that nothing could deter him from accomplishing that mission. He made it quite evident that he was no opportunist, and that considerations which would weigh with an ordinary man were of no consequence to him. He had a blow to strike for what he believed to be the right, and he was going to strike it straight from the shoulder, with every muscle tense and the full weight of his body behind it. If the impact were unpleasant, that was not his affair.

A Great Impression Made.

There can be no doubt of the impression he made upon the vast majority of those who heard his speech. I have talked with many Englishmen since, and it is only those who did not hear him speak and who judge him by his printed words who have any fault to find. With those who heard him, who felt the influence of his virile personality, who saw his sincerity and magnificent belief in his convictions, the uppermost feeling is that of admiration for the personality of the man.

There were som who thought the matter of the speech ill-chosen, and others who muttered something about people minding their own business, but the applause which followed Mr. Roosevelt's closing words, which were at once a warning and a compliment to the Anglo-Saxon audience, was a remarkable tribute to his fearless and outspoken individuality.

Altogether, the occasion was one which, as Sir Joseph Dimsdale, the City Chamberlain, who introduced Mr. Roosevelt, said, would be ranked by future historians as among the most notable in the long series of events of which the storied Guildhall had been the scene. Sir Joseph, it was thought by some of his hearers, was politely exaggerating the importance of the meeting. Usually City affairs of this particular kind are not calculated to set the Thames on fire. There is generally an exchange of polite eloquence which is reported at more or less length in the papers and then forgotten.

To-day Mr. Roosevelt's speech was given in extenso in every evening paper published in Great Britain, and it will be the chief feature of every morning paper throughout the British Empire to-morrow. "Roosevelt" is the name in every mouth to-day, and unless all omens fail he has given Englishmen something furiously to think over for many days.

Crowds in the Streets.

Tens of thousands of persons turned out in the drizzle to see the ex-President drive by to-day. It is safe to say that the concourse of spectators will be multiplied a hundredfold if he makes another public appearance in London.

Those invited to the Guildhall were bidden to be in their seats by a quarter to twelve, but well before that hour

AIRSHIP RESCUES AIRSHIP.

Willard Finds Mars After Disablement of His Craft by a Bullet.

JOPLIN, Mo., May 31.—For the first time in the history of aerial navigation, an aviator to-day set forth through the air to take relief to a companion whose machine had met with mishap. The safe return of both machines was the signal for a tremendous demonstration from the immense crowd that saw the flights.

Charles F. Willard launched on a cross-country flight this afternoon. Straight north across uneven country he flew until he disappeared beyond a line of hills. When he did not return after an hour's wait, J. C. Mars set forth in an aeroplane to find him.

Following the direction taken by Willard, Mars found him six miles from the aviation field, near Carl Junction, Mo. Mars landed and learned that Willard's propeller had been splintered by a rifle bullet, shot by some person whose identity is unknown. Willard was at a height of 500 feet when the bullet struck the machine. He landed with considerable difficulty, barely escaping collision with a clump of trees.

Mars flew back to the aviation field and explained the circumstances, and an automobile carried a new propeller to Willard, Mars returning to Willard through the air. Willard's machine repaired, both aviators flew back to the aviation field and described figures in the air for an hour.

PIRACY LAW FOR THE AIR.

United States and Mexico Take Steps to Control Airships.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The advance of aerial navigation has led the United States and Mexico to take the initial step in the direction of regulating international traffic in the air. A treaty between the two countries is now being negotiated by Secretary Knox and Senor de la Barra, the Mexican Ambassador, aiming to compel the registration of all aeroplanes and airships, just as marine craft and automobiles are now registered.

It is pointed out that in carrying light weight and valuable packages, the airship, with an unrestricted method of operation, could do a profitable smuggling business.

The treaty will give authority to treat unlicensed international traders as smugglers or pirates. It is reported to be now practically prepared, and will be submitted to the Senate for ratification, if possible, before the adjournment of the present session of Congress.

100,000,000 IN OUR NATION?

Director Durand's Estimate of the Result of the Census.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Census Bureau has begun the actual work of enumerating the population from the individual census cards made up from the returns, and Director E. Dana Durand declared to-day that the complete census of some cities would be announcedl within a fortnight.

The individual cards, the compilation of which is in the hands of several hundred experts, if piled one upon another would make a stack sixteen miles high, according to Mr. Durand's estimate. This estimate is upon the basis that the population of the United States will prove to be in the neighborhood of 100,000,000.

SNOW FALLS IN PITTSBURG.

While Heat Kills and Prostrates in San Francisco.

PITTSBURG, May 31.—To-day was the coldest May 31 in the annals of the local office of the Weather Bureau. A temperature of 39 degrees was recorded here at 10 o'clock this forenoon.

Snow fell between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Torrid weather in this locality has caused four prostrations and one death.

NEW VENUE FOR MRS. VAUGHAN

Local Sentiment at Least Equally Divided as to Her Guilt.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., May 31.—Judge Shelton of the Circuit Court announced to-day that he would grant a change of venue to Mrs. Alma Proctor Vaughan and Dr. James R. Hull, finding from the testimony adduced yesterday that sentiment was at least equally divided as to their guilt of the murder of Prof. J. T. Vaughan.

He said he would fix the place of trial later.

DOLLIVER A HOUSE BREAKER.

It Was His Own House—Senator Had Forgotten His Keys.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The spectacle of a United States Senator breaking into his own house was witnessed by a few passers by on Massachusetts Avenue last night. Senator Dolliver of Iowa had been with members of his family on a trip to Mount Vernon. On his return he reached for his keys only to find them missing—left in another suit.

After fruitless ringing of the bell and discussion of ways and means, the party repaired to the rear, where Senator Dolliver finally succeeded in jimmying open a window. Boosted by his young son, he managed to get astride the sill and into the house.

It was then an easy matter to admit the rest of the party.

MORTALLY HURT AIDING GIRL.

Conductor's Head Crashes Into Elevated Pillar in Third Avenue.

Peter Galvin, a conductor on the Westchester trolley line, was mortally injured yesterday afternoon while helping a little girl with a baby in her arms to get on his car.

At 145th Street and Third Avenue the little girl had started to board the moving car, when her foot slipped. Galvin, seeing her danger, jumped to the street to help her, when his head struck against an elevated pillar. He was taken to Lincoln Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull.

AUTO DITCHED; TWO KILLED.

Vehicle Crashes Through Railing of a Bridge Near Nashua.

NASHUA, N. H., May 31.—Two prominent residents of Nashua, W. H. Anderson, a real estate dealer, and W. H. Kennedy, a member of the City Carriage Company, lost their lives in an automobile accident to-day on the Concord Road, one mile from here.

Anderson lost control of his car on a steep hill and before he and Kennedy could jump the automobile crushed through the railing of a bridge spanning a small stream. Both were instantly killed.

Mayor Gaynor Tells Him at The World's Dinner He Has Initiated a New Era in Progress.

Offers of large prizes for new and interesting feats of aviation came thick and fast yesterday. At a dinner given by The New York World at the Hotel Astor last night to Glenn H. Curtiss, who on Sunday won The World's $10,000 prize for an aeroplane flight from Albany to New York, it was announced that The World would offer $30,000 for an aeroplane flight between New York and St. Louis.

In addition to this munificent offer THE NEW YORK TIMES has arranged with Mr. J. C. Shaffer of The Chicago Evening Post for an offer of $25,000 for an aeroplane race between Chicago and New York, the details of which will be announced later.

It is probable, however, that ten days will be allowed for the flight and that it will be stipulated to take place before Oct. 31 next.

Curtiss in Both Contests.

The distance from New York to Chicago along the lines of the New York Central & Lake Shore Railroads is about 960 miles; that from New York to St. Louis by the Pennsylvania, the most direct route, is 1,052 miles.

Glenn H. Curtiss learned last night for the first time of the proposed flights from New York to Chicago and from New York to St. Louis. He was enthusiastic, and announced immediately that there certainly would be a Curtiss machine in each contest.

"Right now I don't know whether I'd drive myself or have one of the men in my employ handle the aeroplane," he said. "Of course I shouldn't compete against one of my own men, but the sporting nature of the events might induce me to handle my own craft.

"This thing has taken me by surprise. I never imagined that my feat of flying from Albany would attract the notice that it has. You see I prepared for that flight so long and devoted so many hours to thinking out every detail, and so many more hours to seeing that these details were worked out just as I had planned that the thing assumed in my mind a familiarity which of course it could not attain in the minds of others. To me the trip was an accomplished thing before it began, and I had got all of my excitement out of it before I took my seat in the biplane on Rensselaer Island.

"That is why I haven't got over my astonishment at the furore the trip caused. That is why, too, I am not prepared to discuss the proposed flights more fully. I've been very busy for months and my mind has been fully occupied with plans for the Albany flight. I haven't given a thought to other flights.

Sure Prizes Will be Won.

"Now that they have been proposed, though, I can't see a single reason why the flights should not be made successfully. I predict that if the conditions are in any way commensurate with the ability which aeroplanists have attained or with the development of the craft, the prizes will be won before the Summer is over.

"Offhand, I should say that the official route for such a flight as that which THE TIMES suggests from this city to Chicago would be through New York State, crossing Rochester and Buffalo. However, that is a mere offhand opinion and one that I may change myself, on investigation of conditions between here and Chicago.

"An alternate route would be over Pennsylvania by way of Erie and Cleveland. I'm doubtful of this route because of the mountains which would have to be crossed, and I haven't forgotten Storm King. It takes a mountain to raise a handful of trouble in next to no time. A chain of mountains ought to make even more difficult going for airship men. However, that's all to be planned out and decided by the men who decide to make the trip.

"Another point to be considered is that there are many cities which offer no suitable places for landing an aeroplane. Of course these mustn't occur in the route selected. I recall several towns right now where I wouldn't care to try to land, and where I don't think any one else would. The thing to do, of course, is to plan out the most direct route which at the same time presents the fewest difficulties and offers the greatest natural advantages.

"I haven't given the matter more than passing thought yet, although the subject was broached recently in a conversation with men interested in aeronautics. However, I'll begin to think of it earnestly and seriously now.

Provision for Accidents.

"So far as speed is concerned, it's difficult to say what average rate might be attained by the successful aeroplane. It is certain that actual flying speed will be in excess of that made by fast trains, but, of course, the aeroplanist must stop for rest. I understand it is planned to put a ten-day limit on the race to Chicago. That seems to me, at this time, to be about right. That would give five days of flying and five days to repair breaks to your aeroplane. For we must take accidents into consideration. This is like one of the first automobile races of some years ago. You recall how frequently the machines broke down.

"Now naturally we aeroplanists don't expect anything like that, but we do realize that an accident may incapacitate a machine for a day or more, although the operator may escape uninjured and be ready to resume his flight immediately. A collision with a treetop or any other of the hundred and one things that can happen to any machine-driven vehicle, be it run on rails, on the road, or through the air, would cause delay, and we need time to allow for these happenings.

"As to the strain which the flight would develop for the operator I can't say now. My flight and that of Paulhan in England now stand as the longest which have been made. It's a strain, of course, to operate an aeroplane as well as it is to run an automobile, but I guess operators will be found easily enough who will undertake to stand this strain and keep going according to schedule."

NEW YORK-ST. LOUIS RACE.

Announced by the Mayor at The World's Dinner in Curtiss's Honor.

Announcement that an aeroplane flight between this city and St. Louis for a prize of $30,000 or more will be attempted in the near future was made last night at a dinner given in the Hotel Astor to Glenn H. Curtiss by The New York World. It was announced at the dinner that The World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch had agreed to offer that sum, and possibly more, for the first successful flight by aeroplane between the two cities, the conditions governing the flight to be arranged after a conference of aviators.

Shortly after the offer of this prize was made known Charles K. Hamilton and Capt. Thomas Scott Baldwin signified their willingness to try for the prize. Mr. Curtiss said he would take the matter under consideration.

The announcement of The World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch Prize was made at the dinner by Mayor Gaynor on behalf of the two newspapers. While the Mayor did not refer to the hazards of such a long overland flight, it was apparent to all the aviators present that an air journey from New York to St. Louis, a distance of 1,200 miles, would be the most ambitious flight ever proposed either in this country or abroad. The distance is about eight times greater than from Albany to New York, and the dangers of mishap proportionately greater. In making known the offer Mayor Gaynor said:

"Mr. Curtiss's memorable flight has demonstrated the possibilities of inter-city communication by aeroplane. To further encourage aviators, to inspire the brave and heroic pioneers in air travel to still greater feats, The World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch now offer a prize of $30,000 for the first successful aeroplane flight between New York and St. Louis. The conditions governing this flight will be announced shortly, after a conference with aeronautic experts. While this prize is positively offered I have been advised it is subject to an increase."

Looks for Aerial Navies.

There was loud applause by the aviators and others present, about sixty in number, when the announcement was made. It was a feature of a dinner otherwise made notable not only by prediction by Hudson Maxim that there would be a battle between two aerial navies before a hundred years had elapsed, but by the acclaiming of Mr. Curtiss as a man who had brought forward the art of aerial navigation to a great extent and played an important part in the making of history by his remarkable flight down the Hudson from Albany on Sunday.

James M. Beck spoke of the important part the press had been playing in the advancement of science and discovery and said that without the aid of the newspapers some of the great discoveries would never have been accomplished in recent years. He pointed to the expedition fitted out by The New York Herald which sent Stanley into darkest Africa, and went on to speak of Peary's discovery of the north pole, which, he said, might not have been possible had it not been for the aid of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

"And so," continued Mr. Beck, "it has remained for a third great metropolitan newspaper, The World, to offer a prize for a flight from Albany to New York."

Mr. Beck said that the achievement of Mr. Curtiss marked an epoch-making advance in the conquest of the air.

"We are standing in the presence of history itself," he said.

Thinkers in Hammondsport.

Mayor Gaynor, in introducing the theme, which the other speakers followed, said that there might be some wonder in the fact that it remained for a little town like Hammondsport to produce a man like Curtiss. He said the reason for that might be explained in the fact that the people of Hammondsport had more time to think than do New Yorkers. They have more time to reason things out.

"I have great pleasure in coming here, as Mayor of the city, to do honor to Mr. Curtiss," said Mr. Gaynor. "Some people might think it strange that I should come here. I have been to a great many dinners since I became Mayor, but I beg to say that to none of them have I gone for the same reason and to none have I gone to bear attestation to the great fact which calls us here to-night, and that is reason enough for the Mayor of New York City.

"I am sure we would like to hear from Mr. Curtiss, and I dare say we will all like especially to hear how he felt when he got into difficulty on the Hudson, and how he steered his wonderful machine, and whether he thinks he can do it over again if he has a good chance. Now, Mr. Curtiss, we will hear from you."

Mr. Curtiss's speech was short but to the point. He did not appear embarrassed as do many men who achieve large things. He said it was difficult to achieve anything of value without previous thought, and that he had given deep thought both to the creation of his machine and to the flight from Albany.

"There is one thing that came to my mind during the flight which might be worth mentioning here, and that is the difficulty of finding suitable landing places for the flying machine in or near the great cities," said Mr. Curtiss. "And I believe that City Governments will find it necessary and advisable in the near future to set apart suitable open spaces for flying machines to land, and perhaps to pass ordinances preventing aviators from endangering their own lives and those of the citizens by flying over built-up portions of the city.

"This is merely a thought which came to me as I passed along the river and tried to locate a place for a possible landing in case of the motor stopping or something of that sort."

The Mayor, in referring to Mr. Curtiss a little later, said that his flight was one in which "THE TIMES came near taking all the honors away from The World."

Samuel H. Valentine, acting President of the Aero Club of America, responded to the toast, "The Aeroplane of To-day."

Mr. Maxim, who followed Mr. Valentine, said that already there was an aerial navy in the making and that no product of the human brain and hand would so much quicken the advent of the millennial time when war will be shackled by rendering it impracticable, as the development of the aeroplane and other flying machines.

He said, too, that a tremendous influence would be exerted on land values by the aeroplane which, he said, will bring distant lake and mountain within easy reach of the large centres of population.

"It will render the flying machine the greatest wealth maker ever produced," he said, "for whatsoever enhances land values operates at the very foundation of National wealth."

Don Seitz also spoke and introduced Mayor Gaynor as the presiding officer. Congratulatory messages were received from many aviators across the Atlantic.

There were several men at the dinner who have flown in the air, either as the operator of their own machines or as passengers. Among them, besides Mr. Curtiss, were Clifford B. Harmon, Joseph Seymour, Thomas Scott Baldwin, Charles K. Hamilton, Charles M. Manly, Jerome Fanciulli, Augustus Post, E. L. Jones, B. R. Newton, Stanley Y. Beach, A. Leo Stevens, and Isaac Ludlow.

Those at the guest table included Charles Jerome Edwards, Col. John Jacob Astor, Samuel H. Valentine, Don C. Seitz, Mayor Gaynor, Glenn H. Curtiss, Gen. Walter C. Howe, and Hudson Maxim.

A letter of regret that he could not attend the dinner was received from Charles Allen Munn, editor and publisher of the Scientific American, in which Mr. Munn announced that Curtiss, by his flight on Sunday, had won the Scientific American trophy.

"And unless this record is surpassed during the year 1910," wrote Mr. Munn, "he will become the permanent owner of this prize, which he won for the years 1908 and 1909."

CURTISS AT CITY HALL.

Tells the Mayor About His Flight from Albany.

Glenn H. Curtiss visited Mayor Gaynor at City Hall yesterday morning and told him about the flight from Albany. Capt. T. S. Baldwin accompanied him. Fire Commissioner Waldo and Fire Chief Croker were with the Mayor when the visitors arrived. The Mayor congratulated Mr. Curtiss on his successful flight, then questioned him about the journey, while the others listened. On leaving the Mayor's office Mr. Curtiss said that Fire Chief Croker might be a passenger on the Hudson Flyer in the near future.

"Meeting the Fire Commissioner and the Fire Chief," said the aviator, "suggested to me the possibility of using aeroplanes for fires in tall buildings by dropping chemicals into the flames from above."

Thanks from a Times Guest.

THE TIMES received this letter yesterday from Augustus Post:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to thank you most heartily for the kind invitation which you extended to me to be your guest on THE TIMES special train, following Mr. Curtiss from Albany.

In behalf of the Aero Club of America I wish to convey its appreciation of your courtesy in providing this exceptional facility for timing this flight.

Yours very truly,
AUGUSTUS POST.

HAMILTON FOR A LONG FLIGHT.

He Is Ready to Contribute to a Purse for a New York-Chicago Race.

Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, who arrived here from Jacksonville too late to enter the race for The World's prize of $10,000 won on Sunday by Glenn H. Curtiss by flying from Albany to New York, announced yesterday, before the New York-Chicago contest was definitely planned, that he was ready and willing to contribute $2,000 to any fund which may be raised as a prize for a race of aeroplanes between New York and Chicago. He thinks it would do much toward promoting the use of the aeroplane.

Mr. Hamilton also suggested that to make the proposed race even more interesting a committee could be appointed which would fix a certain day for the various contestants to start, so that all the racers would get off together, or nearly so, and if any were afraid to start because of wind or other difficulties they could leave the race to the more daring ones.

Just before making his $2,000 offer and suggesting the committee, Mr. Hamilton had read that a prize of $25,000 was being raised in Chicago for an aeroplane race between that city and this.

"They can count me in for $2,000 in case the amount can't be raised," said Hamilton. "All I want is that a big prize be offered for a flight either between here and Chicago or here and anywhere else in reason, and I am ready to try for it. A race between here and Chicago could be made a great sporting event.

"I have no doubt there would be many entries for such a race, and that the best man, or the luckiest one, would win. But the prize should not be offered in such a way that an aviator could take his time about trying for it and drag along over a year or two. It should be made a real race in which all the contestants start the same day.

Course Not Difficult.

"While I should not say much about the course between here and Chicago, as I would be in the race, I venture to say that it would not be too difficult, provided the racers are permitted to stop here and there to replenish their store of gasoline and oil. The contestants should be allowed a stop every hundred miles. The distance would be a little longer perhaps if they sailed up the river to Albany and followed the line of the New York Central to Chicago, but that route would be the easiest.

"Even the men in this business of flying do not realize fully just what an aeroplane can do. The machines we are using to-day are about the same as were used two years ago, yet longer flights are being made right along. The reason for this is simple enough. The confidence of the aviators in themselves and their machines is growing. Each long flight makes them realize that they can go a little further. I am sure that Curtiss feels now, since winning The World prize, that he can make a much longer flight than he did in coming down from Albany.

Can Make a Mile a Minute.

"On my last day in Jacksonville, Fla., just before coming up here, I covered more distance in short flights across country than the distance from Albany to New York. Forty-seven miles an hour is about as slow as the machine I am using can go, and I can make about a mile a minute under full speed. But in long flights it is not wise to strain the motor by attempting full speed."

Mr. Hamilton said he thought the time would soon come when some aviator would succeed in crossing the Atlantic in an aeroplane.

"Even now it is only a question of expense incident to such a trip," he said. "It would require a large machine with a capacity for a great quantity of gasoline. But a large aeroplane can be built which would go as fast and be as manageable as the ones we are now using. I am sure the Atlantic could be crossed at its narrowest point, which is about 1,150 miles, in about twenty-four hours.

"One of the requisites for such a flight would be a fast motor boat, built especially for such a trip, which could develop and sustain a speed of forty-five to fifty miles an hour. While such a motor boat could not quite keep up with the aeroplane, the latter could make circles in the air and fly back to the boat every time it got too far ahead. It would probably keep back the aeroplane some four or five hours during the trip across, but that would not make so much difference in the end. I would gladly attempt such a flight if the conditions were made sufficiently attractive.

"Crossing the Atlantic in the air would be a greater feat than was that of Columbus. In those days sailing vessels had been used for hundreds of years. The aeroplane is an infant. The expense of a trip across the Atlantic rather than the risk of life involved is the one deterring factor which is keeping aviators from attempting the passage."

Mr. Hamilton sent his aeroplane out to Hempstead yesterday, and this evening he will probably make trial flights over the Hempstead Plain. He says he wishes to keep in practice for any big event which may be arranged in the near future.

"I am here in New York waiting for somebody to offer an attractive prize for a difficult flight," he said. "I will wait for it a while and then if there is nothing in that line forthcoming here I will probably go to Europe in July and try for The London Daily Mail prize of $50,000 for a flight from London to Edinburgh and return, a distance of some 800 miles. The conditions governing the winning of this prize, I understand, are that several stops can be made to replenish gasoline. I think I can win it."

On June 20 Hamilton will fly in the army manoeuvres at Nashville, Tenn. He thinks the aeroplane will play an important part in wars of the future.

PLACE FOR NEXT CONTESTS.

Aero Club Directors Will Decide on the Site Next Week.

The location of the international aviation championship meet will probably be decided at a meeting of the Board of Governers of the Aero Club of America, to be held next Tuesday. It was expected that this important question would be decided at yesterday's meeting of the board, but some details are yet to be settled before a final decision can be reached, and an effort will be made to arrange these in the next few days.

Several Directors are in favor of turning over the meet to Andrew Freedman, representing the Wright interests, while another faction favors independent management, asserting that should the Wrights obtain control of the meet it would lose its international flavor and foreign aviators would refuse to come to the United States to compete. It is not improbable that the Aero Club will take charge of the meeting and appoint a manager to attend to the details.

At the meeting of the board yesterday a resolution was adopted eulogizing Glenn H. Curtiss for his flight from Albany to New York. The board also officially accepted the balloon duration record of Clifford B. Harmon as pilot and Augustus Post as aide, made at St. Louis on Oct. 4, 1909. The duration was 48 minutes and 20 seconds and the altitude 16,615 feet.

$5,000 for Indianapolis-Chicago Flight.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31.—F. H. Wheeler, Vice President of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, to-day announced on behalf of a local manufacturing company that a prize of $5,000 in gold will be offered for an aeroplane flight from the Speedway to the city limits of Chicago.

WHITE POINTS OUT AMERICA'S IDEALS

Kansas Editor Tells Columbia Students We Shall Never Forget Roosevelt's Tenets.

PAST EVILS GONE FOR GOOD

All the King's Horses and All the King's Men Can't Put America Back Where It Was, He Says.

"Mr. Roosevelt has inspired more men to righteousness than a millionaire could call forth with all the millions of Wall Street." So said William Allen White, editor of The Emporia (Kan.) Gazette, who spoke on "A Theory of Spiritual Progress" at Columbia University yesterday afternoon.

"This is not a material world," said Mr. White, "for the world's most permanent rewards are not material rewards. Pleasure is not happiness, nor is poverty misery. Happiness has as its chief ingredient usefulness."

Here is Mr. White's address in part, setting forth his theory of spiritual progress:

"Consider that man as an individual is happy only as he is kind. Of course, it is impossible to say just what man is happy and what man is unhappy, but approval of one's kind is probably one of the things that makes for happiness. Who is surer of public approval than the generous adversary, the chivalrous foe, the kindly competitor? Is the rich man always praised? Does he not often drain a bitter cup? Is the powerful man sure of public acclaim in his mean use of power? Is the proud man encouraged in his pride? Is the brilliant man's achievement always sure of public approbation?

"It pays to be decent, is a proverb of the people. That means only that the spiritual is dominant in a material world. The man who is ever looking for the main chance is the final loser of the game. Greed poisons itself and dies. The plutocrat is pulling against the current. Great wealth in and of itself to-day is often regarded by society as a handicap to a man or an institution. The good that money will do is limited. The good that a man may do is limited only by his talents.

"Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt is wrong in some of his tenets. But right or wrong, he has inspired more men to righteousness in public life than a millionaire could call forth with all the millions of Wall Street. And all the king's horses and all the king's men cannot put America back to the lower ideal of the last century. The gain is permanent. And the man who has promoted the progress of his country is manifestly exultant and happy, while those who have devoted their lives to games of greed before all the world are seeking happiness in mere pleasure. 'And dig for it more than for all his treasures.' Wherever we look in this world with clear eyes, whether we see great movements or great men, we find the cycle of the spiritual enfolding the cycle of the material.

"The spiritual world is no place for the dabbler. Louis XVI., without heart or bowels, lived at Versailles in the material world; and when his head rolled in the basket it was an addled, towsled, old head in the basket, nothing more. But John Brown's body paid the mortgage on two million souls. The spiritual world offers its heroes little loot and much fighting. It promises long marches, hard bivouacs, keen suffering, and in the end lonely and perhaps shameful death. Faith has few crowns for her champions. For one John Brown ten thousand died at Cold Harbor. Yet who would recall them? Who would not trade a storied urn, an animated bust, for a place in the trenches with the nameless dead of that battlefield. But faith does not always speak through a trumpet. Often faith whispers and calls men to duties in waste places. God has no trouble to find heroes ready to serve in scarlet and gilt. But men who are willing to toil in the fear of the Lord, which is the beginning of wisdom, men who are willing to serve in the grave brotherhood of man, men to whom faith blares no clarion note, and men for whom hope holds no garlands—these men of the rank and file are the salt of the earth.

"Humanity is a bundle of contradictions. Yet spiritually there is a law of regression. We tend to spiritual averages. No one is all good and all bad. There is no race of moral giants, any more than a race of physical giants. Nor are there races of moral dwarfs and moral starvelings. The divine spark is in every soul. In a crisis the meanest man may become a hero. Indeed there is no profession of heroes. The charlatan, the oppressor of the poor, the courtesan, the thief, or the sluggard, has seen the spark of divinity glare up in some great crisis, and as it burned it has shown a hero. It is doubtful whether any human being falls so low that he will not give up even his life upon a grand impulse to save a fellow-sufferer in agony. And this holy spirit is in every heart. The endowment of that divine spark is a universal endowment. It is the fundamental claim men have upon one another as brothers. We are equal in the democracy of the holy spirit, in the potential spark of heroship."

PANIC FOLLOWS A SUICIDE.

Women Faint When Despondent Man Jumps Under Elevated Train.

Several persons in a crowd on the platform of the Tremont Avenue station of the Third Avenue elevated road early last evening saw a man walking up and down with his eyes bent on the platform. Suddenly, just as a southbound train pulled into the station he ran to the edge of the platform and jumped off. Two trucks of the forward car passed over him before the motorman could stop the train.

The reserves of the Tremont Police Station were called to disperse the crowd that gathered. Later the services of Dr. Carey of the Fordham Hospital were needed to restore women in the crowd who were hysterical.

On a card in the dead man's pocket was found the name of Samuel Richter of 3,617 White Plains Road, who later identified the man as Isidore Richter, a notary, of 152 Delancey Street. At the home of Samuel Richter, where the dead man's wife and one child lived, it was said that Richter had been suffering for some time with an abscess on the brain. He went to visit his brother yesterday afternoon, and it was there when a fit of despondency fell upon him

DEAD WITH THE GAS ON.

Mrs. Alice Kraus of New York Commits Suicide in East Orange, N. J.

With door locked and windows closed tight, and gas pouring from five open jets in the chandelier of her room, Mrs. Alice Kraus, wife of Leopold Kraus of this city, was found dead early yesterday morning in her room in the apartment house at 47 South Walnut Street, East Orange. Mrs. Kraus had been in that city for the last three months. Despondency brought on by her ill-health is given by relatives as the reason for her act.

Mrs. Kraus left two notes, one to her husband and the other to a son by a former marriage, Frank B. Curtis of Asbury Park, N. J. The police turned them over to Mr. Curtis, and the contents were not divulged.

FAVOR PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

Chiefs of Republican Party in Maryland Indorse the Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 31.—The Republican Party of Maryland put itself on record to-day as favoring the direct vote of the people in primary elections. This position was taken by the State Committee, which met to-day to rescind its action of April 27 last in reference to Congressional elections. Attorney General Straus has given an opinion that the law applies to Congressional conventions.

"We are not opposed," said Chairman Hanna, "to a direct vote of the people for any office, and we do not want to be put in a false position before the people."

WATSON QUITS POPULISTS.

Former Presidential Nominee Announces Return to Democratic Party.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 31.—Thomas E. Watson, once a Democratic member of Congress and twice nominated by the Populist Party for President of the United States, announces his return to the Democratic Party. His language leaves no doubt that he has returned to stay.

He calls upon his political friends to defeat Thomas W. Hardwick for re-election to Congress.

RAILROADS LOSE TAX SUIT.

Must Pay on Special Franchises That Cover Street Crossings.

ALBANY, May 31.—Supreme Court Justice Chester of Albany to-day decided that the special franchises of railroads for street crossings and running through streets are subject to taxation. The decision involves every railroad in the State, applying to over 1,000 cases. Railroad companies have been paying such a tax, but in 1908 several of the big companies instituted proceedings to set it aside.

Benjamin S. Dean of Jamestown, as referee, held that the law did not relate to steam railroads, but to street car service only. Justice Chester reversed the decision.

ROOSEVELT TALK STIRS ENGLAND

the magnificently proportioned hall was almost completely filled save for the platform, where the Lord Mayor in his robes of office, with the sword and mace-bearers and other city officials and dignitaries, awaited the specially distinguished guests. These came heralded by cries from the ushers proclaiming their names and escorted by files of marshals with wands.

Loud applause greeted the venerable Lord Strathcona, who later in the afternoon held a reception for Mr. Roosevelt, and a specially warm welcome was given to the Right Hon. John Burns, who, instead of the dark blue reefer suit he used to favor, now, in these days of mourning, wears a black tail coat unmistakably made in Battersea. But, however badly fitting be his habiliments, "Honest John" is, in the words of another Burns, a man for a' that, and even in the City he had a reception barely less enthusiastic than that accorded to ex-Premier Balfour, who came soon afterward, and whose tall slimness gave elegance to his long frock coat and neat gray trousers.

Sir Edward Grey, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Burns were the only representatives of the Cabinet, but it was noted that several permanent officials of the Foreign Office were in attendance.

American commerce was well represented both on the platform and in the body of the hall by members or agents of firms doing business in London.

Ten minutes before 1 o'clock Col. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt were led between files of ushers and marshals to the platform. A band in the gallery played "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the assemblage clapped their hands with vigor. Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Longworth, both in black; Miss Ethel Roosevelt, in gray, and Kermit Roosevelt had been previously escorted to the platform, accompanied by Ambassador Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Reid.

Ceremony Curtailed.

The formal business of the presentation of the honorary freedom of the City to Mr. Roosevelt was brief. Much of the customary pomp and circumstance of the proceedings had been abandoned owing to the public mourning. Sir Joseph Dimsdale's speech offering Mr. Roosevelt the right hand of fellowship and presenting to him a copy of the resolution granting the freedom was neat and not effusive. Mr. Roosevelt seemed to be delighted with the beauty of the gold box in which the document was placed. It is understood that it cost $2,500.

Then Mr. Roosevelt came to the front of the platform, and after a few words of reference to the late King and relatively brief thanks for the honor conferred upon him, told the audience he was going to speak on matters of real concern to them.

It was then that he made his first gesture. He has practically only one gesture. It is one recommended rather by its emphasis than by its elegance. In his left hand he held a typewritten copy of his speech. His right was from this point on nearly always raised, sometimes with an outstretched finger, sometimes with the clenched fist beating the air.

There were but few interruptions of applause. The speaker was patently too full of vigor to need the respite which a friendly audience occasionally gives in mercy. Once, when cheers drowned part of one sentence, Mr. Roosevelt made a gesture for silence, and repeated the whole sentence. From then on there was scarcely a "Hear! hear!" till the last words were spoken, when cheer on cheer of unmistakable enthusiasm broke forth.

TELLS ENGLAND TO BE FIRM.

Roosevelt Says Situation in Egypt Is a Menace to the Empire.

LONDON, May 31.—Quite unexpectedly to-day ex-President Roosevelt delivered what is considered by Englishmen as a severe arraignment of the nation in its attitude toward Egypt.

Mr. Roosevelt called attention to the fact that England's primary object in taking hold in Egypt was the establishment of order.

"Either," he said, "you have or you have not the right to remain in Egypt and establish and keep order. If you have not the right, and have not the desire to keep order, then, by all means, get out. But if, as I hope, you feel that your duty to civilized mankind, and your fealty to your own great traditions alike bid you to stay, then make the fact and the name agree, and show that you are ready to meet in very deed the responsibility which is yours.

"When a people treats assassination as the cornerstone of self-government, it forfeits all rights to be treated as worthy of self-government. Some nation must govern Egypt, and I hope and believe that the English Nation will decide that the duty is theirs."

Mr. Roosevelt dwelt upon the baleful influence of the Nationalist Party in Egypt, which, he said, had shown in connection with the murder of the Premier that it was neither desirous nor capable of guaranteeing justice. Nor had England shown enough of its strength.

"You have tried to do too much," the speaker said, "in the interests of the Egyptians themselves. Those who have to do with uncivilized peoples, especially fanatical peoples, must remember that in such a situation as that which faces you in Egypt, weakness, timidity, and sentimentality may cause infinitely more harm than violence and injustice. Sentimentality is the most broken reed on which righteousness can lean."

With reference to the Soudan, Mr. Roosevelt said he felt as he did about the Panama Canal. Although it did not pay, it was Great Britain's duty to stay there. In his opinion the Soudan would pay anyway. It was not worth while to belong to a big nation unless that nation was ready to shoulder a big task.

He prefaced his remarks on Egypt with the statement that he spoke as an unprejudiced outsider, as an American and a real democrat, whose first duty was to war against violence, injustice, and wrongdoing wherever found. He proffered his advice only in accordance with the principles on which he had acted as President in dealing with the Philippines, and he declared that the present condition of affairs in Egypt was a menace to the British Empire and to civilization.

The parchment conveying to Mr. Roosevelt the freedom of the city was contained in a beautiful gold casket, oblong in form, the front and reverse sides being divided into four panels bearing enamel painted views of the Guildhall, the Mansion House, St. Paul's Cathedral, and the Tower Bridge. The centre is occupied by the full blazon of the city arms in enamel, with an ornamental shield below containing the inscription. At the four corners are in enamel the arms of England and the United States, the city shield, and the Union Jack. The base is of solid silver, having at one end a finely modeled American bison, and at the other the British lion. The base stands upon eight bold feet, with a lower pedestal of oak and velvet.

STARTLED, BUT FRIENDLY

Attitude of London Press—Only The Times a Little Critical.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, June 1.—The prominence given to Mr. Roosevelt's speech in this morning's papers indicates the remarkable impression he has made by it. "Wake up, England!" is, according to one paper, the note which he has sounded. This paper adds:

"It is a trumpet call to imperial duty that chimes magically with the national mood of a new, higher resolution."

Another journal calls it a startling and bold speech. "Few men apart from Theodore Roosevelt," it says, "would dare face such an assembly of the leaders of thought and action in a great and proud nation and lecture them and take them to task and point the way they should go if they want to keep their empire, but because it was Roosevelt who was speaking there was no resentment, but only profound interest and profound admiration."

Those organs which have been for some time past calling for the stern repression of Egyptian unrest are highly enthusiastic over testimony from an "outsider," as Mr. Roosevelt described himself, which strengthens their case, but others question whether some of Mr. Roosevelt's deductions are well founded. Even among these, however, there is no evidence of resentment.

The Daily Chronicle, for instance, says:

"Mr. Roosevelt is like nobody else. His speech outraged every conventional canon of official and international propriety. The performance is unique, it must be admitted, and it can hardly be recommended for general imitation. It will not, however, be much resented, we think. In the first place, we are very tolerant folk, our tolerance being perhaps established in part on a very good conceit of ourselves. We fancy we know as much as other nations about the way to administer dependencies, and we do not mind it when a friendly visitor gives his frank opinion to the contrary.

"In the second place, so far as the question of international propriety is concerned, we may take Mr. Roosevelt's outspokenness as a compliment to Anglo-American solidarity. One can think of countries in which it would hardly do for a foreign statesman to speak as Mr. Roosevelt has spoken in the City of London, or there would be a crisis or an incident, or, at least, newspaper polemics on the instant."

Only in one paper, The Times, is any impatience of this outside criticism hinted at. After suggesting that, as a freeman of the City of London, Mr. Roosevelt did not feel himself under the limitations which he would doubtless have acknowledged earlier, The Times adds:

"We are not certain that every one in this country will be so alert as himself in impressing the privileges of his new citizenship, or will even admit, without considerable reluctance, that the privileges exist. Mr. Roosevelt must not be greatly surprised should manifestations occur in some quarters of sensitiveness to criticism which he perhaps did not reckon with beforehand. They will, however, give him an opportunity to show his own superiority to annoyance at a candor which, we believe, will at bottom be just as friendly to him as his is obviously to us."

SIDE-LIGHTS ON ROOSEVELT.

Returning Americans Tell How He Has Been Welcomed in Europe.

Three of the passengers who arrived here yesterday from Europe on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. told reporters about observing Theodore Roosevelt in Sweden, Italy, and Germany.

Charles H. Graves, United States Ambassador to Sweden, who has not been home in five years, related the enthusiasm with which the ex-President was received at Stockholm, where he first heard the news of the death of King Edward.

"There happened to be a number of Swedish-Americans in the capital at the time," said Mr. Graves, "and one man traveled from his home, 300 miles away, to see Mr. Roosevelt drive through the streets. The visit of Mr. Roosevelt was a good thing for Sweden and America commercially, and it will have the result, no doubt, of making our institutions more real to Sweden than perhaps anything could at this time. At present Sweden is not doing much in American bonds and investments, but is giving her attention to her own resources, such as timber and wood pulp manufacturing."

Charles M. Moore of the firm of Manning, Maxwell & Moore said that he was buttonholed by Mr. Roosevelt at a reception in Rome.

"Now we are going to talk politics," said the ex-President, according to Mr. Moore. "And, sure enough, we talked politics. I told him all I knew and he did the listening mostly. Of course the subjects we discussed are confidential.

"It is really remarkable," said Mr. Moore, "the manner in which Mr. Roosevelt is touring the big cities of Europe. He has a large retinue to attend to matters, and he meets committees that have made all the arrangements. If they do not suit him Mr. Roosevelt slaps the chairman on the back, shakes him by the hand and says in that inimitable manner of his: 'Oh, let's go and see so-and-so to-day,' or 'How about cutting that out and substituting this?' He has Ambassadors waiting until he chooses to get to a place, and carries on in a manner that would be high handed did he not exert such genius in bringing it about."

Vice President Becker of the Second Prussian House of Deputies, who is on a tour of the world with his wife, spoke about Mr. Roosevelt's visit to Berlin and the attention he received at the hands of prominent Germans.

"It is difficult to estimate," he said, "the actual love and affection of the German people for Mr. Roosevelt. He is one of the most popular men that ever entered the empire, and his free comradeship with the Emperor further endears him. Seldom has any foreigner been accorded such a reception as he got in Berlin. I received two invitations to meet the ex-President, but was unable to attend on account of personal affairs."

DISAPPOINTS PHILADELPHIA.

Mr. Roosevelt Cables That He Cannot Speak There on July 4.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—"Regret impossible Philadelphia July 4th."

The foregoing was received here to-day from ex-President Roosevelt in response to a cablegram sent to him in London, inviting him to be the orator at the annual celebration in Independence Hall on July 4.

The invitation was extended by the committee of City Councils having the affair in hand.

REGRETS INTERFERENCE.

G. F. Peabody Wants This Country to Repudiate Roosevelt's Speech.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

SARATOGA, N. Y., May 31.—I venture to suggest that the English public would be deeply interested in reading the reference to Mr. Roosevelt's character in an address by Thomas M. Osborne in Garrison yesterday, if not already published in London.

Mr. Roosevelt's London speech gave a marked illustration of his reckless jingoism and willingness to make trouble. I think the United States people should promptly repudiate any sympathy with this suggested American interference with other peoples. I hope New York citizens will call a mass meeting to voice our respect for other Governments and our adherence to the principles of Washington's immortal Farewell Address.

GROCERY DEALER HELD AS FIREBUG

Four Fires in Quick Succession in His Place Attributed to a Chemical Compound.

FIREMAN BURNED BY IT

Tests Show That It Will Burst Into Flame the Instant It Touches Water.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 31.—A chemical compound, like phosphorus in appearance but apparently having the property of suddenly breaking into flame, especially when brought into contact with water, is being investigated by the Police and Fire Departments. Eugene Frank, a 23-year-old grocer and fruiterer of 800 Main Street, is under arrest, suspected of having attempted to set fire to his store by means of the stuff.

Four separate fires occurred in the store between 4 and 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon and evening, and after the last blaze Fireman Martin J. O'Rourke of Engine 7 was left on guard, armed with a hand extinguisher, to prevent a recurrence of the blaze. O'Rourke discovered a quantity of the compound beneath a desk and picked it up. While he was handling it the stuff blew up and burned his hands.

O'Rourke managed to put the fire out before it got any headway. Then he sent for some one to relieve him on guard and went to St. Joseph's Hospital. There it was found that four fingers of his right hand were burned badly, and after they had been dressed he went home, where, the doctors say, he will be kept for a week.

Battalion Chief Sweeney, who was in charge at the fires, put a small paper packet of the chemical in his waistcoat pocket when he left the last fire. He meant to have it analyzed, but while he was eating supper last night at home the stuff suddenly burst into flame, and the Chief had to hustle to get out of his burning waistcoat.

Other samples of the chemical which were taken to Fire Headquarters burst into flame as soon as they were placed on bits of dampened paper.

Frank was arrested this morning and was araigned before Recorder Carroll, Fire Chief John Stagg preferring a charge of attempted arson against him. Frank refused to talk, declaring that he would say nothing until he had consulted with a lawyer. He was committed to the County Jail without bail, to await the action of the Grand Jury.

WALK 40 MILES TO WED.

Jersey Couple Couldn't Get Married Nearer Home, They Say.

PATERSON, N. J., May 31.—Tired and footsore after a walk from Woodport, at the upper end of Lake Hopatcong, a distance of more than forty miles, John Winthrop and Mamie Ferguson walked into Justice Peter Botbyl's office last evening and asked to be married. After the Judge had scoured around for a couple of witnesses the ceremony was performed.

"You see, it's this way," said Winthrop, who did not look a day over 17, although he said he was 22, "we walked all the way down here because we heard you were the marrying Justice. Every time we tried to get married nearer home we were chased away, because my old man made every Squire up our way promise not to marry us."

The couple said they had between them $20 and would not be afraid to go back on the train, and they left that way last night. The bridegroom works on his father's farm.

FIGHT IN A SUBWAY EXPRESS.

Conductor Who Grappled with an Offending Passenger Is Arrested.

Passengers who filled three Subway cars were alarmed last night when Conductor Thomas J. Burke, in charge of a northbound express, and Daniel Grosnan of 219 West Forty-fourth Street rolled through the cars as the train ran from Seventy-second to Ninety-sixth Street, fighting as hard as they could.

The fight started just after the Seventy-second Street Station was left behind. Grosnan, says Burke, had displayed unmistakable signs of sickness in a car in which he was a passenger and had been invited to leave the train. He didn't. Burke, angered at the complaints of passengers, grappled with Grosnan. Then followed the flying fight through the three cars.

At Ninety-sixth Street Burke had the better of the fight, and when the train came to a stop handed Grosnan over to Special Policeman Welton, who asked the conductor to accompany him to the West 100th Street Station. There Grosnan charged Burke with assault and the conductor was locked up. Burke's train went on without him.

WRONG REAL ESTATE FIRM.

Edward McVickar Was Not Interested in the McVickar-Gaillard Company.

An error in the reports of the death at Babylon, L. I., on Decoration Day, of Edward McVickar, the real estate broker who was stricken with acute indigestion in his automobile, caused some embarrassment yesterday to one of the largest real estate firms in the city. Through lack of definite information in the reports of the death from Babylon the impression was created that Mr. McVickar was a member of the McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company, whose business was established in 1796, and whose main office is at 7 Pine Street, with branch offices throughout the city. No McVickar has been connected with or interested in this firm since 1906, when Harry W. McVickar, the former President of the McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company died. Owing to the wrong impression which got into THE TIMES's report among others, many expressions of regret were received at the offices of the McVickar-Gaillard Company.

Alleviating Neurasthenia

is a question of good nursing, good air, good exercise carefully supervised, and other measures dictated by common sense. At the basis of the treatment, however, lies nutrition. As there can be no mechanical energy without the consumption of fuel, so there is no physical or mental energy without a parallel combustion. In the latter case albumen and phosphorus furnish the fuel, and neurasthenia is Nature's signal that these have been consumed without being adequately replaced. This replacing can be best accomplished by the administration of Sanatogen, a soluble, almost tasteless powder that is to be added to the dietary in tea, chocolate, &c., three or four times during the day. The testimony to the efficacy of Sanatogen can be characterized only as overwhelming, coming as it does from people of great prominence in all walks of life, and, what is especially remarkable, from world-renowned members of the medical profession. Some of this testimony has been gathered into a book by the Bauer Chemical Company, 506 Everett Building, New York, who will send a copy, free, to any one interested; the testimony is accompanied by portraits of several of those furnishing it. The book also contains a popular scientific essay on neurasthenia by a medical author of experience, that will be read with pleasure and profit, not only by the neurasthenic, but by all persons interested in their health. How science points to Sanatogen as the ideal means of relief is fully explained; also why neurasthenia has come to be known as "The American Disease," and so gives this name to the book. The demand for copies has been enormous, but it is still obtainable direct of the publishers, and we state unhesitatingly that no intelligent person will be disappointed in its perusal.

CORPORATION TAX WILL BE REARGUED

Supreme Court Puts It Over to October, When Gov. Hughes's Vote May Decide.

TAXES WILL BE COLLECTED

Uncertainty Not to Affect Treasury's Plans--Relief to MacVeagh Because Ready Funds Are Needed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—It lies practically with Gov. Hughes to decide whether the Government shall collect the $27,000,000 tax that has just been assessed against the corporations of the country by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under the corporation tax provisions of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law. The Supreme Court before taking its Summer adjournment to-day restored the fifteen cases pending before it to the docket for re-argument before a full bench. Obviously the seven Justices now able to perform duty were divided 4 to 3 on the question of sustaining the tax, and were not willing to permit that kind of a decision to be rendered.

There is constant talk that Justice Moody, who has been ill for a year or more, will be able to return to duty when the court meets for its next term on Oct. 10, but the greater probability is that he will never again sit on the bench. The next time the Supreme Court meets, on Oct. 10 next, Justice Hughes will take his place and begin his judicial career. If a decision is to be rendered, with Justice Moody still unable to share in the work, it will therefore devolve upon Justice Hughes to cast the vote that shall break the situation existing to-day.

The action of the court to-day, while not as satisfactory to the Treasury Department as would have been a decision sustaining the tax, is nevertheless a relief, for it obviates the necessity of some delicate financing that might have been imperative if there had been a decision adverse to the Government. The working balance of the Treasury is down to less than $20,000,000. The deposits in National banks have been run as low as practicable, and the balances to the credit of disbursing officers are at a figure considerably lower than is customary. Under these circumstances an adverse decision would have meant some financing operations certainly before the Fall elections.

How Money Could Be Raised.

June is expected to bring a slight relief to the Treasury through the lapsing of certain unexpended appropriations. But July will be a bad month, as the opening of the fiscal year always is, and the situation, without the corporation tax, would have been practically certain to involve financing operations before Fall. Such operations could only mean the sale of 3 per cent. one-year certificates of indebtedness. The Secretary of the Treasury was authorized under a provision in the tariff law to sell some $200,000,000 of Panama Canal bonds, at interest running up to 3 per cent. Such bonds would have the circulation privilege, and, as no provision was made for increasng the tax secured by such an issue to equalize the interest return from them, and the present 2 per cents, a sale of them under present conditions would be certain to send the $730,000,000 2 per cents now out below par.

For that reason Secretary MacVeagh has resisted issuing any of the authorized 3 per cent. bonds. Meantime he has been endeavoring to get legislation equalizing the circulation tax. But the bill hangs fire in the House, and has never been introduced in the Senate, where Mr. Aldrich is openly opposed to it. The result is that the only financing operation available to the Treasury is an issue of the 3 per cent. certificates which do not carry the circulation privilege.

That is now avoided by the postponement of the decision as to the corporation tax. The law requires that all assessments upon returns of corporations shall be completed in May, and the last of the notifications of assessment were sent out by the different collectors of internal revenue to-day. The tax becomes due to-morrow, and is all payable by June 30. After that the law gives the internal revenue officers ten days in which to make one more effort to collect from delinquents, and then the Commissioner has power to distrain. He can seize and sell the property of any delinquent and collect not only the original tax, but a penalty of 5 per cent., with an additional one per cent. penalty for each month he is delayed in forcing the collection.

Will Collect the Tax.

It was announced at the Treasury Department this afternoon by Secretary MacVeagh and Commissioner Cabell that they were going right ahead to collect the tax, and that they expected to have no especial difficulty in getting in most, if not all, of the $27,000,000. The tax may be paid under protest, but protesting will not help the payers to get their money back in case the Supreme Court finally overthrows the law any more easily than those who do not protest. All money received as corporation taxes will go into the general fund of the Treasury and be used just the same as any other money in that fund. Then if the law is finally overthrown the general refunding sections of the Internal Revenue laws will come into operation and the money will be refunded as paid. The corporation tax sections of the tariff law specifically made applicable to tihs tax all the general provisions for collecting internal revenue.

All this means that the Treasury will now probably be able to avoid any financing at least until after the elections next Fall. In fact the process of collecting the second year's corporation tax may be well under way before the Supreme Court finally settles the matter. There is, in fact, so much uncertainty about the makeup of the court itself in the near future that these cases, along with those involving the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trusts may be pending for a long time.

WOMEN IN ROW OVER TAFT.

Organization Goes to Pieces After Club Leader Proposed Hissing His Name.

President Taft has unconsciously precipitated a fine row among the women of Bayonne, N. J. Some do not speak as they pass by, and others say things that might as well be left unsaid. It started over the President's attitude on woman suffrage. Mrs. William B. Du Bois, President of the Woman's Political Study Club of Bayonne, which is made up of the principal women of the village, made a bitter speech at the last meeting, when the question of woman suffrage came up for debate, attacking President Taft, and asking every member of the club to hiss every mention of the President's name.

Many of her auditors resented the suggestion. The insurgents, headed by Mrs. Watters of Avenue C and Mrs. Morris Ten Broeck, got up and resigned on the spot, saying they would not be a party to such unpatriotic conduct. Other resignations flowed in, and it looks as if the controversy will disorganize the club.

"This club is wandering from its original purpose," declared Mrs. Ten Broeck in a spirited attack upon President Du Bois. "Mrs. Du Bois cannot Joe Cannonize us. It is no longer a credit to belong to this institution, but a detriment. I feel that my connection with it was responsible for my husband losing the Republican nomination for Mayor last Fall."

Mrs. Ten Broeck did not go into particulars regarding this subject, and many are trying to figure out just how Mr. Ten Broeck lost that nomination. Mrs. Du Bois's answer to the charge was "cat." Mrs. Watters went to the defense of her co-insurgent by declaring that never had her husband performed so obliging a service for her as when he mailed her resignation to the Secretary. There will be another meeting of the club soon, if enough members remain, and the question will come up for argument again. The male element of the village is looking forward to the meeting with interest.

The petition avers that since its formation the Western Trunk Line Committee, unincorporated, with headquarters in Chicago, is the instrument by means of which freight rates have been fixed, applicable to all freight within its jurisdiction.

It asserts that the charges now to be imposed are the same for all the defendants and are so made by agreement. The following is the method by which, the petition alleges, rates are fixed by the Western Trunk Line Committee:

"Each of the defendants is a member of the Western Trunk Line Committee. There is a Freight Committee, composed of the Freight Traffic Manager or General Freight Agent of each of the defendants. This committee meets every month. Whenever a defendant contemplates a change in any of its rates, rules, or regulations the officer or official representing such defendant on said committee suggests such change to the Chairman of the committee, who then dockets the same for consideration and discussion at the next meeting of the Freight Committee. At that meeting the matter is brought up for consideration. If all agree the proposed change is made by all the roads defendants herein. Unless there is unanimous agreement the suggestion is rejected and no road adopts the proposed change of rates."

The Western Trunk Line Committee is said to have succeeded another association of a similar character, the name of which is unknown; but the complainant avers that there are other associations of a similar character to which portions of the United States have been assigned, and of which many of the defendants are members.

The complainant charges that the committee was organized and is maintained in violation of the provision of the act of Congress in 1890, and that it constitutes an unlawful combination and conspiracy in restraint of commerce and trade.

Part three of the petition says that in 1909 or early in 1910 the defendants conspired and determined to make a general advance in commodity rates to prevail throughout the Western trunk lines committee territory, ushing the committee as a means to put the advance into effect.

"The Freight Committee had a meeting, the date of which is unknown," continues the petition, "and the commodity rates named in ICC. tariff A-115, and sometimes called Hosmer's Tariff No. 1D., were gone over and considered. The conference resulted in an agreement on the advances to be made. After they had been determined upon, each of the defendants notified the Chairman of the Western Trunk Line Committee, Hosmer of Chicago, who had printed a schedule of the advances, called Supplement No. 2, to Freight Tariff No. 1-D.

"On April 27, 1910, Hosmer, as agent for each of the defendants, filed separately on behalf of each of them, with the Inter-State Commerce Commission, the new schedule to become effective on June 1, 1910, on the lines of all the defendants, unless the enforcement thereof is restrained by this honorable court."

Charges are made that the unreasonable and excessive rates, fixed without competition, by conspiracy, apply to a vast number of commodities of prime utility and daily necessity.

"The unreasonable advances in freight charges apply approximately 60 per cent. of the commodities carried, and will increase freight charges in amounts varying from 10 to 20 per cent. of the rates in effect heretofore," it is charged.

The petition closes by saying that unless the schedule of rates is restrained, the citizens of the United States who ship commodities through the Western Trunk Line Committee territory, "will be compelled to pay arbitrary, unreasonable, and excessive rates, and will be deprived of the benefits that might be expected to flow from free competition between the lines of transportation and communication owned by the defendants."

WICKERSHAM ACTS QUICKLY.

After Conference with Taft He Orders Injunction Proceeding Brought.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—There was lively work here to-day to prevent the railroads from putting their increased rates into effect to-morrow. It was recognized yesterday, as soon as the Committee of Shippers presented the matter to Attorney General Wickersham, that it would be necessary to obtain the injunction, if one were sought, before midnight to-night, as otherwise the increases would become effective automatically to-morrow, and then the burden would be upon the shippers of showing that the new rates were unjust and unreasonable before the Inter-State Commerce Commission could order a reduction. Such an order also would be subject to adjudication in the courts, with an inevitable delay of a year or two before final action.

Attorney General Wickersham had a long conference with President Taft about the matter this morning. This being the last day of the term of the Supreme Court the Attorney General could not attend the Cabinet meeting, at wihch the matter was also discussed for some time. At the morning conference, however, Mr. Taft had given his assent to the plan of attempting to enjoin the roads from putting their increases into effect, and before going to the Supreme Court Mr. Wickersham had given instructions to the United States District Attorney at St. Louis, Mr. Houts, to secure the services of Frederick N. Judson, the well-known St. Louis lawyer, as Special Assistant District Attorney, and make the application for an injunction.

When he was able to leave court Mr. Wickersham returned to his office and very soon thereafter he was at the White House talking the matter over again with President Taft. The utmost reticence was maintained about the case at both the Department of Justice and the White House. Reports that such action would be taken had been in circulation about Washington all day, but it was not until this evening that confirmation on authority could be had in any quarter. Just before going to dinner the Attorney General declared that he would have nothing to say about it until he received further information. Later, however, he admitted that the action had been taken under his direction. In the meantime word had been received that Judge Dyer had granted the preliminary injunction as asked for.

The representatives of the shippers, who are still here, were much elated over the news. They argue that now the burden will be upon the railroads to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent, and that a great victory has already been won for their side.

CRITICS MISLED, SAYS RIPLEY.

CHICAGO, May 31.—"They've got the pins set up against us," was the first comment of E. P. Ripley, President of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad, when informed to-day that the Government would seek to enjoin the railroads of the Western Traffic Association from putting into effect the advance in rates scheduled for June 1. Mr. Ripley's subsequent remarks left no doubt that the railroads would fight the Government.

"The shippers who have attended meetings to protest against the advance have no personal knowledge of the subject," he continued. "They have been deceived by the ringleaders, who have distorted the facts and have juggled with the figures. If they will take the trouble to ascertain the truth, the deception will become apparent.

"There is no chance for juggling with figures or for deception on the railroad side. Every item of our business is spread before the world. Our offices are full of Government Inspectors to see that all income and outgo are proper and are properly accounted for. Our gross earnings are increasing, but our net income is declining. Who among the shippers would view such a state of things in his own business with equanimity?

"But that is not the worst of it. Such results as are now obtained, poor as they are, arise from policies that are cumulative in evil for the future, because the properties are not improved or kept up to the proper standard. If we are fortunate enough a few years hence to have full crops and active business, and if the railroads are then unable to do what they are expected to do, these same shippers will perhaps perceive that they ought to have seconded rather than opposed the efforts of the railroads for better conditions. Also we have recently increased wages to a large amount, and this will further decrease net earnings.

"I am not referring especially to Atchison conditions. Our Directors have been very conservative and our stockholders have spent on our property much money that they might properly have used for dividends, but even the strongest among us cannot stand under present conditions. The weaker, of course, will drop first."

Mr. Ripley declared false the statement made in resolutions adopted by shippers in Chicago on May 7 "that the net income per mile of road for 1907 was increased 345 per cent. over 1897," and that the returns for the first seven months of the fiscal year 1909-1910 "show a substantial increase in net operating income," thus "indicating a healthy growth of business and relatively cheapening operating cost." Mr. Ripley declared that the returns for 1908 showed a decrease of "net operating revenues" of $525 a mile, despite drastic economy.

"Instead of increasing 345 per cent. between 1897 and 1907, as falsely represented to the shippers, the income from operation increased only 83 per cent., and, if the comparison be made between 1898 and 1908, only 36 per cent.," said Mr. Ripley.

He admitted that the first nine months of the present fiscal year show a substantial recovery from the slump of 1908, but that the recovery, offset by wage grants and increased taxes, did not even justify needed rehabilitation.

SLUMP IN STOCK MARKET.

The Supreme Court's decision in favor of the Inter-State Commerce Commission in the Missouri River rate case and the announcement of the purpose of the Administration to bring injunction proceedings against the Western railroads which have filed rate increases to become effective to-day were reflected in the stock market yesterday by a general decline in prices running to as much as 4 and 5 points in some of the active issues. The trading was considerably more active than last week, the total reaching 755,215 shares. Reading was the most conspicuous stock in the list, not only in point of activity, but in point of weakness as well. It led the list on the day's losses with a net decline of 5¼ points.

The market was but a very little above the bottom when the closing bell sounded, in fact, in a number of stocks the last sale was made at the lowest price of the day. Wall Street was taken by surprise by the news that the Government meant to seek an injunction against the rate increases by the Western roads, of which notice was given to the Inter-State Commerce Commission a month ago. The railroads had advanced these rates as an offset to increased wages and other increased costs of operation, and Wall Street took the view that while an injunction would prevent the application of the increased rates there would be no escape for the railroads from the increased wages which they recently granted to their men. The possibility of lowering the wages recently increased was discussed by railroad men yesterday. The belief was expressed by some that if rates could not be advanced wages would have to be reduced, but it was said to be unlikely that the railroads would take any action along this line in the immediate future.

From the Wall Street point of view the decision to bring injunction proceedings against the railroads to prevent an increase in rates had largely the appearance of a political move. It was led to this belief all the more because the decision of the Supreme Court in the Missouri River rate case seemed to it to afford ample proof of the sufficiency of the present machinery for the control of rates. The point was made that the Government might very well have waited until the Inter-State Commerce Commission had had an opportunity to pass upon the reasonableness of the rates which the railroads planned to put into effect today.

In yesterday's selling of stocks the industrial issues sufered along with railroad stocks, although it was the latter that showed the heaviest losses. The extent of the decline is shown by this comparison of yesterday's prices with the closing prices of last Friday:

	Friday's Close.	—Yesterday.— Low.	Last.	Net Loss.

Out of the day's total sales of 755,000 shares, Reading contributed 189,000 shares and United States Steel 147,000 shares, sales in the two stocks amounting to over 44 per cent. of the entire day's transactions.

RATE ORDERS UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Missouri River and Denver Cases, Involving Reductions, Decided Against the Railroads.

COURT IS DIVIDED, 4 TO 3

Charges Made by Cities That Other Points Got More Favorable Rates Led to the Orders.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Standing 4 to 3, the Supreme Court of the United States to-day decided that the Inter-State Commerce Commission had not exceeded its power in ordering the reduction of freight rates in the so-called Missouri River rate cases and the Denver rate cases. These orders were held to be valid.

The Missouri River rate cases were based on an order of the commission reducing the freight rate between the Mississippi River and the Missouri River as a part of the through rate on through shipments originating in the seaboard territory. The Denver rate cases were based on an order reducing the rates on through freight from Chicago and from St. Louis to Denver.

In both cases certain railroads and shippers concerned asserted that the commission was endeavoring to divide the country into rate zones. The Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois held that this contention was correct. The Supreme Court of the United States to-day, in a decision by Justice McKenna, announced that it believed the commission was not attempting to exercise such a power, and that the record showed no evidence that such was being done. Hence it reversed the decision of the District Court in both cases.

Missouri River Complaints.

The Missouri River contest began early in 1907, when shippers, jobbers, and wholesalers in Kansas City, St. Joseph, and Omaha filed a complaint with the Inter-State Commerce Commission alleging that the rates upon traffic originating at the Atlantic seaboard and destined to these cities were unjust and unreasonable.

After many hearings, in which several parties intervened, an order was issued by the commission directing the railroads doing business between the Mississippi River crossing and the Missouri River to reduce their rates as a part of the through rate on shipments originating in seaboard territory. Seaboard territory is that section of the country east of Buffalo, Pittsburg, and Parkersburg and north of the Potomac.

The railroads in the West and shippers, jobbers, and wholesalers in the East, but outside of the seaboard territory, went into the courts. The Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois enjoined the commission from enforcing the order on the ground that it worked an unjust discrimination against the intermediate localities and shippers. The commission and business men in Missouri River cities appealed from the decision of the Circuit Court.

After the decision had been handed down counsel for the defeated litigants asked the court to give them thirty days to file a petition for a rehearing. Solicitor General Bowers objected on the ground that such would prevent the rates from going into effect before the court met next October. Chief Justice Fuller, however, directed that the mandate of the court issue in thirty days unless a petition for rehearing was filed.

How Denver Got Concessions.

The Denver cases began when, in 1906, George J. Kindel, a manufacturer, complained to the Inter-State Commerce Commission that the freight rates from New York, Chicago, St. Louis, and Omaha were excessive and discriminating, and the rates from Denver to Salt Lake City also were excessive and preferential, as compared with the rates from Kansas City.

The Denver Chamber of Commerce intervened to insist that the proper way to eliminate the alleged discrimination against Denver was not by reducing the rates to Denver but by making Denver a basic line. The commission came to the conclusion that the alleged discrimination against Denver was due to the fact that the Missouri River was used as a basic line and that instead of having a through rate from the East to Denver the railroads were giving Colorado points a combination of the rates to the Missouri and the rates from the Missouri to Denver.

Consequently it was ordered that by May 1 the railroads should put into effect reduced rates from Chicago and St. Louis to Denver. Before they went into effect the railroads took the matter into the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois and had the commission enjoined from enforcing the order. On the ground that the court had no jurisdiction and that the court erred in its decree the commission appealed to the Supreme Court.

The decision of the court was based on the reasoning in the Misouri River rate case, announced just before, to the effect that the record did not show the commission was trying to divide the country into rate zones, a power it did not possess.

Justice White delivered a dissenting opinion, in which Justices Lurton and Holmes concurred.

The court also upheld the Circuit Court in granting an injunction against the enforcement of the statute of March 19, 1907, relating to the stoppage of the inter-State commerce trains at Lathrop, Mo.

An attempt to have the Supreme Court of the United States pass on the authority of common carriers engaged in inter-State commerce to make "Jim Crow" regulations met with failure to-day when the court dismissed the so-called Chiles appeal from its docket.

INCREASE BY LEHIGH VALLEY.

Commutation Rates Between New York and Bound Brook Go Up.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—In consonance with the action of other Eastern lines, the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company today filed with the Inter-State Commerce Commission advances in its rates on commutation passenger traffic. The new tariff applies to all stations between New York City and Bound Brook, N. J., and will become effective July 1, 1910.

In practically every instance of change the tariff shows an increase. The advance, however, is comparatively slight when considered in connection with that made by the New York, New Haven & Hartford or by the Erie.

The general increase is a trifle over 5 per cent. on the various kinds of commutation fares. On sixty-trip monthly tickets the average is 3.76 per cent.; on the fifty-trip family tickets, 4.65 per cent., and on ten-trip tickets, 6.95 per cent. On the sixty-trip tickets the increases range from 2.9 per cent. to 5.4 per cent.; on the fifty-trip tickets from 2.1 per cent. to 20.8 per cent., and on the ten-trip tickets from 3.8 per cent. to 17.4 per cent.

Burroughs Wants Sparrows Killed.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 31.—John Burroughs, the eminent naturalist and bird lover, has gone on record as an avowed enemy of the pugnacious and destructive English sparrow. In a letter to C. W. Edgar, a Middletown business man, Mr. Burroughs says it is the duty of the police of every city to destroy English sparrow nests. His son, he adds, shoots the sparrows as fast as they appear on the Burroughs place in Ulster County.

The "still small voice" of comfort again suggests the Two-piece Suit

The Two-piece Suit as created by our designers is a striking instance of evolution from the "outing" garments of earlier years.

In the minds of most of us—and naturally so—the designation "outing" suit is associated with floppy, shapeless clothes that required but few wearings to get them into that undesirable state which no well-dressed man could countenance.

To-day the Two-garment Suit, as produced by us, is essentially a comfort suit, yet as well adapted to the exactions of proper every day business dress as to the less punctilious requirements of country wear.

Saks Two-garment Suits for Men, at 6.50 to 35.00

READY AT LAST IN BOOK FORM

A Remarkable New Novel by the author of "The Inner Shrine"

The WILD OLIVE

The Chicago Journal, in a column-long review, says:

"THE WILD OLIVE," a second novel by the anonymous author of "The Inner Shrine," is even more interesting than the earlier book that this reviewer is now inclined to ascribe to the unknown author those qualities that only the most ardent partisans of that writer insisted on as characteristic of the first novel. "THE WILD OLIVE" has a broader basis of plot, a finer conception of character and a higher idealism than was apparent in "The Inner Shrine."

"THE WILD OLIVE" is a story in a new setting, a story that seizes the reader from the first chapter—a story of great vigor and delightful charm. The scene opens in the Adirondack wilderness, with a fugitive from justice, young and a gentleman, running through the woods at night. Looking through a cottage window, he recognizes the judge who condemned him—innocent. A girl's form outside beckons him to follow. The story rushes on, carrying the youth into rehabilitated manhood and the girl to the height of emotional sacrifice and final triumph.

BRIDEGROOM'S DEATH REVEALS A WEDDING

Edward F. Hollister, 59, and His Bride, 23, Kept Their Secret Nearly Two Years.

CORONER ORDERS INQUIRY

Which the Wife Welcomes—Sculptor MacDonald's Granddaughter the Heroine of Two Romances.

Coroner Alfred H. Iles of Yonkers has determined to hold an inquest into the death of Edward F. Hollister of 4,079 Fulton Avenue, Tremont, whose marriage in October, 1908, to Mrs. Aleathe Knickerbocker Raymond, a daughter of Willis W. Knickerbocker of 286 Hawthorne Avenue, Yonkers, and a granddaughter of Wilson D. MacDonald, the sculptor, who died recently, became known only after the death of the elderly bridegroom in St. John's Hospital in Yonkers on Monday. Although wedded for nearly two years Hollister, who was 59 years old, and his bride a girl of 23, never lived together a single day.

"Mr. Hollister was my father's best man at his wedding. When I was a baby he held me in his arms, and afterward he was always kind and sympathetic. We married merely that we might be nearer comrades," said Mrs. Hollister yesterday. "After my husband's death the Coroner asked me many questions about what drugs my husband used, and he said that it looked as if Mr. Hollister had eaten ground glass. At the hospital Dr. Barnes said that 'it certainly looked suspicious.' I am glad that they had an autopsy."

The autopsy, held yesterday, showed, according to Dr. Barnes of the hospital staff, that Hollister "died from natural causes." Coroner Iles will hold the inquest nevertheless.

Mrs. Hollister spoke freely of her husband's death. He was taken ill on May 21, she said, and three days later was so ill that she determined to have him taken to the hospital. He was carried there in an automobile. The case proved difficult for the physicians to diagnose. He was unconscious the greater part of the time and in his conscious moments was so weak that he could not talk. On Tuesday he became worse rapidly and efforts of the physicians to arouse him were futile.

Mr. Hollister at one time had a fortune, but bad investments in the panic of 1907 dissipated this. One of their reasons for not living together, said Mrs. Hollister, was that her husband wished first to recoup his fortune.

Mrs. Hollister's first marriage caused a sensation among her friends, as has the news of her second matrimonial venture. When she was only 19 years old, in 1906, she was married by a Justice of the Peace to George Raymond, a wealthy mine promoter and prospector.

The couple were on an excursion to West Point, and Mrs. Hollister says that the subject of marriage came up and was joked about by the whole party. Finally others in the group dared Miss Knickerbocker to marry Raymond, and she consented. She says she regarded the ceremony as a joke at first, but she and her husband decided to let the marriage stand.

Mr. Raymond was killed in a mine explosion almost a year to a day after his marriage, and soon afterward a son who had been born to the couple died also. Mrs. Raymond was heartbroken at the time and was very despondent. It was then that Mr. Hollister showed the kindness and thoughtfulness that later induced Mrs. Raymond to marry him.

CHIEF KOHLER ON TRIAL.

Witnesses Declare He Was Intoxicated on Election Night, Nov. 3.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 31.—What promises to be one of the most sensational trials ever held in this city was begun before the Civil Service Commission to-day when Frederick Kohler, suspended Chief of Police, appeared to answer charges which have been filed against him.

Kohler, who Roosevelt called the "best Chief of Police," and who is the originator of the "Golden Rule" in police matters, is accused of misconduct in office, intoxication, and immorality. The charges were filed last Wednesday, and he was suspended by Mayor Baehr Thursday. Kohler to-day filed with the Civil Service Commission a general denial of the twenty-three charges against him.

Allegations of intoxication were the main points touched upon to-day at the trial. The first witnesses called testified that in their opinion Kohler was intoxicated last election night, Nov. 3, in the rooms of the Board of Elections, and upon the street.

KAISER NOT AT REVIEW.

Son Takes His Place, but Emperor's Wrist Is Said to be Healing.

POTSDAM, May 31.—For the first time in his reign the Emperor to-day failed to attend the annual review of the garrison of Potsdam. Crown Prince Frederick William took the place of his Majesty. He was accompanied by Empress Auguste Victoria, King Albert, and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, Prince Tsai-Tao, brother of the Prince Regent of China, and Marquis San Giuliano, the Italian Foreign Minister.

The abscess on the right wrist of the Emperor 2is healing, and his Majesty's physicians appear to be satisfied with the results of their treatment.

The Emperor remains at the New Palace, where King Albert, who arrived yesterday, is being entertained.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

MADRID, May 31.—A decree was issued to-day directing religious orders not authorized by the Concordat of 1851 or engaged in industry to seek immediately authorization under the law adopted in 1887. This law, which has not heretofore been enforced, provides, among other things, that members of foreign religious orders must be registered.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 31.—Willing Spencer of Pennsylvania, recently appointed Third Secretary of the American Embassy here, arrived to-day.

EARTHQUAKE JARS MEXICO.

Guests of Hotels Run Out in Alarm—No Damage Done.

MEXICO CITY, May 31.—A slight earthquake of about one and a half minutes' duration was experienced last night. The oscillation was from west to east. No damage was done, but for a time considerable apprehension was felt, particularly among guests at the hotels.

Many who had retired ran hurriedly into the halls, scantily clad, and those in the lobbies ran into the streets. In the residence quarter hundreds of persons left their homes, but no one was hurt.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Weather Bureau issued the following bulletin today:

> A distant earthquake, probably of considerable intensity at the origin, was recorded at the Weather Bureau in the early morning of May 31. The preliminary tremors began at one minute twenty-six seconds after midnight, 75th Meridian time. The second preliminary tremors began at six minutes forty-six seconds after midnight.
>
> While the amount of motion recorded was only moderate, the duration of the record exceeded an hour, and apparently was produced by an earthquake of rather greater than usual intensity. The phases of the motion were fairly sharply indicated and denote a probable distance of the origin of about 3,000 miles. The record does not indicate any special direction from Washington.

ALBANY, May 31.—The seismograph at the State Museum registered an earthquake shock of moderate intensity last night. The tremors began at 12:02 A. M. and continued until 12:50, the maximum movement occurring at 12:18.

CLEVELAND, May 31.—The seismograph at St. Ignatius's College to-day showed the record of an earthquake last night of more than forty-two minutes' duration. The shock began at 11:01:27 and the end came at 11:43:55. The maximum tremor occurred at 11:18.

FEAR OUTBREAK AT NANKING.

Chinese Authorities Send Warships—Troops to be Replaced.

SHANGHAI, May 31.—Chinese warships, with troops, have been dispatched to Nanking in anticipation of a native outbreak against foreigners. The latter have been warned.

The Chinese soldiers now at Nanking will be replaced by a force from Shanghai, as they are not considered reliable in case of need.

Porto Rico to Hold Exhibition.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 31.—Gov. Colton has notified the foreign consuls that an exhibition will be held at San Juan next February, and has extended an invitaion to the nations to participate in it. The insular Government will make a liberal appropriation for the exhibition.

COTTON BEARS RAID MARKET.

Most Active Day Since January Brings Slump of $2.10 to $3.25 a Bale.

In the most active day's trading that the cotton market has seen since the January slump the future options made declines ranging from $2.10 to $3.25 a bale yesterday, and gave the bears an inning, which they have been waiting for since the domination of the Patton-Hayne-Brown-Scales bull pool.

Liquidation was heavy, helped in the later trading by a smash on the Stock Exchange, and stop-loss orders were uncovered in quantities.

Support was not apparent until the decline had spent its force, and then, although the rally put prices back from 25 to 30 points, or $1.25 to $1.50 a bale, the close was within 50 cents to $1 of the lowest.

Favorable weather developments in the cotton States over the holiday, forecasts of an encouraging nature by the private prognosticators, and the passing of the last day for deliveries of May cotton without any signs of a squeeze, all helped the designs of the bears. With the close of the time for deliveries yesterday the total of May cotton tendered on contract in the New York market reached the unprecedented aggregate of 335,500 bales, which is 48,000 bales more than the entire deliveries of the season of 1903-4, and from 65 to 90 per cent. approximately of a full season's deliveries in recent years.

Interest now centres in the July option, because of the reported activities in it of the operators of the May pool. July ranged yesterday from 14.83 to 14.18, an extreme drop of 65 points, or $3.25 a bale. There was no credence given on the Exchange to rumors that the bull clique had been unloading during the decline. In fact, much of the rally from the low point in the July option to 14.40 at the close was attributed to buying by the May bulls and their following.

The new crop options, which showed extreme declines of from $2.10 a bale for September and December to $2.45 a bale for October, felt the full effect of the favorable news from the South. The anticipations of the Government report of condition, due to be made public on Thursday, were generally more favorable than had been anticipated, and ranged above 80 per cent.

TRIBUTES TO DR. LADINSKY.

Physicians Praise Head of Beth Israel Hospital at a Dinner to Him.

Leading physicians and educators of the city united in a dinner at Delmonico's last night to Dr. Louis J. Ladinsky, President of the Medical Board of Beth Israel Hospital. Dr. Ladinsky reorganized the big east side Jewish hospital twelve years ago. He will take his first vacation since that time by going to Europe early in July.

Rabbi Samuel Schulman, one of the speakers, said that he and not Israel Zangwill, the novelist, coined the now famous phrase, "The Melting Pot."

"I coined the term in a sermon delivered in this city a year and a half before Zangwill used it," said Rabbi Schulman. "But I used it in a much different sense than Zangwill subsequently did. American democracy, in my opinion, is a vast 'melting pot' in that it absorbs all races, brings out the common humanity in each, separates the gold from the dross and preserves only the gold. We should get out of the habit of associating the word Russian with the Jewish immigrant. The Jew is not a mujik. As a matter of fact, if Russia would only get rid of her priests the 5,000,000 Jews among her inhabitants would turn her into a first-class commercial nation within thirty years."

Dr. Brooks H. Wells, professor at the New York Polyclinic, presided. Among those who praised the work of Dr. Ladinsky at Beth Israel were Dr. John A. Wyeth, President of the Academy of Medicine; Dr. E. Altman, Abraham E. Rothstein, and Dr. Jonas F. Reinthaler.

MURDERED AT ALTAR WHILE SHE PRAYED

This Is the Police Theory of How Alma Kellner Came by Her Death.

JANITOR STILL MISSING

Evidence Accumulates Implicating Him—Girl's Relatives Offer $1,000 Reward for His Arrest.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 31.—Discoveries made to-day in the basement of St. John's Catholic Church, according to the police, reveal almost every detail of the murder of Alma Kellner, 8 years old, who disappeared on Dec. 8 after attending services at St. John's, having probably been snatched from the altar, where she was wont to pray alone. Buried in the church basement, just under the sacristy, were found Alma's gauntlet glove, her handkerchief, and two men's handkerchiefs, covered with blood.

It is now the police theory that Alma was late for the regular church service; that she was discovered alone, praying in the church, and was seized by Joseph Wendling, the parish house janitor, who, the police believe, murdered the child and dragged her body into the basement through a hole in the sacristy.

The police believe that Wendling tried to burn the body in the church furnace, and failing, threw it later into an old cistern under one of the parish houses. There it was accidentally discovered yesterday.

The girl's body was buried in St. Louis Cemetery this afternoon. Only Frank Fehr, a wealthy uncle, and a friend accompanied the body to the grave.

Mrs. Joseph Wendling, who is held at the police station here, charged with having been an accessory to the murder, adheres to her statement that a ring and pin found in a trunk at her home, both of which have positively been identified as the property of the murdered girl, were given to her by a boy. Beyond her admission that she has seen nothing of her husband since his disappearance, on Jan. 14, when he drew $100 from the bank, she will say nothing about him.

Diligent investigation by the police and detectives is providing a strong chain of circumstantial evidence about the missing janitor, for whose apprehension they will search every part of the country. Clothing which he is known to have worn bears numerous stains of blood. A hat recovered from an old barrel, where Mrs. Wendling stated she had thrown it about the time of the janitor's flight, also bears numerous stains. The trapdoor to the subcellar was so effectively hidden that its existence could have been known to no one not intimately acquainted with the building.

The keys to the school building, say the police, were always held by Wendling, who was given employment one month before the disappearance of Alma Kellner. The carpet in which the body was wrapped for its hasty burial is similar in quality to that found in the school storeroom.

Relatives to-day offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Alma Kellner.

A telegram from New Orleans says a man thought to be Wendling has been seen there. Wendling is said to have relatives in New Orleans, and the old French quarter of the city is being searched.

Manufacturers Wholesalers

We are saving some concerns of merely average size $30,000 yearly. We may save you more—perhaps less. Suppose we save you only $10,000. Wouldn't that $10,000 enable you to employ the best six-fingered, strong-arm, red-blooded sales manager, or the best territory-owning salesman your competitors have ever produced—and build up your business several notches? Or wouldn't it enable you to pay the bank interest on $170,000 of a bank loan so that you could carry more stock or buy more raw material? Or can't you spend that $10,000 in ADVERTISING so that it will produce a $50,000 profit for you? We know some advertising specialists who will come pretty near doing it for you.

We are getting inquiries every day from the big standard concerns whose names are National names—whose products are known everywhere—whose goods you buy as a matter of daily habit. Such of them as find, after reading our literature, that we can save money for their particular business are moving to the Bush Terminal. But the point is they investigate—won't you? They write and ask us "HOW?" Won't you? They believe that when we come out and spend a great many thousands of dollars saying we can save money—and a lot of it for manufacturers and wholesalers—that we CAN do it for SOME—perhaps for THEM—and they want to find out—don't you?

Write and ask us "HOW?" A postal may save you $20,000.

EARLE ANNULMENT HELD UP.

Court Wants Proof That Artist's Italian Marriage Wasn't Legal.

Julia Kuttner Earle, who sued Ferdinand Pinney Earle for the annulment of her marriage to him, will have to wait for her decree until her counsel can satisfy Supreme Court Justice Fitzgerald that she was not legally married under the Italian law. Justice Fitzgerald signed a memorandum yesterday giving this as his reason for delaying his confirmation of the report of Referee Joseph A. Foley, recommending a decree of annulment.

Julia Kuttner Earle alleged that when Earle married her in Venice in March, 1908, Emilie Fishbacher Earle, Earle's first wife, had not received a final decree of divorce from the French courts. This, she contended, invalidated her marriage to Earle. In this State a period of thirty days must elapse between the granting of an interlocutory and final decree of divorce, and in that period a new marriage cannot be contracted.

LIEUT. M'AULIFFE FINED 30 DAYS' PAY

Many in the Department Expected Him to be Dismissed for Arresting a Coroner.

NOT HIS FIRST TROUBLE

Accused a Year Ago of Having Spent a Sunday Night in a Tammany Leader's Saloon.

Police Commissioner Baker announced yesterday that a fine of thirty days' pay had been imposed on Lieut. Timothy McAuliffe for arresting on April 16 Coroner Schwannecke of the Bronx while he was examining witnesses in the Alexander Avenue Police Station. Many students of police affairs wondered after the announcement if the Lieutenant had made good his statement to the Coroner that he "would get away with it." It was clearly understood that Mayor Gaynor was taking more than ordinary interest in the affair, and astonishment was expressed that McAuliffe had escaped dismissal.

The arrest of the Coroner occurred just after midnight on the morning of April 16. He was investigating the death of Robert Fullam of 253 East 136th Street, and was examining a woman witness in the police station. According to the story told by McAuliffe, the Coroner was speaking in loud tones, and so he, the Lieutenant, interfered. Words passed between the Coroner and the police officer, with the result that Schwannecke was arrested and detained in the station for three-quarters of an hour, till the arrival of Capt. Naughton.

The Coroner alleged that when he protested against his arrest and threatened to report it, Lieut. McAuliffe replied that he didn't "care a damn for Mayor Gaynor, Inspector Flood, or any one else," and that he had "got away" with other things and could get away with this, whether they liked it or not. It looked, however, for a time as though the Lieutenant might find it was one thing to boast and another to make good.

The Mayor summoned Commissioner Baker and the Lieutenant to his office on April 19, and also invited Coroner Schwannecke to be present. When he had heard both sides of the matter, the Mayor directed that charges be brought against McAuliffe, and then, turning to the Coroner, made a formal apology, saying:

"I do not know how high or low you speak in your court, but I should think that every one on the police force would know that no policeman has the right to go into your court to regulate your manners or the way of conducting your business. It would be no more surprising if this officer had come in here yesterday and put me out of this room, nor would the offense have been any graver."

When charges were preferred against the Lieutenant they turned out to be not strong enough. Third Deputy Police Commissioner Walsh himself drafted a new set, it is understood at the instigation of the Mayor, and it was believed that short shrift would be given to McAuliffe. It was not believed in the department that with the Mayor and the Coroner against him it was possible that he could get out of this scrape.

However, when the case came up for trial McAuliffe produced a large number of police witnesses and one or two citizens. He tried to show that the Coroner, when he came to the station, was under the influence of liquor and that he was naturally a contentious man. A whole platoon of policemen were ready to give evidence on behalf of their superior, and there was no doubt in the minds of those who attended the trial that the members of the department could still hang together in the old familiar way.

The result of the trial was that McAuliffe was returned to duty. He is now fined thirty days' pay. The view of the city administration in the matter is undestood to be that, though the offense was one which would not be for a moment tolerated in England or in any other country, the New York police have been safe in the enjoyment of their own sweet way for so long that it would be unwise to deal too severely with the first offender to be called to book. It is admitted that McAuliffe might have been dismissed, but under the circumstances it is agreed that there is nothing more to be done in the matter.

At Police Headquarters it was pointed out yesterday that perhaps one consideration which determined the Commissioner to stop short of dismissal was the fear of what the courts might do. They act entirely on the evidence taken in a case from which an appeal is made, and as undoubtedly there was a great deal of testimony introduced to give some kind of justification to McAuliffe, it was feared that a dismissal would only result in his reinstatement after some months' delay, with a comfortable little sum for back pay.

Another consideration in the estimate of the punishment by the police is its effect on McAuliffe's chance for promotion. When a policeman takes the examination for his next step in rank, points are deducted for each day's fine to which he has been subjected, and with the competition for Captaincies as keen as it is, the fine of thirty days' pay makes it practically impossible for the man thus mulcted to be promoted.

For all that, a good many of the police were cheerful as they heard that McAuliffe was back at his desk again. It seemed to them that the same tactics as had got McAuliffe off once before had served again. Last Summer he was charged by Robert Binkerd, then Secretary of the Citizens' Union, with having been one Sunday night in Eugene McGuire's saloon. McAuliffe proved by six witnesses that he had spent that evening in a moving-picture exhibition. He was acquitted.

Eugene McGuire is the Tammany district leader of the Thirty-second Assembly District. Near his saloon is the Fairmount Athletic Club, of which many Bronx politicians are members. It goes in for boxing exhibitions, which from time to time have been alleged to be of dubious character. The police have always declared that it is impossible for them to obtain any evidence to substantiate these rumors, and the members have been allowed to disport themselves unmolested.

CLUBBER INVOKES THE LAW.

Gebhardt, Dismissed from Force, Seeks Reinstatement Through Courts.

Frederick C. Gebhardt, Jr., a patrolman who was dismissed from the police force on Feb. 7 after a trial for conduct unbecoming an officer and for assaulting a citizen, obtained a writ of certiorari from Supreme Court Justice McCall yesterday for a review of his case.

Gebhardt was tried before Deputy Commissioner Walsh. He was charged with making unjustifiable arrests, of lodging an unjustifiable charge of assault against Augustus Hayes and John T. Moore, and of assaulting Ernest E. Oberst. He was convicted and dismissed.

"The charges were made under the direction of Mayor Gaynor," Gebhardt says, "who made an ex parte investigation. In consequence of the action of the Mayor the report of his investigation was communicated to the Police Commissioner, and he formed an opinion as to the guilt of the petitioner, who was deprived of a fair, impartial, and just trial. The dismissal was not based on the evidence, but was the result of the desire of the Mayor of the City of New York and the Police Commissioner to cause the dismissal of any member of the force against whom charges involving the so-called clubbing of citizens were made without regard to whether the evidence substantiated such charges."

Justice Patterson's Estate $309,572.

CHARGES WILLCOX WITH BIAS.

Third Avenue's Counsel Wants Service Board Chairman Excluded.

The Public Service Commission had another session yesterday on the Third Avenue reorganization plan, and another set of protests from William D. Guthrie, attorney for the bondholders and for the newly organized Third Avenue Railway Company, which has come into existence to take over the property as purchased by the bondholders at the foreclosure sale. After Mr. Guthrie was through protesting the commission made some progress in having its accountant, Marvyn Scudder, cross-examined.

The commission announced that it would not allow the new railway company to intervene in the present proceeding and become the party of major interest, but that it would be kindly disposed toward an application de novo from the new company, and in that event would receive in bulk the evidence taken in the many hearings on the bondholders' proposal, or such part of it as the parties might agree to present.

Then Mr. Guthrie renewed his application for the exclusion of Chairman Willcox on account of alleged bias shown in his recent speech before the Finance Forum of the West Side Young Men's Christian Association. The attorney for the reorganizers sought to read in evidence newspaper accounts of Mr. Willcox's speech, but the commission ruled against this unless he was prepared to submit evidence to show that the accounts were accurate. This Mr. Guthrie was not prepared to do, but he declared that Mr. Willcox had sent copies of his speech to the newspaper offices in advance.

"That latter statement is absolutely untrue," remarked the Chairman with emphasis.

"Then I have been misadvised," replied Mr. Guthrie more mildly as he sat down. He rose again shortly to protest once more against allowing a representative of the Knickerbocker Committee of Third Avenue stockholders to cross-examine Mr. Scudder on the ground that the stock had been wiped out in the foreclosure sale and had no standing in a reorganization. The commission decided to permit the cross-examination, and Mr. Guthrie, after taking an exception, said that he would defer his further cross-examination of Mr. Scudder until the stockholders were through. The rest of the day was spent in Mr. Scudder's cross-examination.

WOULD LIFT FIREWORKS BAN.

Retail Dealers Appeal to Court to Compel Permits to be Issued.

Supreme Court Justice Erlanger reserved decision yesterday on the application of Mirabeau L. Towns, representing the retail fireworks dealers of the city, for a writ of mandamus, compelling Fire Commissioner Waldo to issue permits for the sale of fireworks between June 10 and July 10.

Mr. Towns attacked the Municipal Explosives Commission, which passed regulations limiting the sale of fireworks at retail, as an illegal body, and denounced the regulations of May 19 as tyrannical and Dogberrian. The commission's regulations prohibited the sale of fireworks at retail in any building occupied in whole or in part as a dwelling house and in any building not equipped with an approved automatic sprinkling system.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Arnold C. Weil said that statistics prepared by ex-Fire Commissioner Hayes showed that the sale of fireworks at retail between June 10 and July 10 had in past years caused a heavy increase in the number of fires, and that there was no question that these fires were due to the promiscuous sale of explosives.

He defended the regulations under which Fire Commissioner Waldo had acted as absolutely necessary to protect not only property, but the lives of dwellers in tenement and apartment houses which were in part occupied by retail stores. He said that the Municipal Explosives Commission was properly constituted under the law, and its rulings might not be reviewed.

MONUMENT TO WAR VICTIMS.

One in New York Soldiers' Memory to be Dedicated at Cold Harbor, Va.

A monument to commemorate the heroism of the soldiers of the Eighth New York Heavy Artillery, who fell in the battle of Cold Harbor, Va., on June 3, 1864, is to be dedicated on Friday, June 3, the forty-sixth anniversary of the engagement, at Cold Harbor. At this battle 600 men out of 1,800 were killed or wounded.

The One Hundred and Twenty-ninth New York Volunteer Infantry was organized in 1862 in the Counties of Niagara, Genesee, and Orleans and was mustered into service on Aug. 22 that year. Col. Peter A. Porter commanding. It was immediately ordered to Baltimore and there relieved the Seventh New York Militia at Fort Federal Hill, where it remained until May 15, 1864. While there the regiment was transferred to heavy artillery and recruited to 1,800 men.

On May 15, 1864, the regiment was ordered to join the Second Corps of the Army of the Potomac at Spotsylvania Court House, where it arrived on May 18 and was immediately ordered into battle. On the 3d of June the regiment went into action at Cold Harbor, one of the bloodiest battles of the war. Col. Porter fell in the engagement.

The regiment remained in active service until the surrender of Lee, taking part in most of the important engagements.

Des Moines Wants to Hear the Mayor.

Mayor Gaynor has received an invitation from the city government of Des Moines, Iowa, to make the principal address at the laying of the cornerstone of the city's new municipal building on June 14. The Mayor is most anxious to attend, being greatly interested in Des Moines, the largest city in the country which has the commission form of government, but he has a previous engagement for that date at St. John's College, Annapolis, where he will receive the degree of LL. D.

ELEVATOR CO.'S HEAD HELD FOR SMUGGLING

Hiram R. Lyon of Minneapolis Had $4,350 in Gems Concealed.

CARRIED PEARL NECKLACES

Appraiser Declined a Belated Offer of Settlement, Saying It Was a Case for the District Attorney.

Hiram R. Lyon, head of the Lyon Elevator Company of Minneapolis, Minn., who arrived on Saturday from Europe, accompanied by his wife, daughter, and son, on the Hamburg-American liner Amerika, was taken before United States Commissioner Russ in Hoboken yesterday to answer a charge of attempting to smuggle in jewelry valued at $4,350. After hearing the evidence of Inspector Timothy Donohue, the Customs official who made the seizure, the Commissioner held Mr. Lyon in $2,500 cash bail for examination June 8.

Mr. Lyon arrived on the Amerika on Saturday afternoon. His seven trunks were examined on the pier without any comment on the part of the Customs officials. Mrs. Lyon and her son and daughter had taken their seats in a carriage outside and her husband was about to follow her when an elderly, gray-bearded man, walking with a stick, as though he were near-sighted, bumped against him as if by accident. The gray-bearded man was "Tim" Donohue, the champion jostler of the New York Customs service for more than a quarter of a century.

"What's that in your pocket?" asked Donohue.

"Which pocket?" asked Mr. Lyon in surprise.

"The one with the lump in it," responded Donohue, blinking his cold gray eyes, "and don't be trying to fool an old man with yer nonsense."

"That's my pocketbook," replied Mr. Lyon haughtily, "and what business is it of yours, may I ask?"

"Timothy Donohue is my name," the venerable Inspector replied, "and I am here to see that the revenue laws of the United States are not evaded."

Mr. Lyon showed his pocketbook, which contained a large sum in gold and bills. But in an inside pocket the lynx-eyed Donohue discovered two pearl necklaces which Mr. Lyon admitted he had bought for his wife in Paris for $3,800. He also admitted that his wife had on her person a diamond brooch worth $350.

The Inspector walked out to the carriage where Mrs. Lyon was waiting, and her husband requested her to hand the brooch over. She did so immediately. When the trunks were sent to the Appraiser's Stores, at Christopher and Washington Streets, a gold watch valued at $100 was found.

Surveyor Raczkiewiez told Acting Surveyor George J. Smyth that Mr. Lyon had been requested several times to declare his dutiable goods, but he only declared $504 worth, adding later two suitcases valued at $45.

Mr. Lyon then offered to pay any duties or fines the Surveyor might demand to settle the difficulty, but Mr. Smyth informed him that it was too late, as the case would have to go to the United States District Attorney for prosecution.

LYON A MAGNATE IN GRAIN.

Minneapolis Scarcely Credits Report of Smuggling Charge Against Him.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 31.—H. R. Lyon, who is President of the Lyon Elevator Company, is one of the best-known grain men of Minneapolis. The report of his detention in New York on a charge of smuggling was a distinct shock to his friends here, who declared a mistake must have been made.

"Every one who knows Lyon will discredit the report and will feel sure that he is the victim of an error," said M. R. Devaney, manager of the elevator company of which Lyon is President. "He is not the sort of a man to be engaged in smuggling. It is likely he was entirely misinformed as to the customs laws and erred, if at all, from that reason."

Lyon left Minneapolis Jan. 21 for a tour of the Old World. He visited Mediterranean points, toured Egypt and the Holy Land, and, returning, spent a month in Rome and visited France and England.

Lyon telegraphed Devaney this afternoon that he would leave New York for Minneapolis Thursday and probably would arrive here with his wife and daughter Saturday. He did not mention the matter of his detention, which is taken as indicating that the charge was withdrawn or settled and he is relieved of all responsibility arising from it.

MEET TO MAKE LAW CHEAPER.

Bar Association and Civic Federation Committees in Conference.

Committees of the American Bar Association and the National Civic Federation met at the rooms of the Bar Association, in West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday, to see what could be done to simplify and cheapen judicial procedure throughout the United States.

The Bar Association was represented by Everett P. Wheeler, Prof. Roscoe Pound of Chicago, Charles F. Amidon, Fargo, N. D.; Joseph Henry Beale, Jr., Cambridge, Mass.; Prof. Frank Irvine, Ithaca, N. Y.; Samuel C. Eastman, Concord, N. H.; Samuel Scoville, Philadelphia; Henry D. Eastabrook, New York; Edward F. Sanford, Knoxville, Tenn.; Charles E. Littlefield, New York; Charles S. Hamlin, Boston; Stephen H. Allen, Topeka, Kan.; Arthur Stewart, Baltimore; Prof. John D. Lawson, William L. January, Detroit; William A. Miskeyy, Charles B. Elliott, and George Turner.

The National Civic Federation was represented by Ralph W. Breckenridge, Omaha, Neb.; Morgan J. O'Brien, New York; William E. Chandler, New Hampshire; John B. Sanborn, Madison, Wis.; Selden P. Spencer, St. Louis, Mo.; Stephen H. Allen, Topeka, Kan.; Charles Jewett, New Albany, Ind.; Thomas W. Shelton, Norfolk, Va.; Stephen S. Gregory, Chicago; Willard Saulsbury, Wilmington, Del.; Amasa M. Eaton, Providence, R. I.; Lawrence Cooper, Huntsville, Ala.; Joel F. Valle, Denver, Co.; C. Larue Munson, Williamsport, Penn., and W. I. MacIntyre, Thomasville, Ga.

Chairman Everett P. Wheeler said that the convention could only decide after a considerable discussion exactly what reforms in legal procedure should be recommended. He felt quite hopeful of Senate bill 4,568, "to regulate judicial procedure of the courts of the United States," which a sub-committee of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate has been considering for some time.

READY TO BUILD SUBWAYS.

Gaffney-Steers Syndicate Would Start Work in 60 Minutes if It Got Contract.

James F. Gaffney of the contracting firm of the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers Company said yesterday that his concern would be prepared to bid for the Tri-Borough Subway route on the basis of building, equipment, and operation provided the Public Service Commission turned out a form of contract which it could accept when the revised contracts for this route are made public. Mr. Gaffney added that the bid of the interests he represented would be extremely liberal to the city, and that if the contract were awarded to the company it would be prepared to begin work "within sixty minutes."

The forms of contract for the construction of new subways are now before the Public Service Commission for final revision.

The primary basis on which bids will be asked is the length of time for which the contractor asks the right to operate the subway which he proposes to construct. The contract as first proposed by the commission embodies, however, the indeterminate franchise feature, and it is considered as likely that the final form also will incorporate this phase of the commission's avowed subway building policy.

COCKRAN DEFENDS A NEGRO.

Orator Appears in General Sessions in a Murder Case.

After an absence of eighteen years from the courts, W. Bourke Cockran appeared yesterday in General Sessions in behalf of Victor Nelson, a negro on trial before Judge O'Sullivan for murder in the first degree. Nelson is charged with shooting Claude Humphreys, another negro, on March 28 last in the Carolyn Laundry, at 104 East 129th Street. Mr. Cockran was appointed to defend Nelson by Judge Malone. The last time he appeared in court in this county to defend a prisoner was in 1892.

Nelson and Humphreys lived together at 25 West 134th Street. They quarreled over a woman, and Nelson, it is alleged, went to the laundry, where Humphreys was employed as a mechanic, armed with two pistols, and after their quarrel was renewed shot him.

After the shooting Nelson ran, pursued by Charles Vita, foreman of the laundry. He was caught two blocks away by three policemen, who were attracted by Vita's cries. According to the police, Nelson admitted that he had shot Humphreys and said that he was glad that he had done it.

A jury was obtained at the morning session oft he trial yesterday, and after a brief opening by Assistant District Attorney McCormick the State's witnesses were examined. They testified to hearing Nelson and Humphreys in a quarrel in the hallway on the third floor of the laundry and to hearing Humphreys call Nelson a murderer after he was shot down.

The jury will have an opportunity to hear Mr. Cockran's famed oratory today, when he will open for the defense. His argument will be that his client shot Humphreys in self-defense. It is probable that Mr. Cockran will also sum up today, as the case is likely to go to the jury before night.

TAXICABS PASS THE CITY'S TEST

Meters Show Slight Variation Under Distance Run Prescribed by Chief Oliver.

CITY SUPERVISION IN FORCE

From Now on All Vehicles on Public Stands Will Be Inspected by City Officials.

Chafing under the complaints from many sources that the meters used on taxicabs were inaccurate, all the companies with taxicabs to hire held a public test yesterday afternoon under the supervision of Francis V. S. Oliver, Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Licenses.

At the end of what proved to be a double test, Mr. Oliver announced that he was fully satisfied with the uniformity of the taximeters, including all four makes used in this city. The inspection of all meters by the city goes into effect this morning.

This is sixty days in advance of the new inspection ordinance, which carries a severe penalty for any violation. Mr. Oliver explained that for the time being the Inspectors would have to content themselves with seeing that passengers were not charged at a greater rate than that specified for every twenty squares north and south in Manhattan, and seven squares east and west.

These are the men, he said, who would be appointed by the Mayor, taken from the top of the civil service list: John Drennan, Chief Inspector; George Strobridge, John Bagley, Leo J. Walsh, Thomas F. Walsh, Edward O'Brien, and Edward Doran.

Mr. Oliver intends to have the city open its own garage in a central location and make the tests there, but many of the details of the tests will be decided on, he says, after he has conferred with the Inspectors.

The public test yesterday afternoon was participated in by thirty-one taxicabs, distributed among these companies: The New York Taxicab Company, Popp meter, 8; New York Livery and Auto Company, Popp meter, 5; Mason Seaman Transportation Company, Popp meter, 3; Connecticut Cab Company, Jones meter, 3; New York Transportation Company, Kosmos meter, 5; Universal Taximeter Cab Company, Brunn meter, 2; Taxi-Service Company, Jones meter, 3; Renault Taxi-Service Company, Popp meter, 2. Total 31.

All of these cabs were brought to the Hotel Plaza at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon for this test. When reporters suggested to Mr. Oliver that a more satisfactory test would have been obtained if the cabs had been selected from near-by stands by members of the testing party, the cab company men said this had been thought of and abandoned as impracticable. The officials thought that the cabs had been ordered from the various garages without any attempt to see that the meters used were in any better condition than those in regular use.

The start was made from Fifth Avenue and Sixtieth Street about 2:30 o'clock. It had been arranged to drive the cabs up Fifth Avenue to 110th Street, cross town to Central Park West, down Central Park West to Fifty-ninth Street, and back to the starting point. This was a measured distance of six and one-quarter miles. The charge for this distance should have been $2.70.

It was intended that all the cabs should go over the same route, but because of the lines being cut off by a procession of drays in upper Fifth Avenue, and a misunderstanding by chauffeurs, only fifteen cabs circled the Park, the other sixteen going out 110th Street to Riverside Drive, and thence up to 145th Street, where they turned back, traversing the same route. This, of course, was not a measured course, and tested only the uniformity of the meters.

The official record, approved by Mr. Oliver, showed that of the fifteen which circled Central Park, eleven recorded a charge of $2.70, the proper price. Two charged $2.80, one $2.90, and one $2.60. The latter cab was said to have made a cut-off through the upper end of the Park. This is the official score for these cabs:

Name of Taximeter.	Cab Co.	Taximeter No.	Fare Recorded.

Desiring to make a further test, particularly of cabs selected at random from the stands, a TIMES reporter picked up a Yellow, or Connecticut, cab from the Plaza to Sherry's, and a Green Flag, or New York Transportation, cab from there to the Café Martin, and then another Green Flag cab back to Sherry's. All three cabs stood the test accurately.

The New York Transportation Company announced last night that it had obtained the Pennsylvania Railroad franchise from now on, and that beginning to-day the charges would be reduced from 50 to 40 cents for the first half mile.

The Mayor has appointed John Drennan of 74 West Eighty-ninth Street as Chief Inspector of Taxicabs. He will receive a salary of $1,800 a year. Six Inspectors were also named at $1,200 each. The men appointed were the first seven on the Civil Service list.

WANTS HANSEN CASE HEARD.

Wife of ex-Lawyer Convict Asks That Alimony Suit Be Settled.

The attempt of Carl Fischer-Hansen, the disbarred lawyer who served a year on Blackwell's Island for subornation of perjury in a blackmailing case, to drop his suit for $125,000 alimony met with opposition yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Erlanger.

"We want this suit tried and disposed of, so that Fischer-Hansen cannot harass his wife and her relatives any more," declared Anson McCook Beard, who, with Mrs. Fischer-Hansen and George Gordon Battle, were named by the disbarred lawyer as trustees of the alimony fund which he alleged had been provided for him.

"By the terms of the agreement we paid all of Fischer-Hansen's debts and also made one payment to him of $1,250 on his annuity. Another payment fell due Jan. 1 last, but as Fischer-Hansen failed to keep his part of the agreement and has stayed in this country, we refused to pay him any more money. It was then that he started his suit for $125,000 damages."

H. W. Merchant appeared as attorney for Fischer-Hansen, who was not in court.

THEIR TROUSERS MISSING.

Loss of Two Stock Exchange Luncheon Club Waiters Starts a Rumor.

Two waiters in the Luncheon Club on the top floor of the Stock Exchange lost their trousers yesterday and were forced to go home in their uniform garments. After the triple holiday the story had been sufficiently embelished to give basis for a yarn of "thievery on the Stock Exchange."

The first reports told of $200 having been picked up by sneak thieves in the locker room. When the facts were sifted the Stock Exchange authorities decided against official action.

City to Auction the Yacht Antietam.

The Sinking Fund Commission voted yesterday to sell at public auction the yacht Antietam, the history of which was the subject of an amusing report recently written by Water Register Foster. The Water Commission has a request before the Aldermen for money to buy a fast motor boat to do the patrolling which the unwieldly yacht was supposed to do but didn't.

SUGAR MEN BLAME SPITZER FOR ALL

Each Now on Trial for the Weighing Frauds Battling Only to Free Himself.

BENDERNAGEL ON STAND

Cross-Examiner Gets Contradictions of His Evidence at Former Trial—Gerbracht's Turn Next.

It is every man for himself now in the sugar fraud trial that is going on before Judge Martin in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court. When the defense began to present its case yesterday morning it became evident that each of the three remaining defendants, Charles R. Heike, Secretary and Treasurer of the Trust; E. W. Gerbracht, the former Superintendent of the Havemeyers & Elder refinery in Williamsburg, and James F. Bendernagel, the former cashier at the refinery, would have their own line of evidence, directed at individual rather than collective salvation. The only apparent point of harmony is the proposition that Oliver Spitzer, the ex-dock boss who has confessed, was the original sinner and the sole individual responsible for the weighing frauds.

Most of the day was given over to the testimony of Bendernagel under direct and cross-examination, and the receipt of character evidence from much the same line of prominent Brooklynites who testified when Bendernagel was tried last Fall. These witnesses included Supreme Court Justice Joseph P. Burr, Supreme Court Justice Samuel Maddox, District Attorney John F. Clarke of Kings, Municipal Court Justice George Fairchild of Brooklyn, ex-Deputy Controller John M. McCooey, Casimir Taag, President of the German Savings Bank of Brooklyn, and William F. Sturgis, President of the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn, among others.

When Bendernagel went on the stand he recited quickly that he had been in the employ of the trust for forty years, was President of the Eastern District Hospital, a Trustee of the Williamsburg Savings Bank, an officer of the Hanover Club, and had formerly been a Vice President of the Board of Education. Then he gave a version of his work at the Williamsburg refinery, which was in the main similar to the one he gave at the last trial, but included some denials of things that had been admitted at that time and some admissions of things that he had previously denied.

Bendernagel declared that his communication with the Wall Street office of the trust was mainly in the transmission of messages for others, that he had not made up the pay rolls for thirty years, but was principally concerned in the dry details of handling a matter of $4,000,000 a year required in the operation of the refinery. He denied knowledge of the system of checking up sugar cargoes, said that he knew what a "landed" cargo was only by hearsay, and never heard of an "invoice" cargo until the present trial began. As to what happened on the piers, Bendernagel insisted that he knew absolutely nothing, and that it all rested with Spitzer.

When it came to cross-examination Winfred Denison of the Government's counsel took the record of Bendernagel's testimony at the former trial and proceeded to make things rather warm for the witness. He developed several discrepancies between the previous story and the one told yesterday, and forced the witness to take refuge behind the declaration that he did not recall what he had testified at the first trial.

When the Bendernagel evidence was all in and the cross-examination done, George F. Mackellar, counsel for Gerbracht, made his opening address to the jury. He declared that he would show that Spitzer and not Gerbracht was in control of the false weights, and that Spitzer's domination on the piers was absolute.

"Spitzer knew it all; Spitzer did it all, and now Spitzer is free," was the burden of Mr. Mackellar's address. Gerbracht, he added, never went near the docks, except to get samples of sugar, and knew nothing about the scales. Testimony for Gerbracht, including, probably, his own story, will be given this morning.

Team Knocks Down Mrs. Schieffelin.

While Mrs. G. R. Schieffelin of 22 West Fifty-second Street, whose husband is a lawyer at 11 William Street, was waiting for a car at Madison Avenue and Fifty-second Street yesterday afternoon, a horse attached to an express wagon driven by John Ruckert of 244 East Forty-seventh Street shied, causing the pole of the wagon to swerve and strike her. Mrs. Schieffelin was thrown to the sidewalk. She went home, refusing to make a complaint against Ruckert.

WIFE IN WANT WHILE HUSBAND HAS PLENTY

Mrs. Falding at Home for the Friendless When She Has Her Husband Arrested for Desertion.

DID NEEDLEWORK FOR LIVING

In Her Complaint in Court She Says His Income Is $10,000 a Year—Lives at Expensive Hotel.

An expensive hotel on upper Broadway and the Home for Friendless Women and Children in Brooklyn were the widely varying addresses given by a husband and wife, respectively, to Magistrate Dooley in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, yesterday morning when Frederick J. Falding was brought before him on a warrant charging him with abandonment.

It was no ordinary story the court listened to from Mrs. Falding, for she told of her vicissitudes from luxury to want which had forced her to try to earn a living through embroidery and needlework and left her homeless, except for the shelter provided by a public institution. Both she and her husband were distinguished in appearance.

Mr. Falding was well dressed and well groomed, with grayish hair and mustache. His wife showed gentle manners. She is tall and slender, with silvered hair and clear-cut features. Her story impressed even the court attendants.

Mr. Falding was arrested in his office, at 55 Broadway, yesterday morning, by Policeman Gregory of the court squad on a warrant sworn to by Mrs. Falding last Saturday. He had not been in the courtroom half an hour when his lawyer appeared and protested against the arrest, saying that there was an agreement he had made, pending proceedings in the Supreme Court, before Judge Crane, for the payment of a weekly allowance to his wife.

He told Magistrate Dooley that Mr. Falding had given Mrs. Falding $12,000 within the year, and that she had valuable property in her own right in Canada. He further denied Mrs. Falding's statement that her husband's income amounted to $10,000, and said that his client was not in good circumstances at the present time, and could not afford to give his wife any money.

Another Side to the Tale.

Mrs. Falding denied having received from her husband any sum such as his lawyer stated, and proceeded to tell her story. She said they were married in 1901. Both had been married before. Mr. Falding had three daughters and his wife two sons. Their married life was apparently happy until about two years ago when the husband was injured in a mining trip. He was nursed through his illness by a young woman, and their acquaintance continued until, according to Mrs. Falding, it reached the point where he thought enough of her to carry her picture inside of his watchcase, where his wife found it one day, she says. She added that he wished to adopt the young woman as his daughter, and that she strenuously opposed this.

About nine months ago, she told the court, her husband deserted her. Then she began to try to earn a living with the only means at her command—the needlework and embroidery that had been taught her in girlhood as part of the education of a well-bred girl of the time. She got work by going around to the department stores and to some of the friends who had known her in better circumstances to dispose of her work.

She struggled along in this way for months and finally became discouraged. She had been living with friends who were content to accept some of the work she did in exchange for her living.

The breaking point came last week. Then her friends advised her to lay her case before the District Attorney. She did so, visiting the Brooklyn branch of the office on Saturday.

An assistant interested himself in her and took her to the Adams Street Court, where a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of her husband. She said that she was told he had received $7,000 in the week and had planned a business trip to Milwaukee, on which he was to start yesterday. This led her to take immediate steps for relief. The warrant was given to Policeman Gregory to serve, and he found Mr. Falding in his office yesterday morning.

After hearing the story of Mrs. Falding Magistrate Dooley told the lawyer that his client would have to pay his wife $20 for her immediate expenses.

"This woman informs me," said the Magistrate, "that she is penniless and liable to become a charge on the county. The fact that she is sheltered in the Home for the Friendless would indicate that she is penniless. It is only a temporary shelter at best. The woman informs me also that her husband is wealthy, and is well able to pay for her support.

Demands Cash for Wife.

"In view of all the facts in the case I must insist on this man giving his wife $20 now, if he is to have the hearing postponed until Monday next. She must have something to live on until then. If the information I get, to the effect that he is likely to leave the State, is correct, I think it is proper that he should furnish a bond of $1,000 for his appearance."

Miss Anna Connelly, the probationary officer at the Adams Street Court, has been with Mrs. Falding a great deal of the time since she sent her to the Society for the Aid of Friendless Women and Girls on Saturday. Miss Connelly and Sergt. Walsh, head of the Court Squad, were told several details of Mrs. Falding's experience that were not brought out in court.

She told them that in August, 1908, she and her husband had had a quarrel in a New York hotel, after which she had gone alone to their Winter apartments in Brooklyn. She said at that time she had found letters from the young woman her husband wished to adopt addressed to him, and that she was so overcome that she sought to end her life by chloroform which she found in the apartment. She was found in time, however, and resuscitated.

She also told Miss Connelly the circumstances under which her husband deserted her. She said that they had been spending some of the Winter months on a lake near Montreal, when he suddenly disappeared. She was left entirely on her own resources, with very little money, she said. She came down to New York in February, when she started the effort to support herself, which she had described to the court.

On inquiry at the Hotel Langham at 103d Street and Broadway, it was found that Mr. Falding had left his daughter Doris, with whom he lives, alone in their apartment, to explain his absence to inquirers. She said that she had heard nothing whatever about his arrest until an evening paper containing an account of it had been put in her hands. She said that she was very much upset, and did not know what to say. She admitted knowing, however, that her father had wanted to adopt a young woman about two years ago, adding that she did not want herself to be mistaken for that person. She said that her father was in the West on a business trip.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Falding last night could not be ascertained. Mrs. C. M. Danvers, Superintendent of the Society for the Aid of Friendless Women and Children, said last night that she had left early in the day for the home of a friend. She added that every one about the place had been impressed with the sincerity and refinement of Mrs. Falding and believed her story implicity.

PASS CONEY BATH BILL.

Aldermen Appropriate $175,000 for a City avilion There.

The Aldermen finally appropriated yesterday the $175,000 for a municipal bathing pavilion at Coney Island after another long discussion. At at the previous hearings on the proposal Vice Chairman Bent and Alderman Potter, who represent the Coney Island district, where the principal speakers in opposition. It is hoped to have the pavilion ready for use late in the Summer.

Alderman Dowling, the Tammany leader, presented a resolution, which was passed, calling upon the Board of Estimate to take steps for clearing a large strip of the Coney beach front for a public park. The board added to the city's automobile bill by giving $6,000 more to Borough President Gresser of Queens for this purpose.

The application for an increase in the salary of the Police Sergeants from $1,500 to $1,750, which has been held up by the board for some time, was finally approved. The Board of Estimate has already passed upon the request favorably.

The board voted to change the name of East River Park, on the water front, between East Eighty-fourth and East Eighty-ninth Streets, to Carl Schurz Park.

SEWING EXHIBIT CONTINUES.

Work of Public School Pupils to be Shown Three Afternoons More.

Examples of sewing and domestic art work by the girls in the public schools of Brooklyn and Queens, which attracted attention last week when they were exhibited at the Education Building, in Livingston Street, will again be shown to the public for three afternoons, beginning to-day at 3 o'clock.

When the exhibition was opened last Thursday by Supt. Maxwell there were specimens of skirts, gowns, and all manner of apparel, made by the children themselves from start to finish. Besides this, children were seen at work weaving sewing, making baskets, and caning chairs.

A grand march, reviewed by Supt. Maxwell, was participated in by nearly 300 girls dressed in graduation dresses of which they had made every stitch themselves. The whole exhibit is designed to disarm the criticism once made that sewing was one of the "fads and frills" of the New York educational system.

Speyers to Entertain Working Girls.

The Irene Club of the Working Girls' Association will be entertained next Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. James Speyer at their country place at Scarborough-on-Hudson Mrs. Richard Irvin is President, and Mrs. Speyer Treasurer of the organization, which for twenty-six years has been building up the social side of life for the girl who earns her own living. A feature of the outing will be the presence of sixty of the early members of the club, who will attend with their daughters. There will be a barn dance and a vaudeville show to entertain the guests.

COLEMAN DENIES HIDING BANK MONEY

Mamie Hightower Also Denies Saving Any of Stolen Funds He Gave Her.

TELLS OF KELIHER BRIBE

Coleman Repeats That Prisoner Offered Him $100,000 Hush Money—Denies Former Testimony.

BOSTON, May 31.—The Government today continued its efforts to establish relations between George W. Coleman, the confessed embezzler of the National City Bank of Cambridge, and "Big Bill" Keliher, on trial in the United States Circuit Court for aiding Coleman in appropriating more than half the bank's deposits. Two witnesses said that Keliher spoke repeatedly of Coleman, and at one time expressed the hope that he would not "go back on him." Another witness said he knew that Keliher and Coleman were friendly. The Government made some progress in its endeavor to substantiate the claim that much of the money went to the gamblers with Keliher's aid. Yet Coleman, who was again on the witness stand, was forced to admit that an important part of his testimony before the Suffolk County Grand Jury, which also investigated the case, was false, especially his statement that he loaned or gave Keliher $150,000 or $200,000, and that Keliher had urged him to stop playing faro.

Daniel J. Coakley, attorney for Keliher, directed his examination of Coleman chiefly to his early stealings from the bank, and to his actions just before he went away and immediately following his return.

Coleman said he was positive he stole nothing from the bank as early as 1905, but was not sure whether he began his peculations in 1906 or 1907. Just before he went away, Coleman said, he destroyed his personal accounts containing records of his various investments and speculations. In regard to his direct evidence that Keliher had offered him $100,000 to keep quiet about his alleged connection with Keliher, Attorney Coakley endeavored to show that Coleman had sought an interview with Keliher after his return to Boston, and tried to get some money from him. Coleman admitted that he wanted to obtain money from Keliher in order to pay the depositors of the bank. He said Miss Lora Atwood, who made arrangements for his interview with Keliher at that time, told him that Keliher had arranged with her by telephone to meet him downtown, and that when she went to the place Keliher named, she found that it was Attorney Coakley's office. After he had two interviews with Keliher, Coleman said that he told his counsel, Mr. Morse, that Keliher had offered him $100,000 to keep silent.

Coleman denied that he had "planted" any of the money obtained from the bank.

"Has your friend, Miss Hightower, 'planted' any?" asked Attorney Coakley.

"Not that I know of," replied Coleman.

He repeated his statement that Keliher offered him $100,000 to keep his mouth shut regarding the case.

Later Miss Mamie Hightower of Kansas City, Coleman's latest sweetheart, appeared on the stand. The young woman became Coleman's companion a couple of months before the bank failed, and accompanied him on his hurried journey to Kansas City just as the crash came. She also denied that she had "planted" any money of Coleman's.

She said she had some property in Kansas City which the late R. J. Holmes willed to her.

Ethical Culture School
Central Park West and Sixty-third St., New York City
Kindergarten, Elementary
High School and Normal Departments
Founded thirty-one years ago by Felix Adler.

To meet the growing demand for places in our Elementary School, steps have been taken to accommodate about forty more pupils than formerly in Grades III—VII inclusive. Parents wishing to take advantage of this enlargement should apply without delay.

The following are some of the noteworthy features.

A Country Camp, to promote outdoor life and interest;
Wholesome athletic sports and games;
Co-education, with its advantage in approximating to the family type;
School Festivals under the direction of Mr. Percival Chubb;
Direct and specific ethical instruction by Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott;
The democratic ideal maintained by a system of scholarships which afford the advantage of contact with companions in different financial circumstances.

In the upper grades and the High School, classes do not exceed 20 pupils; thus the instructors are able to give proper attention to individuals. By means of a broad course of study, a large and well trained teaching staff, and a complete modern equipment in all departments, the School prepares students for various life callings as well as for any college or technical institution.

The School has certificate privileges in colleges where certificates are accepted.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—A ridge of high pressure over the extreme North Atlantic has retarded the eastward movement of the northern depression, and this, combined with a further fall in pressure over the interior, has caused a continuance of the cloudy weather and showers from the lake region eastward.

In Nevada, California, and Arizona the high temperature records for the month of May were again equaled or exceeded, but over the eastern portion of the country temperatures are low, in some instances from 10 to 26 degrees below the seasonal average.

The low temperatures will continue Wednesday, but will be followed by a slow rise Thursday in interior districts.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate southwest to west; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate west to northwest; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate west to northwest.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate southwest to west winds with showers to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Showers Wednesday. Thursday, partly cloudy, showers in north and central portions; light to moderate west to northwest winds.

New Jersey—Showers and continued cool Wednesday. Thursday, partly cloudy, slightly warmer in the interior, light to moderate west to northwest winds.

New England—Showers Wednesday and Thursday; moderate southwest winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers and continued cool Wednesday. Thursday, partly cloudy, slightly warmer; light to moderate west to northwest winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1909.	1910.		1909.	1910.
3 A. M.	60	57	4 P. M.	82	61
6 A. M.	59	55	6 P. M.	79	57
9 A. M.	65	56	9 P. M.	72	54
12 M.	76	59	12 P. M.	70	53

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 58; for the corresponding date last year it was 70; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 64.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 55; at 8 P. M. it was 55. Maximum temperature, 62 degrees at 1:50 P. M.; minimum, 53 degrees, at 6:30 A. M. Humidity, 86 per cent, at 8 A. M., 70 per cent. at 8 P. M.

THE CORPORATION TAX CASES.

The plain meaning of the announcement from the Supreme Court chamber yesterday that the cases involving the constitutionality of the Corporation Tax law have been set down for reargument at the opening of the next term in October is that five Judges, a majority of the full bench, have been unable to agree either for or against the Government. Only seven Judges of the court are now sitting. Judge Moody is ill, and for many months has been at his home. Gov. Hughes, appointed to the vacancy created by the death of Justice Brewer, will not take his seat until October. The Justices of the court evidently feel, and with very good reason, that a decision upon this most important case rendered by a divided court with fewer than five Justices uniting in the majority opinion would be a determination of the matter not satisfactory to the country. It is a fair assumption, it can be only an assumption, that the sitting Justices stand divided four to three one way or the other. Serious as are the inconveniences involved in a postponement of the decision, there will be a general feeling, we are sure, that the court has acted wisely in declining to put forth any opinion save one in which a majority of the whole bench are united.

It is, nevertheless, unfortunate that this adjudication must be delayed. The law makes the taxes levied upon the income of corporations payable during the month of June. The corporations are to be notified of the assessments made out against them on their returns on or before the first day of June, and the taxes must be paid on or before June 30. Something like half a million dollars of these taxes has already been paid. In all it is expected that about $26,000,000 will come into the Treasury from this source. A double inconvenience will result from the failure of the court to pass now upon the constitutionality of the law. In the first place, the Treasury can feel no assurance that this money belongs to the Government. It must, or should, be retained as a separate fund subject to the court's decision; not necessarily in the Treasury itself, for it is not to be supposed that this money will be withdrawn from the uses of trade and kept idle during the months that must elapse before the cases are decided. But upon the books of the Treasury the corporation tax payments must be treated as a fund by itself, and the Government must be prepared to pay the money back to the corporations from which it has been taken if the law is declared unconstitutional. Meanwhile, the payers of this tax will be deprived of the use of the money. It will certainly be a year, it may be two or three years, before it can be recovered if the cases go against the Government. In any case no interest will be paid. The rank injustice of such a proceeding is sufficiently obvious. If the Government's contention is sustained by the courts, then the Treasury will be free to spend the money. It ought not to feel free to spend it until its right so to do has been established. If money is needed it would be just as well to issue Treasury certificates now as to issue them a year or two years hence, to provide funds to reimburse the corporations for taxes paid under an unconstitutional law.

The Standard Oil and the Tobacco cases and the Corporation Tax cases were argued in March. It was on April 11 that the court announced that the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases would be restored to the docket for reargument at the October term. A month later the court fixed Nov. 14 as the date for the rehearing of these cases. The fact that the Corporation Tax cases were not set down for a rehearing was accepted as meaning that, notwithstanding the death of Justice Brewer, the court expected to be able to render a decision in those cases. It may be presumed that the arguments of counsel and the deliberations of the court having failed to convince the minds of five of the seven Justices either for or against the constitutionality of the law, the court now finds it expedient and necessary to set down the case for rehearing. When the court reassembles in October these Justices will be upon the bench: Chief Justice Fuller, and Justices Harlan, Hughes, White, McKenna, Holmes, Day, and Lurton. Justice Moody, it is reported, has not made the hoped-for progress toward regaining his health. Should he be unable to take his place upon the bench in October it is quite possible that he will resign, in which case his successor would be immediately appointed. It is therefore possible that the reargument upon the Corporation Tax law will be heard by a full bench.

In the pending cases the constitutionality of the law is attacked upon several grounds. One is that the tax is imposed upon a prerogative, power, instrumentality, and function of sovereignty belonging to the States, the prerogative and function, that is, of creating corporations which was enjoyed by the States before the Federal Government was organized. Of this prerogative the States have not divested themselves, and they have not granted it to the Federal Government. It is further set up that, in compelling the corporations to make very full statements of their business affairs and conditions, the Government makes an unreasonable search and seizure in violation of the Fourth Amendment. It is further contended that this tax is not in reality a special excise tax with respect to the carrying on or doing business by a corporation, but is a direct tax upon the charter and the franchise, and, as such, is unconstitutional unless apportioned among the several States according to their population, as was decided in the Pollock case.

MR. ROOSEVELT AT GUILDHALL.

In accepting at the old Guildhall yesterday the freedom of the City of London, which he will bring home with him in a box, Mr. Theodore Roosevelt made some remarks which doubtless sounded bold, strong, and original, for the Colonel's oratorical manner is impressive, his gesticulation is vigorous, and when he is so minded he can utter an imperishable truth with matchless effect. No wonder the great audience in the historic meeting place of the guilds of London City was stirred to amazement and admiration and pleasurably shocked by this pronouncement:

> Either it was or was not right for Great Britain to be in Egypt and establish order throughout that country. If it was not right to further this purpose, then the British should get out.

A thrill went through his hearers, the cable dispatches say, and well it might. We do not remember that a great truth has been more eloquently or logically expressed since the Hon. Pat Fleming, as a candidate in the Third Tennessee District for delegate to the Democratic National Convention which nominated Cleveland, pronounced, on request, his views on the tariff:

> I've studied that subject a great deal and have come to the conclusion that if the tariff is too high it should be lowered, and if it is too low it should be highered.

Of course when you come to think of it, if it is right for England to be in Egypt she should be there, and if it is wrong, she should get out. Everybody already knew that the Colonel believes in English rule of Egypt. In fact, he went on to say so yesterday, urging a strong administration rather than a sentimental one, for, as he remarked: "Sentimentality is the most broken reed upon which righteousness can rest." The consensus of opinion will be that the Colonel is right in this matter, but he is right so often that the world will not be surprised. This time he did not give way to impulse; there was a perspective of thought in his speech, and no trace of that broken reed that fails to lend stability to righteousness. At times Mr. Roosevelt, too, is something of a sentimentalist.

On the whole we doubt if the advice proffered at Guildhall will greatly change the British policy in Egypt. But as an expression of sterling Anglo-Saxon practicality it will doubtless strengthen the bonds of friendship between Great Britain and the United States. For "abroad" the voice of Roosevelt is the voice of America.

MORE RAILWAY REGULATION.

Senator La Follette moved yesterday that the railways should be enjoined against raising their rates. Before the close of the day the President had instructed his Attorney General to do what the Senator had proposed. For the interest of the railways nothing better could be desired. Our courts show neither fear nor favor, and the railways ought not to have anything the courts will not give them. But the action strips the Administration of all consistency, and leaves the business of the country enmeshed in the doubt regarding the legality of the simplest acts from which the President had undertaken to deliver it.

It is only three months since the President's own bill for the regulation of railways was introduced with a clause allowing the railways to make agreements regarding rates. Congress struck it out, and it is only a fortnight since the President himself expressed his regret in these words:

> This was declared for in the platform, and recommended to Congress in two or three messages of President Roosevelt. The purpose was to legalize the practice which will prevail whether the law permits it or not. No one suggests the wisdom of instituting prosecutions under the anti-trust law to prevent this practice. * * *

But the instant any one does suggest the unwise thing the President does it. The railroads could wish nothing better, but how is it with the general business interests of the country? They can accommodate themselves to any policy whatever, if only they know what it is, but no substantial interest can meet a policy which is hot to-day and cold to-morrow. In this matter the President now stands with his Attorney General. When Mr. Wickersham took office he was not known as a trust buster—quite the contrary. But his later policy is as savage and merry as Bonaparte's, having every appearance of being designed to placate those "odds and ends of politics" regarding whom he was so sarcastic, but whose attitude toward business it is so hard to distinguish from his own, except for their greater consistency.

There is a sardonic humor in the proposal to resort to the courts rather than to the Inter-State Commerce Commission for the regulation of rates. The commission was created for the purpose of putting a ring in the nose of the railway monster, and now it can no longer be trusted to do the work for which it was created. The trouble with the Commission is that, after it hears evidence and argument on the law, it is likely to follow the facts and the law as far as it can. It actually has decided some cases agreeably to the railways' practice in matters of difficult policy, which the "odds and ends of politics" have no difficulty in ordering to be reversed in favor of a better way, devised in their hours of leisure, and never applied anywhere that railways are operated.

An injunction is a proceeding in equity, and one of the first maxims is that those who seek equity must do equity. If railways are to be restrained from advancing rates because the rates proposed are inequitably high those applying for such equitable relief must prove that they are inequitably high. When the courts hear arguments regarding the reasonableness of rates, inquiry is made into many matters less important in a proceeding for injunction. In form the Government is prosecutor, but the real complainants are the shippers, and they are opening a proceeding which they may find turned against themselves. When the Government prosecutes extortion in the public interest it is enough to show that the railways are making excessive returns on the capital invested. But when the complainants are private parties seeking to limit the railways' profits in order to swell their own they invite a comparison of profits in order to ascertain what profits are unreasonable relatively. It is no longer a question of unreasonable profits on railway capital alone, but on all capital.

There is a stalwart school of opinion to the effect that the railways cannot be hurt permanently, whatever is done to them. That may be an ultimate truth, but it can only be reached after an unpleasant interval. The railways survived 1893 and 1907, and they will survive these injunction proceedings. It would please some to have the settlement reached without such a strenuous time as would follow the application of the anti-trust law to railways, and to all businesses, in all its rigor. Even that would be better than a dragging along with daily dependence upon a fresh declaration of policy. This used to be a country of law when we had laws possible to obey. But now we have laws which Presidents say must be broken in order to do business and remain solvent. So on alternate days they move for the amendment of the law and for its enforcement. This is an intolerable condition, and it is well that it is to be litigated.

OUSTING THE HOUSEWIFE.

"The City Board of Health sincerely wishes every one of you to put the housewife out of business," is the advice given by Dr. C. S. Woods of Indianapolis to a convention of Indiana's bakers. Not that the average of bread produced in the home is not good, but that less of it is produced than is needed, and the baker should take advantage of his opportunity to supply even better breadstuffs and monopolize the output.

Alone of all the foods, bread is consumed and preferred by everybody. Dr. Woods disclaims knowledge of the chemistry of breadmaking or its mechanics. He does not pretend to tell the bakers how to bake it. But he gives them a little expert advice as to what the public expects of them. Like a sensible man, he inquired first in his own household. There he discovered three fundamental principles—first, that consuming families are not especially interested in the size of the loaf or its price; second, that they are chiefly interested in the production of clean bread in a spotlessly clean place, and, third, that the loaves should be wrapped in the bakeshop before they can be contaminated by handling. Special wagons and impervious baskets for distribution are a good investment.

By fulfilling these conditions, the bakers of the Nation would without difficulty oust the housewives from the bread business, and would win their gratitude.

A VERY SOLEMN WARNING.

Many of our readers are familiar with the work of M. Gustave Le Bon on "The Psychology of Crowds," which made so strong an impression some fifteen years ago. It was remarkable for the shrewdness of its observation, the skill with which data were grouped, the boldness of its generalization; but perhaps what gave it its greatest vogue was its pertinence to current events, its actuality, and its appeal to emotions that were at the time general and fervent. With all respect it may be said of the author that by coincidence or design his book was a brilliant example of what widespread excitement can do at the right moment to secure a scientist a hearing.

Within a few months M. Le Bon has taken up his old subject in an article for L'Opinion, Paris, a translation of which appears to-day in the Educational Review under the title of "The Competent and the Crowd." The phrase is suggestive. Practically the author divides society into two classes, the competent and the rest. He finds "increase of difference in mutual capacity, and consequently in social position, one of the most striking characteristics of modern civilization. Notwithstanding the theories of equality, and the vain attempts of the maker of laws, this intellectual differentiation tends to increase, because it is the result of natural and necessary conditions which no laws can change." In one paragraph he gives the essence of his theory:

> The progress of technical skill has become the real motive power of our modern civilization. By its increasing complications it has resulted in exacting such vast theoretical and practical knowledge, such bold initiative, and judgments so sure that only surpassingly gifted minds may rise to great heights. While the capacity of those who direct has increased, that of those who execute finds itself diminished. The division of labor and the development of machinery have made the task of the workman so easy that apprenticeship is no longer necessary. Distinct classes have thus been formed, separated from each other by an ever-widening gulf.

If this were an accurate or even a reasonable analysis of the situation, certainly the prospect would be gloomy. It seems to us, on the contrary, narrow, defective, and biased. In the first place, there is no sharp differentiation between those who direct and those who execute in our industrial life. Both the directing force and the executing force have each a number of grades. The lower grades of the one merge into the upper grades of the latter. Until the very lowest is reached there is in each grade need and opportunity for independent judgment, initiative, foresight, invention, skill, and superior general capacity. The organization of industry would collapse if this were not so. Its simplest tasks would be rendered difficult and its larger and more intricate would be made utterly impossible. So far from there being "distinct classes, separated from each other by an ever-widening gulf," there is simply a vast army of active and energetic men working together in functions closely articulated according to the requirements of an ever-changing situation.

There is another fact absolutely opposed to the assumption that modern society is divided into distinct classes. Between what M. Le Bon declares to be classes there is a marked and effective intercommunication, a considerable and practical freedom from below up. Not only are the commanders of the Industrial Army frequently born in the lowest rank, so that every soldier of that army may be said to "carry a Marshal's baton in his knapsack," but every grade from Corporal up is constantly filled from below. It is true that even so the men with knapsacks are numbered by millions and the Generals by hundreds, but neither the latter nor the former are or can become a "class" in the sense implied by M. Le Bon, and the "gulf" between them is rather a ladder which they may climb who have the strength and the will.

Moreover, while we do not wish to generalize hastily, we see no sufficient evidence that modern society is organized on principles or by methods essentially different from those which have obtained in other times. The efficient have always been at the head and generally on top. The conditions of competition, the weapons, the tools have changed, but the successful have always been those who could most effectively use the means available. Even when the struggle seemed one of brute force, brains plus force forged ahead; the brains that could use and combine the strength of others advanced still further, and so gradually and surely was developed the form of society in which skillful combination and co-operation is in its myriad phases the chief condition of success. In our judgment, this dependence on combination and co-operation, so far from dividing society into classes with an "ever-widening gulf" between them, has made the labor and gifts of all more and more imperatively requisite, and secured for them a gradually increased share in the immensely increased common product. M. Le Bon's despairing view suggests the admonition of an older French scientist, that "in research you must use the utmost care, or you will find what you are looking for."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Complaints With No Basis.

From several parts of the country come reports of actions and statements by Grand Army posts that indicate the existence among the surviving veterans of the Civil War of a general feeling of resentful dissatisfaction with the present observance of Memorial Day. In a few cases this feeling has been so strong as to find expression in a refusal to take any part in the ceremonies, but more often the veterans have as yet contented themselves with raising the question whether this course should be followed or not.

What the old soldiers object to is the fact—the undeniable fact—that Memorial Day is no longer wholly devoted to reviving memories of the war and paying honor to those who took part in it. In other words, they think that the country is becoming somewhat tired of the veteran and somewhat inclined to forget the size of the debt it owes to him and to his fallen comrades. Now, for whatever of truth there may be in this accusation, and probably there is a little, an excuse might possibly be found in the fact that the veterans have not only demanded, but have received, enormous sums in the shape of pensions not always free from scandal, and that money payment invariably decreases the debtor's sense of sentimental obligation to some extent.

In reality, however, the veterans have no grievance. Considering how many years ago it was that the war closed, and how large a fraction of our population know of the great struggle only as an interesting and important episode in history, with no personal memories or associations for themselves, the sentimental obligation is still recognized to a remarkable extent. Neither the dead nor the living soldiers are forgotten on the anniversary day, and, if it is slowly changing from the well-nigh unanimous demonstration of grief which it formerly was to a holiday in its not characteristic features much like other holidays, that was to be expected, since it was inevitable.

No holiday can for long be entirely devoted to a single purpose, and, most fortunately for mortals, no sorrow can forever retain its original keenness. With the deep mourning which the war occasioned have passed away the bitter hostilities it created. Memorial Day is still very properly and quite sufficiently observed, and the irrelevant sports and pleasures which have been joined to its ceremonial exercises cannot be resented with either dignity or reason.

Lighthouse Board Reorganization.

In a recently constructed metaphor, equally apt and ingenious, President Taft was likened to a man exhibiting miniatures in the Metropolitan Opera House, and it was said that not a few of his little pictures are good ones, the only trouble being that the people cannot see them. A Washington dispatch in The Tribune puts a magnifying glass over one of these miniatures, and so affords the opportunity almost everybody wants for mingling praise with the criticism which the Administration is receiving. It has brought to the eve of apparently certain accomplishment the long-needed reformation and rationalization of the Lighthouse Board.

This body, formerly under the Treasury Department and now transferred to that of Commerce and Labor, is to be raised, if bills now before Congress are passed, to the dignity of a bureau with a real head—something which it has always lacked and much needed. As hitherto and at present composed, of army and navy officers in equal numbers and of equal authority, the board has done its work more than fairly well, indeed, but with a constant succession of absurd squabbles and with some waste of money and more of effort, all due to the jealousies and antagonisms which develop whenever men in the two branches of the military service have to work together without an impartial authority over them, efficient and co-ordinating. Amusing stories are told of bickerings at the meetings of the board, of refusals of its members to ride in the same boat with each other when on tours of inspection, of "dead lines" drawn on piers, and of the meticulous care taken to defend rights and privileges that are of importance only in army and navy circles. Yet this is a board that spends more than $5,000,000 a year for maintenance alone, and upon the wisdom with which its work is done depends the safety of all the ships that approach our coast.

The proposed reorganization will substitute for the Lighthouse Board a Lighthouse Bureau, with a Commissioner as executive officer, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate in the regular way. Whether his subordinates will be from the army and navy or not is still to be decided, but it has been pointed out that in case of war such officers would have to be withdrawn for active service, leaving the lighthouses in the hands of inexperienced men, which might be inconvenient, and even dangerous. Lighthouses are so largely for the benefit of the mercantile marine that their management should [illegible] be wholly, or almost wholly, in civilian hands.

Freedom Rather Belated.

If a Brooklyn druggist—or anybody else—asks before he dies that his body be cremated and its ashes scattered from the top of the Liberty Statue, we know of no very good reason why his relatives, if they choose to do so, should not carry out his request. To be sure, the performance will strike many as "heathenish," and therefore more or less offensive, but very few would claim that this disposition of "remains" was really wrong, and for all practical reasons, sanitary, hygienic, and economic, it can be commended as better than inhumation.

The druggist's plan, if generally followed, might in time do measurable harm by lessening the depth of the harbor, but that is a contingency too remote and too dubious to demand immediate attention. Earth burial, particularly in the vicinity of great cities, has numerous and serious disadvantages, and anything that will lessen this worse than waste of land is in the abstract commendable.

Why, however, did Oscar Neidhart, the druggist in question, worry about what was done with his body after he was through with it? It is said that in giving his directions he referred to his long years of close confinement to business, and expressed the wish that at least his ashes might be "free." That sounds rather well, but it doesn't mean much. The chances are that Mr. Neidhart was more of a sentimentalist than he pretended to be, and that he was more, rather than less, concerned than most people about the post-mortem ceremonies in his memory or honor. Perhaps, never having been talked about, he wanted to be, just once.

Hats of the Past.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent's letter on the modern hat fashions of women in yesterday's Times reminds me of a past fashion of more than a generation ago, when the English preacher, Spurgeon, was at the zenith of his fame.

At that period the French fashion of bonnets consisted of a mere attachment at the back of the head. The London Times, dilating on the subject, recorded an incident of Spurgeon in the pulpit remarking that he had been requested to reprove this fashion. "But," he said, "for my part," (sweeping his eye over the vast audience before him,) "I don't see any."

The Large Hat Evil.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Calvert has overlooked a practical difficulty which removes small hats from the realm of possibility. At the risk of lifting the veil to the uninitiate, it may be stated that it would be impossible to cover with a hat of moderate size the large and varied collection of "rats," puffs, coronet braids, and other asserted mattress filling with which our fair sisters to-day load their skulls. Mr. Calvert strikes at a great and growing evil, but it cannot be cured by small measures or homeopathic doses.

Hughes and the Income Tax.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If, as reported, it is true that President Taft "first wanted" Hughes to run for Governor again, there is that about it that we could call a redeeming feature. But I "hae me doots," despite the certainty that Hughes on the Supreme Court bench will be a sad blow to that cherished infant, the income tax amendment.

Of two evils choose the lesser—when you're up against it!

NEW DEVICES IN EDUCATION.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Educators being very human, and being well endowed with faith and hope, (and let us suppose charity,) are on the watch at all times for new devices. The historian of two decades past will record with mingled amazement and amusement how public money and effort have been poured out like water in trying new plans and schemes to make education appear accessible to the masses; each term a new craze has been the fashion—vertical writing, correlation, apperception, (probably of all the frauds the worst,) plan books for term, month, week, and day, so that no word should be uttered by the teacher save in accord with what was called the "formal steps." Later came "departmental" teaching, whereby the "child" belonged to no educator, and the "group" (or dupe) system by which three-quarters of the pupils do nothing, (in fact as distinguished from theory,) while the teacher devotes the period to the other quarter. Over and above and beneath all has been the system of selecting for promotion those who had, as a mere matter of money and memory, paid a coach and learned by memory a quantity of undoubtedly valuable (since it advanced them) matter. Thus were the evils of education abolished, such evils as existed in ye olden time; they were abolished and rooted out—thus they were rooted out.

The historian of education will record that every one of the plans and improvements found warm defenders, who said and can yet be found saying that his pet plan was a valuable one.

NORMAL GRADUATES,

They Meet Disaster in Competing for Teachers' Licenses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many graduates of Normal College who entered and stayed in hope of becoming teachers are unable to pass the examination held by the Board of Examiners. It passeth understanding why graduates of the Normal College should need to be re-examined at all, once they are certified by the pedagogical faculty of that college as competent. Just what proportion of these graduates fail seems to be uncertain, but I have heard no estimate less than one out of six, and this is by the President of the college, who would not be likely to overstate the failures—rather, one would suppose, the reverse.

At the same time the city maintains a Training School for teachers, all of whose graduates are placed on the teachers' eligible list by the fact of graduation. The course here is half as long as the Normal course, being but two years, so the faculty of that school must be twice as efficient, judging by this fact, as the Normal faculty, and then the latter has no certainty as to results. Some of the unsuccessful graduates stood well in their classes, and, to counterbalance this, some of those who barely passed at the Normal come out with flying colors in the test given by the Board of Examiners.

These disasters, for they are disasters to the Normal graduates who fail, are caused by lack of harmony somewhere, for the two courses, if different at all or by more than tweedledum and tweedledee, can only be compared to the credit of the Normal, with its four-year course as against the other's two-year course. I wonder the Board of Trustees of Normal endure the stigma of inefficiency and uncertainty.

USELESS LETTERS.

Could Drop "C," "X," and "Q" Without Losing Sounds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Of course to any one who has studied phonetics the English alphabet seems imperfect and irrational. From the phonetic point of view every letter ought to represent one sound, and always the same sound. But as recent correspondence in your columns has shown, "c" represents now one sound and now another, according to the letter following, and is not really needed at all. It is certainly curious to notice how this leter is treated in the living languages of Europe. It has come down to us from the ancient Romans, who pronounced it like "k." But to-day the Italians pronounce Cicero "Chichero," the Germans say "Tsitsero," and the English "Sisero," while all continue to use the same letter "c" to represent these different sounds.

The English alphabet might be shortened by dropping other letters which have no sound of their own. Thus "x" is unnecessary, because it always stands for "ks" or for "z," (as in Xerxes.) "Q" is also useless, since it is used in combination with "u" to represent sounds which might as well be represented by "kw." Whether it would be expedient to abolish these letters is another question. No doubt it would cause pain to conservative feelings. The only point I am making is that it would be possible.

GOVERNMENT JOBS.

Finds Something Very Like Charity Around Custom House.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an editorial article of yours entitled "The Wrong Point of View," I find this passage:

> Of course only a few, relatively speaking, can ever hope to get into the service, even in the humblest capacities. Uncle Sam does not employ men and women for charity's sake. * * * An ambitious man is as likely to find an outlet for his ambition in the Government service as in any other.

This is all as it should be, and, considering the subject academically, it is all we have a right to expect.

But, please, before indorsing the situation further, as it is, go down and take a look and a smell around the Custom House, for instance.

There are some things there that I warrant The Times would not give houseroom to, and if the sufferance through which they hang on is not charity, it is something that is not very widely differentiated from it, in politics. It must be charity to some one.

According to my theory the food of ambition in the Government service as at present, and for some time, constituted is, to learn the lead of the wires to hold your job—once you get it.

However, perhaps, I should not indulge in this pronouncement, because I have had only about thirty years' observation of the system, and I am only a Breeding Deer for Food.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. C. Hart Merriam, Chief of the Biological Survey, says that deer are very easy to raise, and that they breed faster than cattle and require less attention, and will live on weeds and other things that cattle won't eat. If people were given proper protection in the raising of deer, Dr. Merriam says, meat would be selling in a very few years at a third of what it is bringing now.

One of the chief difficulties in raising deer, Dr. Merriam says, is that they are so likely to be killed by dogs. A fence that will keep deer in can be constructed at comparatively small expense, but a fence that will keep dogs out is very expensive. But dogs are no longer necessary, if they ever were. There is nothing that can be done by dogs that cannot be done better by other means. Dogs cause great injury to health by the noise they make, and that itself is reason enough for getting rid of them. Any dog is likely to cause injury to health, and anything not necessary to the public convenience which is likely to cause injury to health is a public nuisance which it is the duty of the authorities to suppress. Dogs cause hydrophobia, the most terrible of all diseases; they destroy sheep to such an extent as to materially increase the cost of clothing and meat; they worry cows, horses, and other useful animals; they injure gardens and lawns; they drive away and destroy game; they carry disease germs; they bite people; they destroy various kinds of property; they cause fear and annoyance in a multiplicity of ways.

CONNERS'S NEW MOVE SCARES TAMMANY

Leader Murphy's Friends Can't Understand His Eagerness for a Committee Meeting.

THEY HOPE TO OUST HIM

Still Expect Him to Retire from the State Chairmanship, as He Agreed to Do.

It is not altogether without misgivings that the friends of Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy on the Democratic State Committee are looking forward to the meeting of that body, scheduled to be held at the Hoffman House to-morrow at noon. The meeting—at least Mr. Murphy's friends hope so—was called for the purpose of selecting a successor to William J. Conners of Buffalo as head of the committee.

There is one thing about the prospective meeting that Mr. Murphy's friends don't like. Mr. Conners called it himself without giving evidence of the slightest reluctance and without any pressure to compel his action. This in their eyes looks suspicious. They are not concealing the fact that if they could have Mr. Conners and his henchmen on the committee searched for secreted bricks and slungshots before the meeting they would feel a great deal easier about it.

The Tammany leader and Mr. Conners have been seen together a good deal of late at that—so much, in fact, that it has started rumors of peace where there was grim war. One of Mr. Murphy's friends, when asked about this yesterday, said that the two had always entertained friendly feelings toward each other and that outward appearances on occasions when each seemingly has sought the other's scalp have been deceptive. For all that, they say, Mr. Conners will bear watching by every loyal Murphyite from now until after a new State Committee has been chosen.

If Mr. Conners makes good his forced promises to Mr. Murphy at the meeting of the committee held in Albany in April, the friends of Mr. Murphy have it all fixed so that the Buffalo leader and his friends will be spared all possible trouble and inconvenience involved in the selection of a successor to Mr. Conners.

The lucky man is John A. Dix of Washington County. He comes from the distinguished family of Revolutionary fame. He was a candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the ticket headed by Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler two years ago. He has been active in politics in his home county, but has always been allied with the better element in the Democratic Party.

The choice for Secretary is said to have fallen on George E. McKennan of St. Lawrence County. Both Mr. Dix and Mr. McKennan were active in the organization of the Democratic League, which was formed for the purpose of uplifting the Democratic Party last Fall. The league has been a great help to Mr. Murphy in his fight on State Chairman Conners. Some members of the league profess to believe that Mr. Murphy has on his political garments of repentance and that he is actuated by a sincere desire to purge and purify both the State Democracy and Tammany Hall of all their past transgressions and sins.

In the meantime, Murphyites and Conners men alike are much concerned over the doings throughout the State of persons representing William R. Hearst. These agents have been engaged in a gumshoe mission throughout the length and breadth of the State for some weeks, very much as they did in 1906, when the Democrats assembled in convention, only to find that Mr. Hearst, who had read himself out of the Democratic Party and formed his Independence League, was in possession of a large majority of the delegates and could carry off the Gubernatorial nomination.

TAFT TO HONOR CUSTER.

President Will Attend the Unveiling of a Monument to Him.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Custer, widow of Gen. Custer, the famous Indian fighter, left town yesterday for Monroe, Mich., the birthplace of her husband, where a monument in his memory will be unveiled by her in the Town Square next Saturday morning. Local societies have erected the monument.

President Taft will attend the ceremony and will make an address, and Senator William Alden Smith and Gen. David McM. Gregg, commander of the Second Cavalry Corps, Department of the Army of the Potomac, will also speak.

The unveiling will be attended by many Congressmen and Senators, and a salute of seventeen guns will be fired by the First Battery of Field Artillery, Michigan National Guard. Otto Kirchner of Monroe will preside. Nearly all the living officers who were on Gen. Custer's staffs in the civil war and in the Indian disturbances will be present. Gov. Warner will present the monument to the City of Monroe.

THE CREATORS.

On May 29 Curtiss flew in his aeroplane from Albany to New York.

We have the love of life—that is our glory!—
No Hamlets we, no doubting Tennysons,
But the young gods of science who have seized
Million-huge power, and like genius feel
Our possibilities. O sunrise age,
O white-winged morning: lusty with new life,
For Power we cry, more Power, more Breath, more Life—
We crave great dreams, dreams that make pale the cheeks,
Dreams that tax manhood, that we may rise up
And amaze each other by out-acting them.
Is the Earth huge? We'll mine and mould and mound it!
Is the sea vast? We'll shrink it to three days!
Are the skies inaccessible and tall?
We shall take wings and soar! We are the first
Of them that do not fear. Nor space nor time,
Nor life nor death nor the invisible powers
Affright us. We are mighty, we are modern,
Children indeed of the strength-crammed Earth,
Yea, but creators, too,

Are we creators?
Lo, what a world then shall we have, when, huge
With Power, we turn from re-creating Earth,
And like a god take up the task supreme
Of making Man—out of the sun and air,
Out of the sweet and living clay creating
A radiant body rich with radiant mind,
Flooded with light, surcharged with life and love,
And millions thronging cities, seas and skies
In strengthening daily tasks, in love-warm homes.
O vision the most beautiful! O days
When all the little children, miracle-fresh,
Shall bask in the full love of men and women,
And so fulfill all possibilities
Until they bloom with a splendor and a glory
We only glimpse in some young girl's first love,
We only hear in some young boy's sweet laughter.

Fund for Composer of "Old Nassau."

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 31.—The graduates of Princeton are engaged in raising a fund to form an income for the declining years of Prof. Karl A. Langlotz, the composer of the famous tune "Old Nassau," the most beloved college song of the university. Prof. Langlotz composed the song in the sixties, when he was an instructor of music in the university, and it has been classed as one of the greatest college songs of the world. The composed is not in easy circumstances, and those behind the movement propose that the fund shall be sufficient to provide a cheerful life for the man who gave them a song which they love.

EQUITABLE WINS IN FRANCE.

Decision of Council of State in Favor of Insurance Company.

Word was received yesterday by the Equitable Life Assurance Society that the Council of State of France, the highest law court of that country, had decided in favor of the society a long-drawn-out controversy with the French Insurance Department. Several years ago the French Government issued new regulations with regard to insurance companies, which, it was contended by the Equitable, would, if enforced, make it impossible for it to continue to do business in the country.

So far as the requirements of the French Government dealt with the investment in French securities of a certain part of the reserve of the policies written in France the Equitable was willing to comply with the law, and did so. But the French authorities also demanded that certain regulations should be observed with regard to deferred dividends and other technical points. The Equitable contended that if these regulations were insisted upon it would be compelled to withdraw from France, as their observance was impossible.

Ex-Judge W. A. Day, First Vice President of the society, said last night that the appeal taken by the Equitable to the Council of State had elicited a ruling that the new law was not retroactive, but merely prospective in effect. Consequently it would be possible for the society to obey its requirements and to continue to do business in France.

William Halstead Vander Poel and Miss Blanche Pauline Billings, whose marriage takes place on Saturday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. G. Billings, 196th Street and Fort Washington Road, took out a marriage license yesterday at the City Hall.

PRIZES FOR WOMEN ARTISTS.

Genevieve Joy and Esther A. Turner Among Winners in Cooper Union.

The exhibition of the work of the women's classes at the Cooper Union Art School opened last night. The various departments considered together show a decided improvement over last year's exhibition. The prize competition offered from the F. A. Lane Prize Fund for a corner of a room in perspective in the style of Louis XV. of France brought out particularly good work, the drawing that took the first prize having not only the familiar motives of Louis Quinze decoration, but showing also an appropriate delicacy and accuracy of execution. This prize went to Genevieve Joy, and the second to Esther A. Turner.

The Ethel Cram Memorial Prize for a panel in Louis XVI. style was taken by Esther A. Turner, while Genevieve Joy took a second prize and Meta E. Smith a third. The panel that was ranked second had perhaps more of the essential spirit of decoration, the nice balance of the different parts, than either of the others, but all were good and showed intelligent study of the superb resources in eighteenth century material afforded by the Cooper Union Museum. A similar competition for a Louis XVI. panel was offered by Mrs. J. Woodward Haven, and the first prize was won by Ray Siems for a panel in which the central motive was a marble figure.

The C. Y. Turner portrait class and the illustration class, under B. West Clinedinst, showed creditable work. The prizes in these were taken by Lilian Cooper, Sophie Dallin, and Olga F. Hiess.

The miniature class showed some excellent work, although more attention might be devoted to the fundamentals of drawing. The silver medal went to Echo Hart Stewart and the bronze medal to Florence Kaldenberg. Mary Barker, who was hors concours in the distribution of the medals, took the ten-dollar prize for a really charming piece of work, and Amy R. Brown took the second money prize of $5. Edyth A. B. Johnson, who received honorable mention, showed in some respects the best work in the exhibition, her definite, downright manner of meeting difficult problems promising much for her maturer style. The worst and most hopeless fault in miniature painting is invertebrate prettiness, and to achieve character is the highest goal a beginner can try for. In a small locket portrait, Mrs. Johnson has achieved just the right miniature touch—firm, light, and clear—and her color in this example is dainty and pure, as it should be.

Nina Sterling Tait's work is excellent in drawing, and shows a polished miniature style. The child's head, with two pink bows, is particularly attractive.

In the modeling class are several exhibits of quite uncommon merit. The winner of the firt prize for an original design shows a horse and a dog, victims, obviously, of wind and weather, beautifully composed and modeled with a mingling of freedom and fidelity to fact seldom found in the work of a beginner.

The winner of the second prize, Miss Van Wildenrath, shows some excellent horses drawing a Roman chariot, but the idea is rather outworn.

The minor decorations, fans, ornaments for panels, and moldings, show the influence of the fine models to which the students have access and promise well for the character of their original work when they have had time to assimilate their knowledge.

Actors' Fair Pictures on Exhibition.

The pictures that were left over from the Actors' Fund Fair are now on exhibition at the American Art Galleries prior to their sale by auction next Friday. They comprise about 150 examples, including a large group of photographs of actors and actresses with autograph signatures. The most important of the paintings is J. W. Alexander's portrait of John Gilbert as Sir Peter Teazle in "The School for Scandal." There are also a number of Howard Chandler Christy's portraits of important actors, John Drew, Ellen Terry, James K. Hackett, and others. The more serene environment will give the public a better chance to judge of their opportunity and profit by it.

KAISER BEATS RECORDS.

"No Thoroughfare," "Corsican Brothers," and Other Romantic Plays—Daly in "Hamlet"—Dixey in New Comedy.

William A. Brady, representing his newly incorporated company, announced yesterday the engagement of seven new stars to play under his management next season. They are James K. Hackett, Arnold Daly, Henry E. Dixey, Amelia Bingham, Virginia Harned, Andrew Mack, and Guy Bates Post. All of these, with the exception of Mr. Post, have been stars for a number of years. Mr. Post starred last season only in "The Bridge."

It is Mr. Brady's intention to present Mr. Hackett in a romantic repertoire, which will include revivals of Charles Dickens's "No Thoroughfare," "The Corsican Brothers," and of several plays from Mr. Hackett's former repertoire. Arnold Daly, who has sailed for Europe, will be provided with eight plays, which will include "Ruy Blas," "Candida," "Arms and the Man," "You Never Can Tell," "The Father," by Maeterlinck, and "Hamlet," the latter to be used for occasional performances. While abroad Mr. Daly will look out for new plays for his own use.

Guy Bates Post, by arrangement with The New Theatre management, will be presented in "The Nigger," Andrew Mack will return to his old style of Irish romantic plays, and Henry E. Dixey will have a new comedy, which will be produced in New York early in the Fall.

Miss Bingham and Miss Harned will appear in repertoires of old-time plays. The latter will present "Camille," "Adrienne Lecouvreur," "Leah the Forsaken," "Diplomacy," "Forget-Me-Not," and "Odette." Miss Bingham's repertoire will include "La Tosca," "Fedora," "Cleopatra," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "The Climbers," "Oliver Twist," "Alixe," and plays of that character.

Mr. Brady also announced that he would present Louis Mann in New York this Summer in a play called "The Cheater," an adaptation by Mr. Mann from a German source. This star will not continue in the play next season, however, but will have another vehicle, while "The Cheater" will be presented with another actor in the principal rôle.

Shuberts Have New Broadhurst Play.

The Shuberts have acquired the producing rights to a new play by George Broadhurst for production early in the Fall. They will also make an early production of a new play by Eugene Walter, with two others by the same author to follow in close succession. Mr. Walter's "Boots and Saddles," which was originally scheduled for production this Spring, will be put on next season.

Klaw & Erlanger Get Memphis Theatre

Announcement was made at the offices of Klaw & Erlanger yesterday that they had obtained a long lease of the Jefferson Theatre, Memphis, Tenn., a theatre that has a capacity of 1,700 and that will be devoted to attractions booked through the Klaw & Erlanger offices. This is the third theatre Klaw & Erlanger have leased in the South during the past week, and their Southern houses now include theatres in Memphis, Nashville, Atlanta, Montgomery, Richmond, and New Orleans.

David Warfield to Act Shylock.

David Belasco announced yesterday his intention of making an all-star production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" next season in the holiday period. He has not made public the name of any member of the cast. He will also make the long-promised production of "The Merchant of Venice" next season, with David Warfield in the rôle of Shylock.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

The opening of "The Follies of 1910" at the New York Theatre roof garden has been postponed from June 13 to June 20. The review will be given at the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, the week before it is presented in New York.

Frank Curzon, the English theatrical manager, has entered into negotiations with William A. Brady, Inc., to present the all-star revival of "Jim the Penman" in London, and the company will probably be taken to England before the end of the London theatrical season.

Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, one of the authors of "Seven Days," will sail next week for Europe to spend the Summer. She will be accompanied by her husband and children, and while abroad she will be joined by Avery Hopwood, the other author of "Seven Days."

Henry B. Harris has engaged Jane Marbury for the role of Agnes in "Bobby Burnit," Winchell Smith's new comedy that is to be presented at the Republic Theatre on Aug. 22 with Wallace Eddinger featured in the title role.

CENSURES NEW YORK CENTRAL

Coroner's Jury Says Proper Precautions Are Not Observed in Eleventh Ave.

A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of censure against the New York Central Railroad yesterday for the death of an unidentified man at Forty-second Street and Eleventh Avenue on May 22, and directed the discharge of J. H. Van Housen, the engineer in charge of the locomotive which ran the man down. The opinion of the jury was, that notwithstanding it had developed at the inquest that the dead man had been careless, the railroad company was guilty of contributory negligence in failing to provide adequate railings and gates. It recommended that its findings be presented to the Grand Jury for action.

Coroner Feinberg, who held the inquest, took the jury to the place of the accident in order to show it the lack of precaution by the railroad company.

Engineer Van Housen was arrested the day after the accident and held in $1,000 on a charge of homicide. At the inquest yesterday morning he said that he did not know that he had struck any one until his fireman had told him. Sidney Gage, the fireman, said that the man had flung himself, face downward, in front of the engine. This was contradicted by Sadie Busso of 624 West Forty-sixth Street, who said that she saw the man struck.

32,936,445 IN CHURCHES.

Roman Catholics More Than a Third, Census Report Shows.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The aggregate number of communicants or members of all religious denominations in the continental United States for 1906 was 32,936,445, according to the United States census of religious bodies, a part of the Census Bureau's special report now in press. Of this grand total the various Protestant bodies reported 20,287,742 and the Roman Catholic Church 12,679,142.

Of the Protestant communicants 80.6 per cent. were outside the principal cities of the country. Of the Catholics 27.9 per cent. were in the cities of the first class, those having a population of more than 300,000, while 47.8 per cent. were outside the cities of the first, second, third, or fourth classes, the last class being cities of 25,000 to 50,000. Protestants in the first-class cities aggregated 7.8 per cent.

The Protestant Episcopal Church reported a majority of its communicants in the principal cities, 51.2 per cent., as did the Church of Christ, Scientist, 82.6 per cent.

The report shows a growth of all communicants, both in the cities and country since 1890. In the five leading cities the proportion of communicants to population was: New York, 44.7 per cent.; Chicago, 40.7; Philadelphia, 38.8 per cent.; Boston, 62.6; St. Louis, 46.6.

WAR ON INDECENT POSTERS.

Boston's Mayor Asks and Will Have Co-operation of Mayor Gaynor.

Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston has written to Mayor Gaynor asking his co-operation in a crusade against indecent and suggestive theatrical posters. He incloses a copy of a letter which he has sent to the theatrical managers of Boston calling their attention to the abuses in this method of advertising, and asks Mayor Gaynor if he will not take up the matter in some such way, pointing out that New York is the theatrical centre of the country, and that a crusade of this nature must be taken up here if it is to be successful.

Mayor Gaynor will soon reply to Mayor Fitzgerald, informing him that he will be only too glad to take the matter up here.

DENIES BRIBE FOR LORIMER.

McCullom Says He Voted for Him for Political Reasons.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 31.—State Representative H. D. McCullom of Louisville, Ill., was the only legislator questioned to-day by the Grand Jury in the bribery investigation in progress here, as State's Attorney Burke was absent in Chicago in connection with the inquiry.

McCullom is a Democrat. He told the jurors that he voted for Lorimer for political reasons, and that he had no knowledge of any money transaction either in the Senatorial election or in other cases. He denied all knowledge of a legislative "jack pot." He will be recalled to-morrow.

Subpoenas were issued to-day for two Representatives and a State officer who have not heretofore figured in the investigation. These are Representative A. M. Foster of Rushville, Chairman of the Fish and Game Committee; Nathan H. Cohen, State Fish Commissioner, and Representative B. F. Staymates of Clinton.

Representative Foster and Fish Commissioner Cohen will be questioned concerning the fate of a bill advocated by the State Fish Department. The bill died in committee. The Chairman of the Fish and Game Committee was also one of the Democratic members who voted for Lorimer.

Staymates also left the supporters of the regular Democratic nominee for United States Senator, L. B. Stringer, and voted for Lorimer. He is from the district in which Stringer lives. Staymates will be asked why he voted for Lorimer after many of his constituents and the Democratic leader of the district had protested against such action.

Want to Keep Stapleton Ferry.

Citizens of the east shore of Staten Island held a meeting at Stapleton last night and decided to send a committee to Mayor Gaynor to protest against the proposal to abandon the Stapleton Ferry. Staten Islanders want more and faster ferryboats.

CHARLES H. TREAT DIES OF APOPLEXY

ABLE POLITICAL ORGANIZER

Planned the Entire Campaign Which Won the East Side for the Republican Party in 1893.

Ex-Treasurer of the United States Charles Henry Treat died Monday night of apoplexy in his apartments in the Hotel Victoria, aged 68. He was stricken about 11 o'clock, and died a few minutes after Dr. Gilday of the hotel had been summoned.

Mr. Treat was appointed Treasurer of the United States by ex-President Roosevelt in 1905, and held that office till last July. He had been interested in many mining and navigation companies, and gave private business as a reason for resigning.

He was born in Frankfort, Me., being the son of Henry Treat and the grandson of Col. Ezra Treat of Maine. He was descended from Robert Treat, who was royal Governor of Connecticut from 1676 to 1708. He was educated in country schools, and taught in the academy of Rockport, Me., to pay for his schooling. He was graduated from Dartmouth in 1865, and entered his father's West Indian shipping business.

He developed a great talent for public speaking and organization, and spoke in Maine for James G. Blaine. He was delegate at large from Delaware to the Republican National Convention in 1888 at Chicago. He represented Delaware in Congress. He moved to this city and planned the entire campaign which won the east side for the Republican Party in 1893.

In 1898 President McKinley appointed him Collector of Internal Revenue for the Wall Street district, Elihu Root and Cornelius N. Bliss being his sponsors. He was reappointed by President Roosevelt in 1902. He was a member of the Union League, Republican, and West Side Republican Clubs. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Frances Emily Huxford, and by two daughters.

Funeral services for Mr. Treat will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in Grace Church, Broadway and Tenth Street. They will be conducted by Dr. Slattery, rector of the church, assisted by the Rev. Charles T. Walkley, rector of Grace Church, Orange, N. J., of which Mr. Treat was a communicant for fifteen years.

NEW SURGICAL DISCOVERY.

Dr. Lespinasse Announces Use of Magnesium Rings to Unite Severed Arteries.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Dr. Victor D. Lespinasse of the Northwestern University Medical School told an alumni audience of physicians yesterday that he had discovered a surgical secret which may do much to save life and relieve suffering. Broadly speaking, he said, it was a method of reuniting blood vessels and arteries and attacking arterial diseases.

Dr. Lespinasse produced several dogs to illustrate his discovery. Each was described as an example of a peculiar operation. The livers had been removed and reunited to some of the animals. Legs had been amputated and regrafted to others. The secret, Dr. Lespinasse said, consisted in his successful reuniting of several arteries.

Heretofore, Dr. Lespinasse remarked, physicians had been forced to resort to sewing to obtain the end desired. The stitching method was unsuccessful because it too often resulted in the formation of blood clots, the constriction of the arteries, or the enlargement and breaking of them. For five years he had sought to find a substitute for the needle and thread. The solution, he claimed, was found in the use of rings of magnesium.

The severed vessels are joined by these rings or couplers. In theory they do not differ from the couplers used by the fire department. Magnesium is used because it readily dissolves when the complete union of the severed ends of the arteries has taken place.

Shipwrecked Crew Brought Here.

Capt. J. Jacobs and his crew of five men, who were shipwrecked in the schooner Edith S. Walen, off Puerto Plata on May 23, arrived here yesterday on the Norwegian fruit steamer Simon Dumont. The Captain said that he sailed from this port loaded with case oil on May 5 for Puerto Plata, and all went well until the schooner was off the entrance to the harbor, when the steering gear carried away.

Three-base hits—Cree, Quinn. Sacrifice hit—Austin. Sacrifice fly—Cree. Stolen bases—Unglaub, Sweeney, Chase, Laporte. Left on bases—Washington, 3; New York, 5. First base on errors—Washington, 1; New York, 2. Double plays—Laporte, Roach, and Chase; Killifer, McBride, and Unglaub. Struck out—By Johnson, 4; by Quinn, 5. Bases on balls—Off Johnson, 2; off Quinn, 2. Wild pitches—Johnson, 2. Time of game—One hour and forty minutes. Umpires—Messrs. O'Loughlin and Perrine.

The Yankees went about the subjugation of the Washingtons on the Hilltop yesterday with cautious strategy. Chase's men, pitted against the Nationals' star slabster, Walter Johnson, made a slow start and as they warmed up to their work ploughed into this same Johnson in terrorizing fashion and batted out a 5 to 1 victory. It gives the Yanks three games out of the series of four and marks the fourth game which Jack Quinn has won from Washington this season.

After the first inning, when the Nationals bunched two hits with a base on balls and got a single count, Quinn had the opposition turning handsprings after the ball. He did an unusual bit of pitching, for after that first inning two singles by Unglaub, one in the second and one in the seventh, were the only evidences that the Washingtons went to the bat at all. Quinn pushed the leather across the dish at back-bending angles. McAleer's shake-up in his batting order did not help any, for the team displayed an astonishing absence of swatting prowess. In the last eight innings only twenty-five men faced Quinn.

Johnson looked dangerous for four innings, and in the fifth Cree dispelled the bugaboo with a crushing drive over Milan's awning in centre field for three corners. That was the beginning of Johnson's finish, for in the succeeding innings his elusiveness disappeared. The Idaho phenom no longer is a hoodoo for the Yanks, and everything he served up twisting was straightened out nicely.

Milan was the first man to croak, Laporte throwing him out at first. Brown, the ex-Giant, who has taken Lelivelt's place in the left jungle, fanned. Killifer strolled, and Gessler poked a single to left. McBride hit a fast grounder back of first, Chase making a quick stop and racing to the bag. McBride was safe on a close decision, Killifer scoring. Conroy ended the inning, Laporte to Chase. After that Quinn uncurled nothing but mystery, and until the game's end but three men reached the bases and there they perished.

The conduct of the Yankees happily affords a more fruitful subject for discussion. Let's begin with the fifth, up to which stanza the Yanks unloaded but a single hit. Cree was the first man up. Remember Johnson hit Cree in the noodle in Washington, so Birdie had that much against the pitcher. Cree got his revenge by unburdening a thundrous thud to deep, unexplored centre. Austin popped a foul to Street. Sweeney whacked a roller toward centre, which took four bad bounds out of everybody's immediate reach. Quinn rapped to McBride, who tried to catch Cree. Cree turned back to avoid Street and was out for walking on the grass when he should have stayed on the path. Sweeney stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. Hemphill singled, scoring Sweeney. Wolter fanned for the third out.

Cree opened the seventh with a hot infield hit, and Austin sacrificed him to second. Killifer slipped up on Sweeney's grounder and the backstop was safe.

Who said that pitchers can't hit? What did Quinn do? No, he didn't fan. He bluntly larruped the sphere into centre for a trio of bases, sending Cree and Sweeney home. With Hemphill at the bat the [illegible] got busy and evidently everybody [illegible] play. Hemphill, who should have received the message hot off the sound [illegible] next [illegible] home [illegible] greet [illegible] doesn't [illegible]

Ira Thomas Breaks Thumb.

BOSTON, May 31.—Philadelphia took the series three games to two, getting an even break to-day by winning the second game of a double header, 4 to 2, after Boston had been victorious in the first game, 1 to 0. The first game, a pitchers' battle between Morgan and Collins, terminated when Barry made a wild throw to first, letting in a run. Errors by Gardner and Lewis were responsible for all the visitors' runs in the second contest, while Stahl scored both of Boston's runs. Ira Thomas had his thumb broken, being the fourth Philadelphia player to be injured in the series here. The others were Baker, Oldring, and Murphy. Scores:

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Although outbatted by the Phillies here to-day, the Giants pulled out a 4 to 2 victory, the excellent support given to "Bugs" Raymond preventing Dooin's men from connecting with the plate too frequently. Capt. Larry Doyle was banished from the game in the ninth inning when Umpire Johnstone called him out on strikes. Bates was put out of the game in the third for having a difference of opinion with the umpire. Flaherty succeeded Bates, and Fletcher succeeded Doyle. The feature of the game which brought the crown to its feet was Grant's home run in the eighth, which sent Knabe in ahead of him.

Devlin flied out in the second, and Snodgrass hit out a single. Wilson lifted a Texas Leaguer into right field and started a double steal with Snodgrass. Doolan muffed Dooin's throw to second and Snodgrass scored. Raymond and Devore fanned. Another run came in the sixth. Seymour fanned, and Bridwell went out on a grasser to Bransfield. Devlin ambled and stole second. Snodgrass drew a pass and Wilson singled to centre, scoring Devlin. Another run came in the seventh. Devore beat out an infield hit and went to second on Doolan's wild throw to first. Doyle sacrificed him to third, and Murray went out at first. Seymour walked and stole second, Devore scoring when Dooin muffed Doolan's throw-in from second. In the eighth the Giants added a fourth run. Brennan succeeded Moore on the mound for the Phillies.

Bridwell flied to Flaherty and Devlin walked. Snodgrass whacked a three-bagger to left, scoring Devlin. Wilson was hit by a pitched ball. Raymond hit to Doolan, who made a hair-raising one-hand stop, touched second, and doubled up Raymond at first.

In the last of the eighth Philadelphia made a threatening rally. Flaherty got an infield hit and was forced at second by Knabe. Grant then drove the ball to the clubhouse for a home run, scoring Knabe ahead of him. Magee doubled to right. Bransfield hit to Raymond, who tossed to Devlin and Magee was run down between the bases. Devlin then ran across and touched Bransfield before he reached second.

Brooklyn's New Pitcher Wins.

Brooklyn tried out Pitcher Knetzer yesterday at Washington Park and he made good. Boston went down, 4 to 1. He allowed only six hits and two passes, one of the latter followed by Beck's double, scoring the only run for the visitors. Brooklyn bunched hits off Mattern in the third and fifth, Wheat's batting again being a feature of the rallies. Two fast double plays also held Boston down. It was the fourth straight victory for the locals, who moved up to sixth place. Manager Dahlen, who is under suspension, watched his team win from the grand stand. The score:

Stevens Wins from Syracuse, 1 to 0.

The baseball team of Stevens Institute defeated the nine from Syracuse University yesterday at Hoboken in a close and well-played game by a score of 1 to 0. The game was a pitchers' battle between Coleman, the crack freshman of Stevens, and Thomas of Syracuse. Coleman was touched up for five hits, allowed two bases on balls, and struck out seven men. Thomas held Stevens down to three hits and struck out three batters.

Both sides fielded very well, only one error being made during the game. Harris of Stevens made the only run of the game in the fifth inning, getting to first base on a single, reaching third on a wild throw to first, and crossing the plate on Lansdell's sacrifice. Harris was the only Stevens man to reach second base during the game. The score:

Yale Freshmen Trim Crimson Rivals.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 31.—Playing errorless ball, the Yale freshmen whitewashed their Harvard class rivals 6 to 0 this afternoon. Scott, the Eli pitcher, held the Crimson youngsters down to three singles, preventing an opponent from passing second, and in addition made two singles himself and stole two bases. Hardy was pounded for fourteen hits, including a three-bagger. Four Yale base runners were cut down at the plate, Coon making a clever throw from deep left and catching McCreery. Other brilliant plays were a long running catch into short left by Starkweather, a hard stop and throw by McCreery, and a clever double play, unassisted, by Bennett. McCreery hit Hardy for four singles. Score by innings:

Walsh Defeats Pal Moore.

BOSTON, May 31.—Jimmy Walsh of Boston secured the decision over Pal Moore of Philadelphia at the Armory Athletic Association tonight at the end of twelve rounds of fast fighting. Moore refused to weigh in and Walsh demanded and secured twelve rounds of two minutes each in place of ten rounds of three minutes each. Walsh won the bout by occasional flashes of speed, drawing blood in the fifth.

PERMIT GRANTED FOR THE BIG FIGHT

Board of Supervisors' Quick Action Takes Opposition by Surprise.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—With but two dissenting votes, and without preliminary discussion, the permit for the forty-five-round battle on July 4 between Jeffries and Johnson was granted to-day by the Board of Supervisors.

The board room was crowded with representatives of church and civic organizations, who did not get a chance to voice their protests. The permit was advanced on the board's calendar, and passed before the objectors knew it. When they learned that the permit had been granted the protestants indignantly left the room in a body.

By its action to-day the Board of Supervisors removed the last official preliminary obstacle in the way of the promoters, who will not proceed with the erection of the arena. District Attorney Fickert and the Chief of Police have already announced that they will not seek to prevent the contest.

When the board assembled John L. Herget, Chairman of the Police Committee, moved that "on account of the large number of bids which were to be opened by the board the matter of the permit be advanced on the calendar and taken up immediately."

In making the motion he said he was led to take this step for the convenience of the large number of people who had gathered to discuss the subject.

In the buzz of comment that followed his motion this part of his utterance seems to have been lost on the protestants. The motion was put and carried before the dazed objectors realized that they had lost their chance to be heard.

That Billy Nolan, formerly manager of Battling Nelson, will eventually assume command at Johnson's camp is a story that gained credence to-night. The story is backed by the fight that took place between Manager George Little and Sig Hart, one of the training staff.

As gossip goes, there has been anything but harmony between Little and Hart, and it finally culminated in a physical contest in which Little is said to have stretched Hart out on the road, while the members of the camp were playing baseball. There was an end to the affair only when Johnson gave Little a tongue lashing.

It is said that Little has been shorn of all real authority. Nolan has admitted that he has been indirectly sounded on the subject of taking charge. Nolan was instrumental in having Billy Delaney installed as chief adviser at the Johnson camp.

JEFF AND CORBETT IN ACTION.

Former Champions Have Lively Match, but Neither Puts on Gloves.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 31.—James J. Corbett and James J. Jeffries matched against each other in a exciting handball game was the main event at the former champion's training camp to-day. Corbett, who is a star player at handball, had an idea that Jeffries would be easily defeated, but he was wrong. By the time he settled down to hard work at the game Jeffries had a long lead, and won 21 to 7 in the first game. Corbett let himself out after that, and, while he managed to win the next two games and the "rubber," he had to work hard for his victories. Jeffries made 17 in each of the final games.

Because of the continued heat here there was no boxing to-day.

PROTEST AGAINST AUTO BILL.

Autoists to Ask Mayor Gaynor to Disapprove Cullen Measure.

The committee appointed by President Haradon of the New York Automobile Trade Association to wait upon Mayor Gaynor to protest against his approval of the Cullen-Goodspeed bill to amend the Greater New York charter in relation to restricting the use of the Ocean Boulevard, in the Borough of Brooklyn, will be heard through C. Andrade, Jr., counsel for the association, at the public hearing it has been officially declared the measure will receive at the City Hall tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

It is expected that many prominent men identified with the sport and industry who are members of the association will appear before the Mayor with the committee and endeavor to dissuade him from placing the seal of his approval upon a piece of legislation that motorists say is discriminating against automobilists of this city.

Pitcher Doyle Sold to Reds.

WOMEN TIE IN GOLF.

Champion Miss Mix Shares Low Qualifying Score Honors with Miss Hyde.

Miss Julia R. Mix of Englewood, the title holder, and Miss L. B. Hyde of Bay Shore, shared low score honors in the qualifying round of the eleventh annual championship tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, which began over the links of the Montclair Golf Club yesterday. The leaders were in their best form, reeling off the full round in 90. Miss Mix's score was not unexpected, but the fine total of Miss Hyde, who is new to the competitive game in this district, came as an agreeable surprise.

Not in years has a metropolitan championship been favored by such a representative entry. There were forty-four starters, and so fast was the pace that only those with scores of 96 or better qualified in the first eight. Closely following the leaders came Mrs. W. Fellowes Morgan, of Baltusrol, who for years has played a more or less prominent part in various National and district competitions. Mrs. Morgan played in her best form yesterday, getting around in 91.

The scores of those who qualified follow:

First Eight.—Miss Julia R. Mix, Englewood, 90; Miss L. B. Hyde, South Shore Field Club, 90; Mrs. W. Fellowes Morgan, Baltusrol, 91; Mrs. M. D. Paterson, Baltusrol, 95; Mrs. L. Swift, Englewood, 95; Mrs. S. F. Lefferts, Englewood, 95; Mrs. W. J. Faith, Wykagyl, 96; Mrs. T. H. Polhemus, Richmond County, 96.

Second Eight.—Mrs. H. R. Stockton, Plainfield, 99; Mrs. L. H. Hornblower, Essex County, 101; Mrs. N. P. Rogers, Baltusrol, 101; Miss L. Graham, North Jersey, 105; Miss Gould, Siwanoy, 105; Mrs. F. Hayes, Midland G. C., 106; Mrs. F. E. Douglas, Montclair, 106; Mrs. R. O. Smith, Montclair, 107.

Third Eight.—Mrs. C. W. Rendigs, Englewood, 108; Mrs. S. O. Pickman, Montclair, 109; Miss A. K. Robinson, Richmond County, 111; Mrs. H. R. Salmon, Forest Hill, 111; Mrs. S. A. Goodman-Bedell Bout Off.

The hoodoo which has hung over the Fairmont Athletic Club's show for this week has not been in any wise dissipated. After several changes in the programme President Billy Gibson has called off the entertainment which had been scheduled for to-night between Jack Goodman and Joe Bedell, and which was in itself a substitute for the bout between Jack Goodman and Jem Driscoll that it had been planned to hold last night. Goodman found yesterday that he could not possibly get into the shape that he felt was due the members of the Fairmont Club for his contemplated bout with Bedell, and so Sammy Kelly, Goodman's manager, last night asked Gibson to cancel the proposed entertainment. This Gibson did, and so the Bronx organization will be dark to-night.

FITZ HERBERT WINS $6,000 BROOKLYN

Turf Champion Never Headed for the Handicap at Gravesend's Opening.

About as lucky a race horse as ever galloped over a prepared track won the $6,000 Brooklyn Handicap yesterday when Fitz Herbert, first from end to end, and just about straight when he got to the winning post under a beautifully perfect ride by Jockey Eddie Dugan, flashed by the judges a length before the horse that always is promising, Olambala, with the stout 3-year-old Prince Imperial, a rather poor third.

The time, just a fraction slower than the record for the big event of the opening of the Brooklyn Jockey Club's Spring meeting on the Gravesend track, since the course was established by the Dwyer Brothers in 1887, marked a fairly creditable performance, though as the race was run it looked as if the owners and trainers of the field that ran conceded the stakes to Fitz Herbert, and the horses opposing him were ridden under tactics that made stronger the public belief in the superiority of Fitz Herbert, whose fame rests chiefly in the fact that he won fourteen out of fifteen races that he ran in last season and earned a total of nearly $35,000 through his excellent fortune in happening in a year of mediocrity for the entire make-up of the American turf.

The race for the Brooklyn was the big event of a racing day that commonly makes a turf holiday, but the Memorial Day racing, with the stake programme at the closing of Belmont Park, took much of the run out Philip J. Dwyer's best attraction of the year, and the attendant circumstance of a dismal day cut the attendance down to the shadow of former Brooklyn Handicap patronages.

Fitz Herbert, switched back again to the colors of S. C. Hildreth after his recent sale for a supposed raise of $10,000, transferring him to John E. Madden, with a post position out in the middle of the track, broke best and went straight on under his top weight of 130 pounds. Every other horse in the field settled back to wait, Prince Imperial, ridden by Guy Garner, taking the worst place possible, right on the heels of the odds-on favorite and pacemaker. Fitz Herbert, after a flick of the whip to hurry him away from the post, never was really extended in the race, and though he was tiring a bit at the end he won with something to spare, a length before Olambala, which in his usual style made a strong bid for the stakes in the stretch, but started about three jumps too late to ever be really dangerous.

When Fitz Herbert was 2 years old it was a rather usual happening for his heart to grow watery and the champion to curl up and stop and many indifferent horses beat him. Last year, when he lost his only race of the season, a rather ordinary filly, in James R. Keene's Affliction, beat him. Fitz Herbert's winnings now are enormous and he may rate with Ethelbert, his sire, holder of a so-called world's record for the now unusual distance of two miles and a quarter in 3:49 1-5, made for the Brighton Beach Cup in 1900.

Hitz Herbert was bred by Perry Belmont and is by Ethelbert, he by Eothen-Maori by Poulet-second dam Queen of Cyprus. Fitz Herbert's dam is Morganatic, following up the line of knowledge of a certain period in English history, which Mr. Belmont has immortalized in his choice of names, through Mrs. Fitz Herbert, Morganatic, by Emperor-Lassie, down to Fitz Herbert.

Thomas Welsh saddled the winner of the Criterion Stakes in the Newcastle Stable's Bashti, by Adam, dam the stout and fast mare Disadvantage, once owned by a New York poolroom man. Mr. Welsh had many an anxious moment before Bashti, back in the rear of the front division, closed with a splendid run from fourth place in about the last furlong and snatched the $3,500 stakes in the last jump by a head from Housemaid, the pacemaker, until Bashti caught her right on the winning post. It was a ride by Jockey Guy Garner that fully atoned for his ride on Prince Imperial, in which he probably rode to orders.

Sir John Johnson came on at the finish of the first race with a bulging run after Madman made the running, Sir John Johnson winning by a half length from the pace maker. Blackford, a warm favorite, just did squeeze home first a head before Black Mate in the selling mile and a sixteenth, the two "blacks" being the best supported horses in the field of twelve that ran, including O'Connor, left at the post.

Big Stick led past the judges after a dizzy pell-mell race in the selling sprint over the short six-furlong course, for 3-year-olds, half a dozen of the fourteen runners whipping out through the last furlong.

Sebago went on to win by a length in the last race after James Butler's high-priced Dartworth led into the last furlong to stop there and finish fifteenth in a field of sixteen. Mr. Butler entered racing last year with liberal purchases of supposedly choice young horses. His treatment by the chances of the turf up to date has not been kind. The summaries:

POLO STARS PLAY FOR CUP.

Meadow Brook Team Defeats Great Neck in Fine Game.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT NECK, L. I., May 31.—Championship polo was seen this evening at Gracefield, when the first teams of the Great Neck and Meadow Brook Club lined up in the second match for the Second Great Neck Challenge Cup.

The four members of the team who won the International Cup from England last Summer in such masterful fashion played on the two teams, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., and Harry Payne Whitney, playing on Meadow Brook, and Lawrence Waterbury and Devereaux Milburn upholding the honors for Great Neck. Meadow Brook won by a net score of 10½ goals to 6.

Mounted on the best of ponies, both teams played a decidedly dashing game, which was replete with high-class polo from start to finish, regardless of a field that was heavy and slippery, owing to a downpour of rain yesterday. Many of the prominent residents of the vicinity were in attendance.

Meadow Brook shut out their opponents from scoring until the commencement of the fifth period, when L. Waterbury hit a goal handily and followed with another after being well supported by D. Milburn and Russell Grace.

Great Neck was again shut out in the sixth and seventh periods, but divided honors with the winners in the last seven and a half minutes of play.

The combination plays of Whitney and "Monte" Waterbury were in several periods particularly brilliant and effective, resulting in several scores. The line-up and summary:

GREAT NECK.		MEADOW BROOK 1.
1—W. R. Grace	1	1—J. S. Phipps	4
2—L. Waterbury	9	2—J. M. Waterbury, Jr.	9
3—D. Milburn	9	3—H. P. Whitney	9
Back—G. Milburn	3	Back—H. C. Phipps	5
Total	23	Total	27

Total score: Meadow Brook—By earned goals, 12; lost by penalties, 1½ goals. Total, 10½ goals.

Great Neck—By allowed handicap, 4; by earned goals, 3; lost by penalties, 1 goal. Total, 6 goals.

Referee, H. H. Holmes. Timer and scorer, S. H. Geer.

COOPERSTOWN WINS FINAL.

Captures Van Cortlandt Cup by Defeating Port Chester by 10 to 8¾.

The final polo match for the Van Cortlandt Cups was played yesterday afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park between Cooperstown and Port Chester, and the former quartet carried off the honors by a score of 10 to 8¾. The losing team came within an ace of snatching the victory from Cooperstown in the last period, when the combination scored four goals. Excellent ability was displayed, and Cooperstown was on the defensive during the concluding seven and a half minutes of the match. Had the Port Chester team shown the same play during the early stages of the game the victory would have undoubtedly gone to its credit.

The victory by Cooperstown was the third which the team has won this season. The first came in the play at the Westchester Country Club, and the second was the capture of the Squadron A Cups in the first half of the present tournament.

The condition of the field yesterday mitigated against fast work. The going was heavy, and the footing for the ponies uncertain. There were no falls, however, which was due to good luck. The match was witnessed by a large crowd, many automobile parties being lined up along the side of the field. The Port Chester team made a change in its line-up yesterday, "Phil" Boyer being replaced by H. M. Earle. The line-up and summary:

COOPERSTOWN. Position.	Hdcp.	PORT CHESTER. Position.	Hdcp.
1—E. S. Reynal	4	1—J. H. Hunt	2
2—C. P. Beadleston	2	2—L. Nielson	3
3—M. Stevenson	4	3—H. Leavitt	3
Back—F. S. Van Stade	3	Back—H. M. Earle	3
Total	13	Total	11

Cooperstown—Goals earned, 10. Allowed by handicap, 0. Lost by penalty, 0. Total, 10. Port Chester—Goals earned, 7. Allowed by handicap, 2. Lost by penalty, ¼ goal, safety by Leavitt. Total, 8¾. Goals scored—Stevenson, 3; Beadleston, 2; Von Stade, 2; J. H. Hunt, 2; H. Leavitt, L. Neilson, 3, and H. M. Earle. Time of game—Eight 7½-minute periods. Referee—Lorillard Spencer, Jr.

LEMBERG FOR DERBY.

Lord Rosebery's Horse, with Danny Maher to Ride, Second Choice.

LONDON, May 31.—Interest is centred again on the Derby, the classic event of the English turf, which will be run to-morrow at Epsom Downs, and to-night Mr. Frairie's Lemberg is the favorite at 5 to 4. Lord Rosebery's Neil Gow is second choice at 5 to 2, Charles O'Malley and Greenback are equal third choices at 8 to 1.

Last year the Derby was captured by King Edward's Minoru, and prior to the running of the event excitement was at fever heat over the prospects of a driving finish between Minoru and the American horse Sir Martin, owned by Louis Winans. This year, however, the American entries look to have small chance for victory. August Belmont's Merry Task, by Octagon, is low in the list, while nearly all the other American entries have been withdrawn.

The Derby stakes are of 6,500 sovereigns and the distance is about a mile and a half.

Compared with other Derbies, the race to-morrow will be comparatively tame, although there will be fifteen starters. The weather promises to be only fairly fine.

The real contest, it is believed, will lie between Lemberg and Neil Gow. Lord Rosebery hopes to win his fourth Derby with Neil Gow, but there have been rumors that the colt has developed lameness. This Lord Rosebery denies, and Danny Maher, who will ride him, is said to be quite confident of success. It is said that Maher will receive the largest fee on record if he wins.

King James Wins Toronto Cup.

TORONTO, Ontario, May 31.—Over 10,000 persons attended the closing day of the Ontario Jockey Club's Spring meet this afternoon. The track was fairly good. The feature race was the Toronto Cup, with $5,000 added, which King James, S. C. Hildreth's great handicap horse, won easily. Jack Atkin made a rush through the stretch, but could not get up.

King James was 1 to 2 in the betting. He was ridden by Shilling. Fulfill, 8 to 1, with Guy Burns up, was second, and William Pitt, at 40 to 1, was third. Time—1:53 4-5.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 31.—Money was in moderate supply and demand to-day. Discounts were easy on yesterday's gold purchase by the Bank of England.

The Stock Exchange, in the absence of buyers, ruled dull and uninteresting. The tendency was downward in most sections except Grand Trunks and Peruvians, which hardened on bear convering. Consols showed a loss of ⅛.

Bar silver, steady, 24⅝d per ounce.

Money, 3½@4 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3½@3⅝ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months bills is 3⅝ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted at Madrid 6.90; and at Lisbon 10.50.

PARIS, May 31.—Trading on the Bourse was dull and hesitating.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Goes Still Lower—Corn and Oats Decline—Cotton Excited—Trade Heavy—Prices Very Weak.

Liquidation in the wheat market, together with demoralized foreign markets and favorable weather conditions over the holiday, forced wheat values to still lower levels both in Europe and America. The cables were decidedly weak, showing a heavy decline since Friday, and Europe has dropped as fast as America. Foreign statistics were bearish, with large world's exports, and heavy pressure was reported of cash wheat from other countries. European prices have declined to below 90c a bushel in Liverpool for the future deliveries, and the weakness abroad has been fully as great as the weakness in America. This has proved discouraging, as it has been hoped that the foreign markets would develop some steadiness which would bring the markets nearer an export parity. The weather was very favorable in all sections. Crop reports are generally favorable, although the advices from the Central West and Southwest are not so optimistic as they were, and even the bears are admitting considerable damage. The visible supply showed a heavy decrease. The American total was 1,897,000 bushels less than the previous week, while the Canadian total decreased 1,525,000 bushels, making a net decrease of 3,422,000 bushels, against a decrease of 842,000 bushels last week, and a decrease of 2,653,000 bushels last year in the United States. The market showed a fair recovery from the low point, closing rather unsettled.

Cash wheat was quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.04, nominal, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, free on board afloat, for export, $1.05½; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.10, nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, nominal, and No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, 96⅛c.

Corn was weak, and at the opening showed pronounced selling as a result of the decline in wheat and on the more seasonable weather conditions throughout the corn belt. There was considerable selling on stop orders. Later, a better tone prevailed, and prices rallied sharply and covering was active during the afternoon. The visible supply showed a decrease of 1,051,000 bushels following a decrease of 1,239,000 bushels last week, and the increase of 1,349,000 bushels last year. Weather conditions were favorable, but there were a great many complaints that a large amount of replanting is necessary. Cash corn was quoted; No. 2, 64½c, nominal, elevator, domestic basis, and steamer, nominal, elevator, export basis.

Oats was also weak and active. The weather conditions were favorable and crop reports were excellent. Weakness in wheat and corn early precipitated a great many orders on the market, but later prices showed some recovery, although buying generally appeared to be conservative. The visible supply showed a decrease of 511,000 bushels. Natural white oats were quoted at 43@45c, and white clipped at 43@47½c.

Trade in hog products was very quiet during the morning, with prices about steady. Later the business became more active, and the market was quite irregular, influenced by the fluctuations in the near-by positions. After midday there was some selling pressure, and prices eased off, but closed fairly steady.

COTTON.

There was a heavy break in cotton and for a time a demoralized market. After a morning of weakness, the selling at midday became overwhelming and prices declined $4 a bale on July, with later deliveries also very weak. The early decline seemed to be due to favorable crop and weather news. There was also heavy selling by warehouses thought to be acting for Chicago. The heavy break in wheat caused uneasiness over the possibility that liquidation in cotton might be forced and bears become more aggressive. As soon as the May delivery was over, at midday, there was a decided raid made at the market and stop orders were uncovered in very heavy volume. Trading was the most active since the collapse in January. Selling by longs who had expected a bull movement in May at the wind-up was an important factor in the market. The bulls gave but little attention to the market. When the selling became so heavy they simply stood aside and let prices drift. Later there was a partial recovery, but the market was extremely unsettled and irregular. Weather conditions were fine. There has been a marked improvement in this respect and the crop news is more optimistic. The National Ginners' figures showing a condition of 80.2 with 1.1 per cent. increase in area, the Giles report of 80.4 in condition, and the report of a local cotton house and a Southwestern paper both showing gains of 3.8 per cent. in area, were all considered satisfactory and had bearish influence.

New York spot cotton was 80 points lower, or $4 a bale. Sales were 25,500 bales, making 97,763 bales this month. Deliveries were 39,500 bales, making 335,500 bales for the month. At $75 per bale, the sales were in value about $7,300,000 and the deliveries about $25,000,000. Southern spot markets unchanged to ⅛c decline.

New York spot cotton easy, 80 decline; middling uplands, 14.50; middling Gulf, 14.75.

COFFEE.

Coffee declined under disappointing European cables and a break in Santos. At the close prices were 3 to 6 points net lower, with sales of 21,750 bags. Havre was unchanged. Hamburg was ¼ pfennig decline to ¼ advance, and in Brazil Rio was unchanged, while Santos showed a decline of 50 to 100 reis. There was considerable switching from July into September at 15 points, while shorts in July were the best buyers, and were also inclined to put the coffee out again in September. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 60,826 bags, against 67,533 the previous week and 58,542 last year. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States is 2,989,636 bags, compared with 3,463,112 last year and 3,547,505 two years ago. In the cash market trading was again very inactive, with a poor demand, but prices were about steady to 8⅛c for Rio No. 7.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Tuesday.

An enormous volume of selling carried prices down on the Consolidated Stock Exchange in the final three hours of business. With the news from Washington of the Administration plans to prevent the railroads from raising freight rates, the market changed from comparative dullness to great activity. That much selling was for bearish account was evidenced by the way stocks were bid for at the close of the day, when many of the professionals who had gone short were satisfied to secure the large profits that had accrued to them. Sales totaled 191,890 shares, the greatest since April 28 last. Fifty-seven different stocks were on the list.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

FEDERAL ACTION A FACTOR

Railroad Shares Break on News of Administration's Move to Enjoin Rate Increases—Commodities Off Again.

A break which may truthfully be described as violent occurred in railroad shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday upon the receipt of Washington dispatches reporting President Taft as having instructed Attorney General Wickersham to institute suit to enjoin Western railroads from putting into effect the increased rate schedules recently adopted. At their lowest figures Reading shares registered a decline of above 5 points, the loss in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific was nearly 4 points, and that in Great Northern, Northern Pacific, New York Central, St. Paul, and a half-score additional prominent railroad issues about 3 points. Naturally such breaks immediately affected the general market, which before the close of the afternoon session, within which all this happened, had gone through a period of semi-demoralization, finishing the day with sentiment generally depressed and prices at or near their lowest quotations. Undoubtedly bearish speculators made the most of the opportunity offered by the Washington news, but it was genuine liquidation growing out of the uneasiness created by the Administration's wholly unexpected step which provoked the break. The comment most frequently heard in the financial district, on the institution of this action against the railroads was that it came late in the day. The rates which the Western roads submitted to the Inter-State Commerce Commission practically a month ago were to have gone into effect to-day, and while shippers in the territory affected had protested as individuals and by means of their organizations against the advances proposed there had been no least intimation that the Government, through the Department of Justice, would intervene. In railroad circles the belief had been that complaints might come before the Inter-State Commerce Commission after the institution of the rates, and that individual cases would then be decided by the commission upon their merits, with appeals to the courts where these were desired. It is not surprising, therefore, that the direct intervention of the Government under circumstances recalling the tactics of the previous Administration should have provoked the consternation which followed the step yesterday. Curiously enough, the lack of necessity for such measures was revealed, at least to Wall Street's satisfaction, in the "Missouri River rate" case decision handed down by the United States Supreme Court at almost the very moment when Mr. Taft was instructing his Attorney General to act. In the Missouri River case the Supreme Court simply set its approval upon the reasonableness of a sharp reduction which the Inter-State Commerce Commission ordered in rates fixed by a number of the Western roads some time ago. Resort to the methods adopted at Washington yesterday, especially in view of the outcome in the Missouri case, impressed financial circles as a political expedient pure and simple and thus opened up a vista of agitation and litigation so unpleasant as to make the relinquishment of excess holdings of railroad shares seem for the moment at least the part of wisdom. So little was known of the attitude of the Administration in the matter, however, that fuller reports of the purposes and intentions of the Government are awaited with the keenest interest. All other happenings were, of course, overshadowed by the news from the National capital, but they included, nevertheless, further significant and drastic declines in cotton and weakness in wheat, as well as the publication of April earning statements by several of the country's largest railroad systems, including Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, the figures of which in their substantial gross increases and trivial net returns explain the difficulties, in the way of higher operating costs, which the railroads are facing, and for the relief of which they have instituted the campaign for higher transportation rates.

Money conditions were practically unchanged. Call money was again in ready supply at quotations approximating those of last week, while in the foreign exchange market expectations of the appearance of the credits created by the recent sales of American securities abroad sufficed to keep rates in check. Discounts were easy at London, where the Stock Exchange of the day was effected by rather precipitate liquidation of a weak French account in rubber, oil, and mining issues.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

After Sluggish Opening Stocks Make Small Declines in the Curb Market.

SOME LOSSES IN COPPERS

Several Issues Sell Off Fractionally and Close at About the Lowest—Cobalt Stocks Weak.

Trading on the Curb yesterday, after an indifferent opening, with a slim attendance of brokers, was more active in the later session when declines were under way. The market closed at about the lowest, although losses were less, comparatively, than on the Stock Exchange. Among the coppers to make declines Chino Copper and Miami each lost ⅜. Ray Consolidated closed ¼ below the opening, at 18¾. Davis-Daly and Greene-Cananea each declined ⅛ on light trading, and Ray Central, which reported transactions of 3,500 shares between 2 15-16 and 2 11-16, closed at 2 13-16, 1-16 below the opening. Ohio Copper was one of the most active issues, selling 12,300 shares from 2⅝ down to 2¼, after touching 2 13-16. The Cobalt issues made small losses.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—A sharp drop in Lehigh Valley and the arbitrage group this afternoon was about the only response vouchsafed by the local list to the weakness in Wall Street. Valley lost about 2 points in all on sales aggregating about 1,000 shares. Pennsylvania improved, while Reading, after an early bulge, reacted rather sharply.

Timber Bonds and Stocks

We are specialists in these securities.

The consumption of timber is increasing. The supply is diminishing. Timber values are rising. You find safety and large profits in timber securities.

Timber worth $1.00 in the standing tree is worth over $10.00 when cut into logs.

Write us for details of timber enterprises now making large profits, that have been investigated by our experts, and are recommended by us.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News Helping the Bears.

Traders welcomed the market's break on the news from Washington of the Administration's intention to seek to enjoin the Western railroads from putting the higher freight rates into effect. Comparing notes last week, some of the bigger speculators, chafing under the recent dullness, decided that if the market failed to do better this week on such excellent bullish developments as the great sales of American securities abroad and continued declines in wheat and cotton, it ought to do worse. They were quite prepared, therefore, to help it down when liquidation appeared following the receipt of the Washington dispatches. Oddly enough, with our foreign trade situation undergoing slow correction and with the prospects of good wheat and cotton harvests brightening every day, a very considerable number of traders remain persistently bearish, without being able to advance other than purely technical reasons for their attitude. Shocks to the market like that of yesterday make their position one to take into account.

Tale of a Gates Errand.

The small but select group of the faithful who steadily regard Mr. Gates as the greatest Wall Street personality of recent years has evolved an interesting theory to account for the sailing of the Gates party for Europe some days ago. The stockholders of the Texas Company, which is Mr. Gates's pet hobby now, have just authorized an increase in its capital stock from $18,000,000 to $36,000,000, and adopted resolutions empowering the Directors in their own good time to declare a stock dividend and to list the company's securities in London and Paris. The theory is that, while ostensibly headed for Norway, Mr. Gates is really planning to move on Paris, and if possible to bring about the listing of his company's shares on the Paris Bourse before Steel common obtains that privilege. Mr. Gates's adherents admit that this would be quite a feather in his cap, especially so in view of the stories circulating through Wall Street at the time Gates & Co. dissolved, the purport of which was that his wagers were considered too bizarre to entitle him to rank with leaders in high finance. The Paris listing might change all that.

⁂

Extra Session and Consolidated Gas.

The ease with which Consolidated Gas slid down yesterday from 142½ to 137¾ was used to point a moral on the fatuity of counting on Albany in these regenerate days. A week or so ago, when the stock was going up, traders said that after the Legislature adjourned on May 27 the company would be free to do a little more for stockholders without fear of interference, and bought in the hope that the long-standing predictions of an increase in the dividend would be made good at last. The news of the extra session has once more upset calculations, and those who were bullish on the Albany conviction that Gov. Hughes would not act are said to have done most of the selling yesterday. That the Directors of the company should boldly follow their own convictions in the dividend matter does not seem to fit in with traders' reasoning.

⁂

Prospering in Montreal.

The hard times which have fallen on brokers here and in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, and other cities which boast Stock Exchanges, with a resultant universal decline in the prices of seats in the last few months, has not been felt across the line, where the chief activity is in the silver stocks. A seat on the Montreal Exchange sold yesterday at $28,000, which is a new high record, and about $3,000 higher than the price around the first of the year. New York Stock Exchange seats, which were then selling at $93,000, have since declined to $74,000.

Why the West Needs Money.

A little deal in land which a Union Pacific official went into not more than a few years ago, somewhat against his will, is an illustration in point to explain the volume of funds absorbed in Western land speculation at present levels of valuation. The lands in question are along the line of the Harriman railroad, and with the Union Pacific official it was largely a question of loyalty which induced him to buy eighty acres at $20 an acre. In the short interim while the boom has been under way those eighty acres have advanced from their original cost of $1,600 to a valuation, for which they could undoubtedly be sold, of $40,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Isaac N. Seligman of J. & W. Seligman & Co. sails to-day on the Mauretania for Europe. He will not return until October.

Edwin A. Seasongood, for many years connected with Speyer & Co., and George C. Haas have formed a copartnership for the transaction of a general brokerage and investment business in bonds and securities, under the firm name of Seasongood & Haas, with offices at 100 Broadway.

Drexel & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., and Estabrook & Co. are offering the unsold part of $5,500,000 Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Company bonds, to yield 5.30 per cent.

The 1910 edition of the Manual of Statistics, the thirty-second annual issue, is ready for distribution. It covers Government securities, mining stocks, and the grain and cotton statistics. The edition also devotes attention to the newer railroad or industrial companies, and gives the many changes in dividend payments which have occurred down to the date of its issue.

Samuel Redfern, who has been with the Mercantile National Bank for twenty-five years, was appointed assistant cashier yesterday.

PRODUCE EXCHANGE GAINING.

Finances Improved and Membership Increased—The Crop Outlook.

The annual report of the New York Produce Exchange shows an improvement in the institution's financial condition. The year, according to the Treasurer's report, shows a net surplus of $65,783 from gross receipts of $846,863. Membership decreased by death in the year to the number of 66.

President Welding Ring says of the outlook for crop prosperity:

"The outlook for crops this year is so far favorable, indicating a good yield of Winter wheat, and with large seeding of Spring wheat no doubt an increase in the total crop will be realized. Should the present conditions continue until the harvests are well assured we may look forward with reasonable hope to a year of full prosperity."

TO PASS ON ROAD'S FINANCES.

State Board Authorized to Validate New Haven's Securities.

BOSTON, May 31.—The joint Committee on Railroads voted to-day to report favorably to the Legislature the bill for an examination of the finances of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad by the joint Board of Railroad, Tax, and Bank Commissioners.

The bill gives the board authority to validate the securities of the company if it finds the assets intact and sufficient.

The peculiar advantage of Dow, Jones & Co.'s news service was strikingly exemplified yesterday when it published at 12:50 p. m., the announcement from Washington that "the President and the Attorney General have practically decided to sue to enjoin proposed increases in freight rates by western traffic associations."

After one o'clock, when the market was breaking badly on this exclusive news, other news services were casting doubts upon this valuable information by publishing their inability to get any confirmation thereof.

THEN, AGAIN, Dow, Jones & Co. published the official announcement at 1:59 p. m., fourteen minutes in advance of its publication elsewhere.

HASKIEL SILBERMAN.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Haskiel Silberman, dealer in clothing and general merchandise at Haverstraw, N. Y., have been filed by Louis M. Taylor because Mr. Silberman has not filed them, as he is said to have gone to Germany. They show liabilities of $3,492 and nominal assets of $71,376, consisting of proceeds of sale of stock and horse $100 and suits for $71,276 on claims for damages for negligence which resulted in the death of his wife and son, and for injury to his business and property. The suits are pending in Kings County, and are against the Village of Haverstraw for $35,638, and against the Excelsior Brick Company, John W. Gillis, James W. Gillis, J. Eckerson, John Nicholson, John Reilly, Everett Fowler, and Lucien Washburn for $35,638.

S. BLUMENKROHN CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the S. Blumenkrohn Company, manufacturer and retail dealer in cloaks and suits at 841 Broadway, by Cohen, Creevy & Richter, attorneys for these creditors: Empire Cloak and Suit Company, $2,216; Altman & Weinberg, $1,011, and Felix Hessberg, $76. The company was incorporated on Feb. 24, 1902, with a capital stock of $30,000, which was increased to $100,000 on May 19, 1905. Siegfried Blumenkrohn is President and Isidore Blumenkrohn Vice President. The liabilities are said to be $130,000 and the assets $100,000. A petition in bankruptcy was filed also against Siegfried Blumenkrohn, individually, because he indorsed some notes of the company, by Milton J. Vogel, a creditor, for $500 for money loaned on Jan. 2. His assets are estimated at $50,000.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Resale of Subway Loop Plot at Handsome Profit—$2,000,000 Trade Involving the White Building and Spencer Arms—Many New Structures Planned.

By the resale yesterday for immediate improvement of one of the large Centre Street plots sold on May 24 on behalf of the city by the Public Service Commission additional proof was given of the readiness of large commercial interests to establish permanent quarters in that locality. The plot that has just been resold includes the entire block front on the west side of Centre Street, between White and Walker Streets, about 16,176 square feet. This plot, which in the recent sale was held at an upset price of $150,000, was purchased by Samuel H. Stone for $210,000.

Mr. Stone yesterday announced that he had resold the property at a good advance to a syndicate of prominent hardware men, and it is their intention to erect at once on the entire plot a large fireproof loft suitable for the hardware and paper trades. The entire investment, including the new building and land, will involve over $1,000,000, being the largest operation of its kind in that section of the city for some time.

The new structure will be in the centre of the wholesale hardware business, and it will naturally exert a decided influence in maintaining the old established centre of the hardware trade, and to a large extent the paper industry in the quarter where these interests have for many years been prominently located.

In connection with this property there are two interesting features, showing that the late owner secured the plot at a most reasonable price. It is assessed at $280,000, and the city paid $400,000 for it as fixed by the Commission of Award. While the city retains easement rights for the subway loop, this particular plot was the choicest for investment of all the parcels offered at auction, as the easement in this case only affects a small portion of the front of the block.

Spencer Arms in $2,000,000 Trade.

An important deal involving the exchange of two high-class buildings in different parts of the city, the monetary value involved being about $2,000,000, was announced yesterday. The two buildings were the Spencer Arms, a twelve-story apartment erected a few years ago on the southeast corner of Broadway and Sixty-ninth Street, and the White building, at 95 and 97 Liberty Street. The former, occupying a plot 112.10 on Broadway by 161.9 on Sixty-ninth Street, was held at $1,500,000. While the White building, a twelve-story office structure, on plot 29.10 by 118.3, adjoining the northeast corner of Church Street, figured in the deal at slightly over $500,000.

The trade was negotiated by the Charles F. Noyes Company, the contracting parties being the Spencer Realty Company and Mrs. Mary P. Satterlee, the latter being the owner of the Liberty Street building.

The entire block between Liberty and Cortlandt Streets from Broadway to Church Street is divided into three ownerships, the Singer Manufacturing Company and the City Investment Company being the other owners.

The Spencer Realty Company, of which Robert S. Finney is President, has received an offer to resell the Liberty Street property, but no action will be taken until the company receives its title to the property, which figured in the trade at $500,000.

A lease of the Spencer Arms for twenty-one years on a net basis has also been closed by the Noyes Company for the new owners.

Buys 26th Street Houses for Loft.

A large sale of four old-fashioned dwellings in the midtown loft section was made yesterday by the H. M. Weill Company to Joseph Pigner, and the new owner will immediately improve the property with a high-class twelve-story loft. The houses sold are 134, 136, 138, and 140 West Twenty-sixth Street. The first two have been owned by Joseph Michel for thirty-six years. He paid at the time $30,000 for them, the plot being 37.6 by 98.9, and the present selling price was $90,000. The adjoining house, No. 138, was owned by Charles Gachot and No. 140, a four-story house, with a 25-foot frontage, by Henry Harburger, both of whom recently acquired them through the same brokers, who have resold the parcel. The total frontage controlled by the new owner is 81 feet.

It is reported that the estate of Julius T. Livingston has sold 1,492 and 1,494 Amsterdam Avenue, a six-story apartment house, on plot 40 by 100, adjoining the southwest corner of 134th Street.

The site is 105 by 100. The Davenport Theatre is within three blocks of the Subway station and within two blocks of the elevated road, with trolley facilities on both sides.

Wyckoff Park Sale.

Over a thousand persons attended the lot sale conducted by Joseph P. Day at Wyckoff Park, Queens, Monday. Prices obtained were good. The offering comprised 250 lots adjoining the Woodhaven station of the Long Island Railroad. Eight years ago, in the same section, lots were for sale at from $200 to $350. Yesterday 150 lots were sold at prices ranging from $600 to $1,000.

Lease Restricted to Low Building.

George M. Gillies leased 18 West Twenty-first Street for the Henry Phipps estate to the Building and Engineering Company. The lease is for a term of twenty-one years and provides that no building exceeding four stories in height shall be erected during the term of the lease. This secures permanent light for the twelve-story loft building which the Building and Engineering Company is erecting on the property immediately adjoining on the west.

New Home for College of Dental Surgery.

Plans have been filed for a four-story college to be built on the south side of Thirty-fifth Street, 72 feet east of Second Avenue, opposite St. Gabriel's Park, for the New York Dental College, now at 20 West Fourteenth Street, to be known as the College of Dental and Oral Surgery. The building will be fireproof throughout, with a façade of brick, having a frontage of 78 feet and a depth of 88.9 feet, with an extension. In the basement will be a forge and metallurgy rooms. The fourth floor will contain a room for oral surgery, the John. I. Hart operating room, an anesthetic room, which will take up one-half of the floor. John B. Overlooking the lake, and in other ways admirably situated with many natural advantages, the property is still further made of interest in that it is the terminus of the new motor parkway to Lake Ronkonkoma.

J. Arthur Fischer has leased for John W. Flint to Manfrini & Lana the four-story building, 873 Sixth Avenue, for a term of years. The lessees will make extensive alterations and will occupy the same for the restaurant business.

Facts about Mt. Vernon.

Transportation—present:

New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R., 131 trains a day. All express and electric. First stop Mt. Vernon. 18 minutes from 125th St. 28 minutes from 42nd St. 35 minutes from Wall St. Trolleys connecting with "L" or Subway loops at Bronx Park.

Transportation—future:

New York, Westchester & Boston Rapid Transit & Electric R. R. To be completed in September, 1911. Will have five stations in Mt. Vernon within a radius of two miles—one at Lincoln Av., five minutes' walk from Chester Hill Park.

Home surroundings.

Artistic houses with healthful environments. Mt. Vernon is primarily a place of residence, and the business interests of the city are subservient to those who occupy the residences. About half of the area of the whole city is restricted to residential purposes. The civic interests of the residents of Mt. Vernon are well demonstrated by the many handsome public buildings, the well laid out avenues, shaded with many beautiful trees, and the lawns and gardens about their homes. Think what effect this working together of the people of Mt. Vernon for the benefit of MT. VERNON MUST HAVE UPON ITS REAL ESTATE values—think how high they must go. Every new railroad ticket sold to Mt. Vernon is helping the real estate of Mt. Vernon—every new family moving to Mt. Vernon is increasing the value of real estate in Mt. Vernon. Think what a good investment real estate in Mt. Vernon must be.

At Chester Hill Park on Saturday afternoon, June 4, on the property, at 2 P. M., rain or shine, an auction sale of 250 improved lots will be held.

First Account of the Ascent of Mt. McKinley

This highest peak in America baffled such famous mountain climbers as the Duke of Abruzzi and every one else who attempted it until a party of hardy men of the Northwest set their faces against peril and finally planted the Stars and Stripes on its top—the top of the Continent.

The story of that climb, with its attendant dangers and hardships, is told for the first time in

Next Sunday's Times

It is a modest tale of men who have done something, and done it beyond dispute. They carried a camera with them, and the photographs taken on the hard, grilling ascent accompany the article.

Every one should read this convincing story of dogged pluck and perseverance. These men had no other purpose in making the trip than to conquer the grim mountain that had defied the world so long.

How they did it is told in a simple diary kept from day to day. Read it in

FOSDICK UNEARTHS MORE QUEENS GRAFT

Under Sheriff Phillips to be Asked to Explain a Discrepancy in City's Plumbing Bills.

CASSIDY'S EYE ON GRESSER

Said to be Laying His Lines to Succeed the Borough President If He Should Go.

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick found another office holder in Queens County yesterday, whom he brought to the attention of the Grand Jury. He reported to Mayor Gaynor that Under Sheriff John M. Phillips, head of the John M. Phillips Association, seemed to know much about plumbing bills and vouchers for them that a Grand Jury might be interested in.

One plumbing bill was specified. It was on a billhead of William H. Allen, a plumber, living at 233 Radde Street, Long Island City. The amount specified was $422.80 for work on the Queens County Court House, but the voucher was found to be slightly irregular in that the address of the plumber had been scratched out on his billhead, and the address of the John M. Phillips Association written in instead.

The Commissioner of Accounts in looking up the history of the warrant in payment of the voucher found that it had been issued by the Controller on Nov. 16, 1908, and had been mailed to the address of the Phillips Association, which is also the headquarters of the First Assembly District of Long Island City. It had been indorsed by Allen to Phillips, and had been cashed at the branch of the Corn Exchange Bank in Long Island City on Nov. 24, 1908.

To explain the circumstances of the case Allen, the plumber, was put under oath, and testified to nothing in particular. Next day he voluntarily made himself a witness again, and this time testified that on the previous visit he had tried to protect Phillips, but was now ready to confess and make a clear breast of the whole transaction.

He then told how he had done certain work in the Court House, having been given the contract to do it after a conference between President Gresser and Under Sheriff Phillips. After completing the work he had been paid $115 in bills, the money being handed to him by Phillips in a saloon underneath the headquarters of the Phillips Association. That was the last he had heard of the matter. Phillips had, however, asked him for four of his blank billheads, and had asked him to sign an affidavit saying that the services specified had been performed and were necessary. He had signed the affidavit and had furnished Phillips with the billheads, but had never heard of the voucher, and had received none of the $422.80 collected in his name. His indorsement, he testified, had been forged.

Phillips, when put under oath, testified merely that he had no knowledge of the transaction at all, and did not remember anything about it, although he recognized his handwriting on the indorsement making Allen's voucher payable to himself.

In Queens County, the fact that another borough official had been added to the long list of those ensnared did not cause so much interest as the fact that President Gresser had been consulted before the crooked transaction was carried out. As each day's evidence is developed, bringing Gresser nearer and nearer to the centre of the Commissioner's fire, a grave political crisis begins to loom ahead of the voters and the Aldermen of Queens. It is whether or not Joseph Cassidy is to be permitted to march into power upon the tide of popular disapproval of Gresser or whether when the test comes a candidate allied with neither of the prevailing political machines will be selected.

Cassidy is known to be out for Gresser's place, with the assertion that he already can control two of the three votes necessary to elect. They are the votes of Aldermen known as Cassidy Democrats, and while Cassidy has never before had a chance to depend upon them, he has been loyally supported by their predecessors in office, nominated by the same system and under the same obligations.

Cassidy might have three of the Aldermen except for the fact that in the last election Gresser, backed by ex-Sheriff Harvey and "Paddy" Mara, the man who got the contracts when Gresser gained his power, ran Cassidy closely for control, and took away from him the District Attorney and two of the Aldermen. As the fifth man was a Republican, he was counted as a neutral.

The two-to-two situation among the Aldermen was credited with being the cause of a remarkable political conference between three political leaders, supposedly at war, but who were willing to meet far from the eyes of their adherents, in a remote section of Nassau County, over the border from Queens. The meeting was at Hall's Hotel, in Centreport, and those who attended it traveled in automobiles, piloted thither by the Cassidy car, with Cassidy himself as its principal passenger.

Those present were "Paddy" Mara, ex-Sheriff Harvey, ex-Boss Cassidy, and a son of President Gresser, who is active in politics on his own as well as on his father's account.

The four leaders, once they were seated in the hotel lobby, began to make comparative statements of strength. Both sides claimed two Aldermen each.

The Harvey-Gresser-Mara trio suggested to Cassidy that he name some one less prominent than himself for Borough President, delivering to the candidate the two votes he could control, while for certain concessions in the borough organization the Gresser-Harvey forces would deliver to this same man their own two Aldermen, thus giving him a vote to spare, and with an obligation to appoint Harvey-Mara subordinates.

It was said the conference accomplished nothing for the reason that Cassidy would have to be himself or no one. Cassidy has delivered such ultimatums before, and in consequence this one was taken seriously. Once he did it when he became a candidate against Gresser for the position vacated by President Bermel in spite of the advice of the leaders of Tamamny Hall.

The fact that Harvey and Cassidy found an issue on which to take counsel one of the other is generally conceded in Queens to be an indication that they share a common fear that some one not of the organization will slip into power in Borough Hall if President Gresser is removed.

The five Aldermen who are to choose a Borough President in case a vacancy occurs are Daniel Entholt of Long Island City, Alexander Dujat of Newtown, Frederick Snell of Bayside, Peter Brady of Far Rockaway, and W. A. Shipley of Jamaica.

The Aldermen elected on the Independence League ticket with Gresser and counted on as in his camp are Entholt and Snell. The Cassidy Democrats are Dujat and Brady. Shipley is a lone Republican, and therefore not counted as a partisan of either side, although the control of his vote would give a badly needed majority to either camp possessing it.

Cassidy's constant ambition since he was voted out of office has been to work his way back in again, and in furtherance of his plan he has never allowed his organization to go to pieces.

Matthew J. Goldner, ex-Sewer Commissioner, who is under indictment, sailed for Germany yesterday, a few hours after his counsel had demurred to the indictment against him and had asked that it be dismissed. It is thought that Goldner's trial will not be held until next Winter, although there is a disposition in some sections to have it rushed through at once.

TELEPHONE CO. RECEIVERS.

The American Union Faces an Indebtedness of $700,000.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 31.—Judge Rellstab of the United States District Court to-day named Charles West of Philadelphia and Frank D. Hock of Harrisburg, Penn., receivers of the American Union Telephone Company, each receiver giving a bond of $100,000.

Counsel stated that suits had been started against this company, which operates 70,000 telephones in Western Pennsylvania and lower New York State, and that it would soon have $700,000 of indebtedness which it could not meet. He charged that this condition of affairs had become acute through the failure of the Continental Telephone Company to take care of the indebtedness in the arrangement by which the Continental Company was to acquire the American Union and other companies.

Argument on the return of the rule to show cause why the Continental Company should not go into the hands of a receiver was adjourned for a week.

TO RELIEVE BISHOP GREER.

Diocesan Missionary Society Proposed to Care for That Part of His Work.

The illness of Bishop Greer, due to overwork, has caused leaders in the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New York to consider new plans. It is felt that the old machinery has been outgrown. It is now proposed to create a Diocesan Missionary Society that shall relieve Bishop Greer of much of his present burden.

A body of 100 of the younger laymen have proposed that such an organization, provided with a small governing body and a large co-operating committee representative of the entire diocese, shall maintain one official head, possibly a new Bishop Suffragan, and have one Treasurer who shall be a sort of financial agent for the diocese.

Such organization shall, it is proposed, do three things: Help existing parishes and missions; co-ordinate extension work in the Counties of Dutchess, Westchester, Richmond, and the Bronx, and help all parishes and missions to pay their respective shares of the $235,000 needed annually for missions in the West and foreign land.

This new missionary method is now being put into successful operation in St. Bartholomew's, St. George's, St. James's, St. Mary the Virgin, St. Agnes's Chapel, Zion, and St. Timothy, and other leading parishes, and William Jay Schieffelin, William E. Curtis, E. R. L. Gould, Stephen Baker, George S. Gorham, John A. Ely, James May Duane, Charles Lyon Russell, George F. Parker, Edward R. Finch, and others are urging the plan upon parishes. It is proposed immediately to formulate a speakers' bureau, whose members shall go to the parishes and tell them of this new method.

AUTOMOBILE BILL SIGNED.

Machines Are to be Taxed and Chauffeurs Must Be Licensed.

ALBANY, May 31.—Gov. Hughes signed to-day the Callan bill providing for the registration of automobiles and the licensing of chauffeurs, a measure which it is estimated will yield an annual revenue to the State of about $1,500,000.

Automobiles of 25 horse power or less are to be taxed $5; between 25 and 35 horse power, $10; between 35 and 50 horse power, $15, and $25 for all others except commercial vehicles, which are to be taxed at a flat rate of $5. Chauffeurs are to pay an annual license fee of $5 each; and will be compelled to carry licenses containing their names, photographs, and general descriptions.

The new law goes into effect on Aug. 1. After this year machines are to be licensed on Feb. 1.

HEARING ON BETTING BILLS.

Gov. Hughes Sets Aside an Hour on Friday for Jockey Club.

ALBANY, May 31.—At the request of The Jockey Club, Gov. Hughes will give a hearing Friday at 2 P. M. on the three Agnew-Perkins bills designed to strengthen the anti-race track gambling laws. The Jockey Club contends that the legislation is ambiguous and desires to have it interpreted.

That the Governor intends to devote only an hour to the hearing is evident, as he has fixed 2 P. M. the same day as the hour for hearing arguments on the "White Rats" Theatrical Employment Agency bill. The Torrens law amendments will also get a hearing Friday afternoon.

TAFT WON'T APPROVE ALASKA SUBSIDIES

Announces That Bills Granting Aid to Railroads Will Not Meet with His Favor.

UPHOLDS BALLINGER IDEA

Committeemen, Accused of Aiding the Guggenheims, Charge That Lobby Has Pressed Such Measures.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—President Taft announced to-day that during his Administration he would not lend his approval to legislation designed to give Government aid to specific railroad interests in Alaska. Instead, he would favor a general law which would apply to all who complied with its provisions; a law modeled after the policy which for years had been in effect in the Philippine Islands.

The announcement came in the shape of Executive approval of an adverse report made to Congress by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger on a bill which proposed specific aid to the Alaska Great Northern Railroad. The fight over this bill is said to have developed much of the controversy waged before the committees of Congress. The backers of the bill have set up the charge that those who opposed their measure were "controlled" by the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate. Gov. Clark, former Gov. Hoggatt, and Lewis P. Shackleford, Republican National Committeeman from Alaska, have all been included in these omnibus statements. The White House statement reads:

> The Secretary of the Interior was asked to give his opinion to the Committee on Territories of the House in respect to House Bill 22,537, "to aid in the construction of a railroad, telegraph, and telephone line in the Territory of Alaska, and to secure to the Government of the United States the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes." The bill proposes to give Government assistance to a particular railroad mentioned therein. To that the Secretary of the Interior replied:
>
> "It is believed that any Government aid in the construction of trunk lines of railroad generally in Alaska should be extended only after routes have been recommended by a competent board of Government officers and approved by the President or some competent executive authority, after bids shall have been invited for the construction of lines of railroad over such routes as may have been approved in this manner. This department deems inadvisable the enactment of legislation granting Government aid to any particular railroad corporation as proposed in the bill under consideration."

The letter was on May 18, 1910, forwarded to the President for approval before its delivery to the committee, and received his full concurrence.

Committeman Shackleford, in a statement issued to-night, commends Mr. Taft's attitude. He charges that a "special crowd" has been trying to get bills through Congress which would give them valuable franchises to sell. He declares that a lobby is maintained in Washington, and that Delegate Wickersham is interested in such legislation.

"They haunt Congress and various financial centres with such schemes," he says. "If any one refuses them aid he is immediately accused of being interested with some of the railroads that are now building in Alaska without any special legislation and without any Government aid."

He proposes an investigation of these lobbyists and the connection of the delegate from Alaska with them.

HOMEOPATH COMMENCEMENT.

College Which Controls Flower Hospital Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary.

The fiftieth commencement exercises of the New York Homeopathic Medical College and Flower Hospital were held last night in Mendelssohn Hall. Melbert B. Cary, President of the Board of Trustees, gave diplomas to twenty graduates. The college and hospital will devote to-day and Thursday to a celebration of the anniversary. Flower Hospital is the only hospital in the country owned and controlled by a medical college.

The Rev. Dr. Merle St. Croix Wright delivered the principal address last evening. He told of the finding by archaeologists of evidences of prehistoric surgery. The operation of trephining the skull was performed thousands of years ago, he said. Skeletons have recently been found, he declared, with smooth sutures perfectly healed which showed that prehistoric surgeons performed this delicate operation with rare skill and courage.

Dr. Copeland, Dean of the college, called attention to the work done by the college and hospital in the fifty years since its foundation, with William Cullen Bryant as President of the Board of Trustees. He praised the alumni for their efforts to get $25,000 for additional laboratory equipment, and announced that to-day special clinics would be held at the college and hospital for their benefit and that of the profession generally. There will be a vaudeville performance and smoker for the alumni at Terrace Garden to-night.

There will be two features of the semicentennial celebration to-morrow, a public meeting in the afternoon at Mendelssohn Hall and a dinner in the evening at the Hotel Astor. Dr. Hamilton Fish Biggar of Cleveland, John D. Rockefeller's physician, will speak at the afternoon meeting. Ex-Senator Spooner of Wisconsin will speak at the dinner.

Assembly Supports Draper's Veto.

BOSTON, May 31.—The veto by Gov. Draper of the bill fixing eight hours as a day's work for public employes was sustained in the House to-day. The vote was 84 to 73 in favor of passing the bill over the veto, but this was not the necessary two-thirds.

ORDERS METROPOLITAN SALE.

Court Holds to the Upset Price of $10,000,000 on Both Mortgages.

Judge Lacombe, of the United States Circuit Court, in a memorandum filed late yesterday, ordered that the foreclosure sale of the Metropolitan Street Railway under both the Guaranty Trust and the Morton Trust mortgages shall be held on July 1, and that the $10,000,000 upset price fixed on the sale under the prior one of these two mortgages shall cover the sale under both. The sale will be held on the steps of the County Court House, where a few weeks ago an unsuccessful attempt was made to conduct a sale under the $12,500,000 Guaranty Trust mortgage which has priority over the $16,000,000 Morton Trust mortgage with respect to most of the property of the railroad.

Judge Lacombe put a quietus upon the proposition advanced by Bronson Winthrop, counsel for the Morton Trust Company, that inasmuch as both issues of bonds were represented in the same committee the sale under the prior mortgage could be allowed to go by default and the property then be purchased for a nominal sum under the second mortgage through the assumption of the approved claims by the purchaser. This was the purport of a form of decree of foreclosure submitted by Mr. Winthrop ten days ago at a hearing, and Judge Lacombe called attention to the Ethiopian concealed in the woodpile at the time.

In his yesterday's memorandum he states frankly that if such an attempt is made to evade the upset price which the court has fixed it will be within the power of the court to reject all bids and order another offering of the road at auction. This attitude by Judge Lacombe will probably materially hasten the formulation of a reorganization plan for the Metropolitan system, for if the sale under both mortgages is actually to be held July 1 the reorganizers will have to borrow $10,000,000 somewhere to bid in the property and to pay interest on this money pending the definite reorganization.

If, on the other hand, they had been allowed to default on the first offer and bid the road in for a nominal price on the second, the reorganization might have been delayed indefinitely, while the reorganizers carried on the various negotiations over the reduction of rentals and reduction of taxes, of which THE TIMES has told heretofore.

MEMORIAL TO "VAN AM."

Columbia Students and Alumni Hang Pictures in the Classrooms.

As a memorial to Dean J. Howard Van Amringe, known to the students as "Van Am," on his retirement this June, the students and alumni of Columbia University presented to their Alma Mater yesterday a gift in the form of interior picture decorations for Hamilton Hall, the home of the academic department of the university.

The pictures were hung so that they might have both an artistic and an educational value. On the third floor, occupied by the Romance language department, may be found French, Spanish, and Italian pictures. One flight up and the hallway decorations show unmistakable signs of their relation to things Germanic. This is the department of Germanic languages. On the fifth floor, where the departments of Latin and Greek are situated, one of the most interesting pictures is the "Mort de Socrates."

English and philosophy flourish on the sixth floor of Hamilton Hall, and there the pictures of Goldsmith and Shakespeare find themselves in agreeable company. Among the pictures relating to American history are large-sized representations of Grant and Lincoln. "The Battle of Austerlitz," another of the historical pictures, is one of the best in the group.

All the pictures belong to the Van Amringe Memorial Collection. The committee in charge of the memorial hope to make even more extensive decorations, it being intended finally to beautify also the lecture rooms, the walls of which are now bare.

CLASS DAY AT BARNARD.

Seniors Celebrate with Songs and a Class Dinner.

Barnard's graduating class assembled at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in their old place on the college steps to sing college songs. Miss Eleanor Myers of 1912 then stepped forward and read a farewell poem to 1910. Next the formal ceremony of handing the senior place on the steps over to the junior class took place. This was followed by a special class day song.

The seniors then went back to the college, where they had a class dinner. The commencement exercises will be held to-day.

NEW HALL FOR PITTSBURG.

St. Louis Capitalists Offer to Build One to Cost $5,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 31.—By an ordinance introduced in Councils to-night, St. Louis capitalists, represented by Arthur N. Sagre, former District Attorney of St. Louis County, propose to build a new City Hall for Pittsburg. They offer to lease the site of the present market house from the city for ninety-nine years and to erect thereon a twenty-three-story building as a market, office building, and City Hall combined.

The ordinance provides that the building shall cost not less than $3,000,000 and cover the space now occupied by both markets, the leasehold estate to be bonded to provide the necessary funds. Market and Diamond Streets are to be arched, providing a thoroughfare through the structure, and the city paid one-third of the net income from the building and to have suitable offices for its various departments.

The proposal is made on a three-million-dollar basis, but if the project succeeds the building is to cost about $5,000,000. The offer is made because the city itself has not been able to furnish the money for the improvement, owing to other pressing financial needs.

DOGS OF CLASS ON SHOW.

More Than 1,700 Entries for Exhibition Which Opens at Mineola To-day.

The Ladies Kennel Association Show, which closed with the largest entry on record, with the exception of the big show held in Madison Square Garden, will open at Mineola to-day at 10 A. M. There are 1,737 entries, with 862 actual dogs. The greatest interest is shown in the meeting of the many noted importations of West Highland white terriors, a breed which has rapidly attained the highest popularity. Among the best-known exhibitors of this practically new breed are Mrs. Archibald S. Alexander, Mrs. A. Henry Higginson, Mrs. Arthur H. Vesey, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. Charles Bradley, J. Searle Barclay, Jr., Payne Whitney, Robert Goelet, and Andrew Albright, Jr. The judge of this class will be J. J. Holgate of Doncaster, England. The other foreign judge will be Midgley Marsden. He will pass upon most of the sporting breeds and the Pomeranians.

YOUR derby is out of place on your head. It belongs in your hat box. Straw Hat time now.

Come in to-day and see this season's styles: Wallach Straws, Jay's English Straws, fresh from Piccadilly, and Italian Sennets made by G. B. Borsalino, fu Lazzaro & C. Your most becoming hat is here. Come, get it now—$3 and $2.

Real Panama Hats—$10 ones, because we have special buying facilities, here,—$5.

When We Buy Straws We Talk "Car-Loads" to the Manufacturer

We say: "Here! This hat looks good to us—looks good for a thousand dozen. Your price is fair, but we expect better bands, better inside trim, and better workmanship. Make them up at your leisure, and make them right." That thousand dozen of one number looks good to the biggest of them and those little improving touches that we suggested give to our hats that distinctive character and intrinsic three dollar value which you can't get elsewhere.

Come in to-day—your visit will be mutually beneficial.

A SPLENDID HAZARD

JUST OUT

MacGrath's Best Novel

Harold MacGrath has done it again. America's most popular writer of romances rings thirteen. In A Splendid Hazard he outdoes himself. It is a present-day adventure tale, mingling enterprise and love in an irresistible blend.

A great-grandson of Napoleon figures in A Splendid Hazard. It is redolent of the incomparable Corsican. The glory and the glamour of Napoleonic legend are about this romance of up-to-date America.

Never has a story-teller so delightfully enveloped the here-and-now with the romantic grace of other days.
